$2,200,000 GOAL SET IN COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN

Amount Is $200,000 Above Objective Last Year When Pledges for $2,004,112 Were Obtained.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS TO BE ENROLLED

he Community Fund goal for its ninth annual campaign was set at $2,200,000 last night after the Executive Committee had received a report from the committee that examined the budgets of the 51 participating agencies in St. Louis and the county. The amount sought is an increase of $200,000 over that of last year, when pledges of $2,004,112 were obtained.

Sidney Maestre, campaign chairman, said the committee hesitated to set a goal because the need is so great.

"Even though the minimum goal is reached there are many vital needs which can be provided for only by an oversubscription," he said.

The formal campaign for subscriptions will be conducted Nov. 10 to 20. Leaders met at breakfast this morning to arrange for enrolling subscription workers. Maestre said residents of both city and county are volunteering for duty on the various teams. "No one will be able to say he was not asked to give, and no one will be able to say conscientiously that he was not made aware of the need," Maestre said.

Challenge to Community.

Because of widespread unemployment the situation this year is an emergency in every sense and must be met in that spirit," Maestre declared.

"Unless donors give in the spirit of self-sacrifice, far in excess of previous giving, the goal cannot be reached. The Community Fund this year is the greatest challenge that has come to this community, and it will have to be met if widespread suffering and distress are to be avoided.

"Relief and health needs are far higher than ever before. Needs of the character building agencies, which are engaged in buttressing the morale of those shaken by occupational dislocations, also are acute. Population growth in the past year has brought its proportion of burdens.

Retrenchment Unthinkable.

"Retrenchment in human services at this time is unthinkable. The answer must be sacrificial giving on the part of those who have.

"The Community Fund is a public trust. It is not only a sound principle of action, but a necessity that the minimum needs, together with all the facts relating to them, be made fully clear to the public and that opportunity be given to all citizens to contribute money for the several purposes involved.

"The goal of $2,200,000 represents the very least on which the agencies can do the work the public expects them to do in the coming year."

Ethan A. H. Shepley is chairman of the Executive Committee which fixed the goal for the drive. Other members are: George M. Berry, Harold M. Bixby, Daniel C. Catlin, Lionberger Davis, Samuel C. Davis, Alfred Fairbank, James L. Ford Jr., the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, Daniel N. Kirby, Bert H. Lang, George B. Logan, E. D. Nims, Fullerton Place, Frank C. Rand, Bishop William Scarlett, E. H. Steedman, I. A. Stevens, Harry B. Wallace and Erastus Wells.

SPEED BOAT FIRED ON, SUNK, ANOTHER HELD BY COAST GUARD

Crew of Vessel Thought to Have Been Liquor Runner Are Unharmed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 24.—The speed boat Helen, thought to be a liquor runner, was fired on and sunk early today off Napatree Point, New Watch Hill, R. I., and the speed boat Pueblos was captured by Coast Guardsmen. Both craft are of Bridgeport.

Lieut. Jewell, in command of the C. G. 134, one of two boats which participated in the chase, said the crew of the Helen, a 35-footer, was unharmed. The other patrol boat engaged in the affair was C. G. 234.

No liquor was found aboard the Pueblos. This craft was towed to the local Coast Guard base. The number of men aboard the two boats and their names were not disclosed.

WEALTHIEST MAN IN JAPAN HAS INCOME OF $1,400,000

Baron Hachiroemon Mitsui Member of Famous Financial House; Iwasaki Is Rival.

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—Baron Hachiroemon Mitsui, head of the House of Mitsui, the titans of economic Japan, continues, as for many years, the wealthiest individual in the empire. Income tax assessments for 1930 show that he must pay 25 per cent on an income of 2,800,000 yen ($1,400,000).

Next comes Baron Hisaya Iwasaki, senior partner of the Mitsubishi interests, who is rated at 2,400,000 yen a year. The Iwasaki family is the principal financial rival of the House of Mitsui.

Of 13 incomes assessed at more than 1,000,000 yen, six belong to Mitsuis and three to Iwasakis.

Only two of the 13 live outside Tokio, Baron Kichizaemon Sumitomo of Osaka and Shinbei Inui, Kobe money-lender. Inui recently has been an unwilling Tokio resident, occupying a cell in Ichigaya prison under indictment for fraud.

JAPAN'S O K ON NAVY TREATY DELIVERED 3 DAYS EARLY

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Oct. 24.—The Japanese instrument of ratification of the London Naval treaty arrived in England today aboard the Leviathan, winning by three days a race with time to get it here for deposit of ratifications at the foreign office, 10 Downing street, Monday.

Pierre Deboal of the United States State Department delivered the Japanese document. A secretary from the American Embassy was assigned to meet the boat train this afternoon and, with Deboal, call upon Ambassador Matsudaira with the document, which airplanes carried across America from a west coast boat to the Leviathan.

American Drowned in Germany.

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 24.—The body of a drowned man found near Brokdorf Oct. 11 was identified today as that of Dr. John Campbell, a Detroit physician. Authorities were unabe to state how Dr. Campbell met death but assume that he fell overboard from a ship about Sept. 25.

JOE AIELLO, RIVAL OF CAPONE, SHOT DEAD BY GUNMEN

ATTACKED FROM THREE POSITIONS

One Police Theory Is That He Had Connection With Lingle Murder — Aonther Gangster Slain.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Joe Aiello, one of the few remaining rivals of Scarface Al" Capone as a gang leader, a reputed alcohol king, partner of George (Bugs) Moran, and with Moran listed by the Chicago Crime Commission as a "public enemy," was shot and killed last night as he left the apartment of Patsy Presto, an importer, on North Kolmar avenue.

The body of John Guida, reputed member of the "42" gang, was found behind the bar of a deserted West Side saloon today, the second victim of underworld assassins in 24 hours. He had been dead 12 hours. A single revolver bullet through the head had ended his life. Police started search immediately for Joseph Liebrick, proprietor of the saloon. Their first theory was that Guida had been killed in an extortion plot against the saloon.

Presto disappeared following the shooting and is being sought today by the police. One report said he was thought to have been wounded. Witnesses said they saw him fall. They declared he was dragged to his feet by several men who carried him into one of the cars used by the assassins.

Seventeen or more bullets were fired into Aiello's body from machine and other guns placed in three different positions.

Shots From Third-Floor Window.

As he stepped out of the Presto apartment, presumably to enter a cab that was waiting to take him and Presto to his home, machine gun fire opened from a third-floor window of an apartment across the street. Aiello turned and fled into the vestibule and attempted to arouse someone in the apartment. Finding his way blocked by locked doors, he fled into the apartment courtyard only to meet the fire of machine guns coming from a window of a building to the north. Fleeing to the rear of the court in an attempt to escape over a back fence, he ran into a fusillade of shots coming from the basement of the building housing the Presto apartment.

A police Sergeant and James Duane, a cab driver, who had responded to a previous call from Mrs. Presto for a cab to take Aiello and her husband to Aiello's home, took the wounded man to a hospital, but he died before his arrival.

Thus was added another victim to the long list of gangsters slain in the strife that had its beginning in the murder of Dion O'Bannion in 1924 and which included the machine gun killing of seven followers of Moran a year ago last St. Valentine's day in a North Clark street garage.

Various Theories of Police.

Various theories were advanced by police in a possible explanation of Aiello's murder. One of these was that the gangster's death might have had some connection with the killing June 9, last, of Alfred J. Lingle, a reporter for the Chicago Tribune, known as a friend of Capone. Some officials said they suspected Capone.

Other theories were that Aiello's assassination might have been prompted by his wish to control the destinies of the Unione Siciliane, which was at one time dominated by his friend. Tony Lombardo, who was killed at Madison and Dearborn streets some years ago. Presto at one time was a partner of Lombardo. Another report was that detectives had hinted that a New York gang, headed by a man known as "Joe the Boss," and thought to be connected with the Unione, might have been involved.

A Burke-McGurn Teory.

One police theory was that Capone henchmen engineered the slaying. Fred Burke, notorious killer, and Jack McGurn, Capone machine gunner, the police said, resembled the descriptions of two of the several men living in apartments in the neighborhood prior to the shooting.

Police had few clews, a burned automobile, a pair of worn gray gloves, a thumb print on a chocolate drop.

BRITAIN TRYING TO ELIMINATE RITES AT WAR MEMORIALS

Requests Foreign Nations to Abandon Ceremonies at Tomb of Unknown Soldier.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—With hope of soft-pedaling war memories, the British Government has asked other foreign Governments to eliminate ceremonies at tombs of the unknown soldier and cenotaphs in future official receptions.

No formal statement of transmission of the request has been made, but Foreign Office officials confirm that the step has been taken with the intention of discouraging perpetuation of war memories and the bitterness engendered by them.

The conclusion is drawn that henceforth no official visitors in England will be taken to the cenotaph or unknown warrior's tomb to deposit a wreath, and that British delegates to foreign countries will not participate in such ceremonies.

Some objections to the Government's step were voiced. The Telegraph declared that the public would learn of the suggestion with amazement.

Ramsay MacDonald's efforts in behalf of peace are recalled in comment on the proposal. Simplicity of last year's armistice day celebration at the cenotaph was regarded as possibly the beginning of the movement which the Government hopes now to make worldwide.

TWO FLYERS, ONE AMERICAN, KILLED IN CRASH NEAR PARIS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Gilbert Lane, an American aviator, and his French flying companion, Pierre Nicolas, were killed today when a plane in which they were taking off from Le Bourget field for Cairo, Egypt, and Adis Abeba crashed and was destroyed by flames. They were going to Adis Abeba to witness the coronation of Ras Tafari, as Emperor of Ethiopia.

The accident occurred after Lane and his companion had spent some time in trying to get off on their long journey with a heavy load of gasoline and oil. Their first efforts to get the plane into the air had been unsuccessful and they had been forced to discharge some of their load.

Lane, who enlisted in the French Army during the World War, it is understood, was born in Paris, of an American father and French mother. He was said to have been the youngest aviator in the French army.

RYCKOFF CHANGE OF VENUE HEARING ENTERS SEVENTH DAY

Newspaper Accounts Concerning Lighting Fraud Charges Presented.

Defense attorneys continued to read Post-Dispatch files to Circuit Judge Green today in the effort of the Ryckoff street lighting fraud case defendants to obtain a change of venue to an out-State court. It was the seventh day devoted to the change of venue hearing.

The attorneys contend that newspaper stories, editorials and cartoons have aroused public feeling against A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, John C. Pritchard, former Director of Public Utilities, and George B. Heath, former electrical engineer for the utilities department, to such an extent that a fair trial cannot be given the defendants in St. Louis on the charge of obtaining $157,064 from the city by false pretenses through overcharges on a street lighting contract.

Circuit Attorney Miller is opposing the application.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 24.—Michael Cudahy Jr. of the Chicago meat packing family was divorced today by Muriel Evans Cudahy, former movie actress, whom he married at Riverside, Cal., July 6, 1929.

Cudahy did not appear to contest the divorce.

Previous to the marriage young Cudahy attempted to elope with the actress, but was returned to Los Angeles by Sheriff's deputies on orders of his mother, who later gave her approval.

Mrs. Cudahy charged cruelty. "He was always nagging me," she testified, "and he was always breaking engagements for no reason at all. I would have to go alone and sometimes he would not come home until 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning."

Norman J. Gawne, a friend, corroborated her testimony. He added young Cudahy once told him he was sorry he ever married the actress.

GIRL KILLED, FOUR HURT WHEN AUTO GOES INTO RAVINE

WOMAN IS FATALLY INJURED IN CRASH

Miss Delilah Aulgur, 18 years old, 1526 Louis avenue, Brentwood, was killed and four young companions were injured when a small roadster, in which they were riding, ran off North-and-South road early today and plunged to the bottom of a 15-foot ravine.

The scene of the accident was the winding hill curve in North-and-South road, midway between Manchester and Clayton roads.

George Volker, 18, the driver, told police he was taking his friends home at 1 a. m. following a party at his home, 1528 Helen avenue, Brentwood. "I was driving north at about 30 miles an hour and made the first part of the curve without trouble. The machine picked up speed on the incline and left the road at the second turn," Volker said.

Others in the roadster were Dorothy Thomuse, 16, 1707 West Yale avenue, Richmond Heights; Elevine Cottle, 15, 7403 Manchester avenue; and Alvin Engelhard, 18, 8212 Manchester avenue. All were pinned beneath the overturned car, but, with the exception of Miss Aulgur, they suffered only minor injuries. Miss Aulgur suffered a fractured skull and was pronounced dead at Deaconess Hospital. The injured were treated at St. Mary's Hospital. Volker was turned over to Mounted District police pending an inquest.

Miss Aulgur was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Aulgur, and was employed as a sales girl in a downtown department store.

Woman Killed as Auto Hits Light Pole.

Mrs. Bonnie Chapman, 29, 1401B Woodland avenue, Richmond Heights, was killed at 5:50 p. m. yesterday when her head was crushed against a street light standard as she started to jump from a runaway automobile driven by another woman in Loughborough avenue at Carondelet Park.

Mrs. Chapman was returning home from a bridge party with Mrs. Nellie Hampel, 3663 Rutger street. Mrs. Hampel turned out of the east drive of Carondelet Park into Loughborough avenue and swerved to avoid a collision with another machine. She lost control of her car, which jumped the south curb, grazing a street light standard, and continued east along the sidewalk for 100 feet, police report. Mrs. Chapman opened the door of the coach with the apparent intention of jumping out just as the car swerved toward the street, brushing against a second light standard. Mrs. Chapman's head was crushed and her body fell out of the machine, which continued on to the north curb before Mrs. Hampel regained control, and stopped.

Mrs. Hampel, who suffered head injuries, was placed under bond for the Coroner. She was exonerated of blame today, when a verdict of accident was returned.

Mrs. Chapman was the wife of Harry Chapman, a plasterer working in Kansas City. He was notified and arrived here today. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Snorgrass, Tipton, Mo., who is visiting here, and a sister, Mrs. O. E. Carlisle, Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Pankhurst's Daughter Egged.

NEW CASTLE, N. S. W., Oct. 24.—Eggs were thrown at Mrs. Tom Walsh, formerly Miss Adela Pankhurst, daughter of the suffragette leader, Mrs. Pankhurst, today during a political meeting, but the missiles all missed their target. The meeting broke up in disorder and Mrs. Walsh was given police protection. She has been campaigning on behalf of the Nationalists during the State election campaign.

PAYMASTER SHOT DEAD, ROBBERS GET NO LOOT

Flee Empty-Handed After Murder at Factory Door in Salem, N. J.

By the Associated Press.

SALEM, N. J., Oct. 24.—William J. McCausland, 40 years old, paymaster for the Salem Glass Works, was shot and killed by robbers outside the plant today. McCausland was carrying the weekly payroll for the plant's 500 employes, amounting to several thousand dollars.

McCausland had left his automobile and was walking to the door of the plant when three men in a machine pulled up nearby and hailed him.

As the paymaster turned around, police said, one of the robbers stepped to the running board of the machine and opened fire. McCausland fell, still clutching the bag of money.

EX-PRESIDENT OF PARAGUAY KILLED IN PISTOL FIGHT

By the Associated Press.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 24. —Former President Eligio Ayala died today of wounds he suffered in a pistol fight with an employe of the Agricultural Bank, named Bareirs, whom he killed.

The former President was wounded three times in the abdomen. The shooting was the outcome of a personal quarrel.

Ayala was elected President of Paraguay in 1924 and held that post until 1928 when Dr. J. Guggiari was elected and Ayala entered the Cabinet as Finance Minister.

BISHOP CANNON MEETS WITH HIS FOUR ACCUSERS

Charges Now Are to Be Referred to Special Committee of Church.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 24.—Bishop James Cannon Jr. met yesterday with the four Southern Methodist ministers who have filed charges against him. It was the final conference before the charges are referred to a special investigating committee of the church.

No details of the conference were available but Dr. Costen J. Harrell, one of the accusers, said the charges would not be withdrawn.

PUBLIC DOWRIES IN ITALY

More to Be Granted on Wedding of Boris and Giovanna.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Tomorrow's wedding of Princess Giovanna is to make a number of other brides happy in the future. More public dowries will be created to mark the event.

At the wedding of the Crown Prince last January the King provided for gifts of $26 each to 50 poor girls on the wedding anniversary. The gifts up to a maximum of 20 are made annually till the girl marries.

BOSTON ART MUSEUM AMONG FRAUD VICTIMS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Disclosure that Edward F. Holmes, millionaire director of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, first victimized for $35,000 for two bogus Cima de Conegliano paintings, and on being allowed to return the spurious oils, received from the same source a Velasquez "Portrait of a Man" which actually hung in the museum two months before it was taken down as a fraud, came last night as a surprise development in the District Attorney's investigation of art swindling.

The expose of the swindling of buyers of "rare old paintings" is an offspring of the "rare china racket" which recently resulted in the arrest of one of three alleged conspirators.

The picture swindle inquiry already has furnished leads to Italy, New York City, New York State and Kansas City. Art connoisseurs who think that absolute frankness to prosecuting officials and newspapers is the only effective way of curbing it say the fraud has victims in every art center of the United States.

Cima de Conegliano (Giambattista Cima) was an Italian of the Venetian school, living from 1459 to 1517. Most of his important works are in churches of Venice. Velasquez (1599-1660) was the head of the Spanish school of painting and ranks with the world's greatest artists.

INDUSTRIAL LOAN BRANCH HELD UP; TWO MEN GOT $93

The Industrial Loan Co., 4118 West Florissant avenue, was robbed of $93 at 10 a. m. today by two men, one armed.

They ran from the office after warning Miss Norma Ruedy, the cashier, of 4137 Gano avenue, to keep quiet. There have been several holdups in branch offices of the company, which keeps only a small amount of cash at branches.

DESTROYERS COLLIDE IN FOG

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Navy Department was notified today that three men were injured when the destroyers Claxton and Jacob Jones collided in a fog off San Diego Wednesday night.

The injured men are William D. Dodd, seaman, of 3958 Brighton avenue, Los Angeles; Carl E. Buckley, chief machinist's mate, address not given, and a third whose name was not mentioned in the dispatch. The destroyers are docked in San Diego today awaiting repairs.

RIOTS IN RIO, SAO PAULO; NEW REGIME URGES PEACE

Buildings Set Afire in Federal Capital — Palace Where President-Elect Had Headquarters Is Seized in Latter City.

LARGE NEWSPAPER OFFICE IS WRECKED

Gen. Menna Barreto, Head of Garrison, Represents Civil-Military Group in Demand That Washington Luis Quit.

By the Associated Press.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 24.—Firing against the Government palace in this stronghold of the Washington Luis Federal Government began at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. Julio Prestes, who was to have become president of Brazil Nov. 15, had his headquarters in the palace.

A white flag was run up on the Government building shortly before 3 o'clock, indicating the revolutionary movement had been successful.

The firing in the district where the military barracks are situated ceased and the crowds which had fled appeared again on the streets. Apparently it was all over.

Correspondents who went to the Government buildings found that all officials had fled.

Plants of the newspapers, Gazeta of Soa Paulo and Tribuna of Santos, were set afire.

All members of the former Sao Paulo state government had dropped from sight late today and there were rumors that President-elect Julio Prestes had fled by airplane.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 24.—A correspondent of La Nacion telegraphs that Tasso Fragoso has assumed the dictatorship of Brazil at Rio de Janeiro.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24. — —The government of President Washington Luis, which for three weeks has been fighting a widespread revolutionary movement in Brazil, was overthrown today.

In spite of the general understanding earlier in the day that the President had resigned, he was still refusing to sign a decree of resignation late this afternoon, saying he would leave the Government palace only as a bound prisoner. But, in point of fact, the President is virtually deposed already. The palace is surrounded by military units loyal to the military junta which took over the city this morning.

The blow which overthrew the administration was struck by a group of army and navy officers in Rio de Janeiro itself, a provisional headquarters being set up and a proclamation being issued to all Brazilians to end the civil warfare and to establish peace again.

The coup came shortly after midnight, military police and some troops taking their positions around the presidential residence and cutting off traffic.

Resignation First Refused.

Gen. Menna Barreto, head of the Rio de Janeiro garrison, acting in the name of a civil and military committee, went to the President and demanded his resignation, but for many hours the latter refused to step out of office.

During the early hours of the day the city was quiet, but later gangs of hoodlums made their way through the main streets and attacked the offices of two newspapers which had been supporters of the Government. Furniture was thrown out of upper floors and was burned.

Shortly after noon fires occurred in several places in the downtown area. When the rioters finished their attacks they set six buildings ablaze. Lack of water pressure rendered the firemen all but helpless. Several other blazes were set around a skyscraper on the

CHANLER, ARTIST, LINA CAVALIERI'S EX-HUSBAND, DIES

Known Widely as "Sheriff Bob" Through Brief Career in Politics—Long Ill of Heart Disease.

HIS FIRST STUDY WAS IN SCULPTURE

Turned to Decorative Work in 1905—His Panel "Giraffes," Hangs in Luxembourg Museum.

By the Associated Press.

WOODSTOCK, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Robert Winthrop Chanler, noted artist and former husband of Lina Cavalieri, opera singer, died early this morning after a long illness. He has been in a coma for 12 hours.

For weeks Mr. Chanler had been confined to his summer home here under the constant care of physicians for a heart affliction. His doctors disclosed two days ago that they had been forestalled by his grave condition in a plan to take him to New York City for further treatment. Last night it was announced the patient's condition was such as to cause fear that he would not live another day.

Descendant of Stuyvesant.

Mr. Chanler was a descendant of both Gov. Winthrop of Massachusetts and Peter Stuyvesant, the last Dutch Governor of New York.

Born 57 years ago, on Feb. 22, 1873, he ignored the advice of his family, which wanted him to follow a political career, and turned in early youth to the study of art. His first European study was in the sculpture classes of Mariano Benlliure at Rome, but after a time he turned to painting and took a studio in Paris.

His interest in politics revived, however, on his return to America and he became a member of Tammany Hall and eventually Sheriff of Dutchess County. It was that comparatively unimportant political post which gave him a nickname which clung to him throughout his life. He was known better as "Sheriff Bob" than as Robert Winthrop Chanler, one of America's foremost painters of murals.

Work in Many Collections.

In 1905 he turned to decorative art and decorated the homes of many of his friends. Seven years ago the French Government purchased his panel, "Giraffes," which hangs now in the Luxembourg Museum. The Metropolitan Museum and other American collections also contain examples of his work.

Mr. Chanler was twice married and twice divorced. Lina Cavalieri was his second wife. On the occasion of that marriage, in Paris, Mr. Chanler's brother, John Armstrong Chanler, who changed his name to Chaloner and moved to Virginia after members of the family had him adjudged insane, cabled the bridegroom, "Who's looney now?" The expression became one of the popular slang phrases of the time.

Three years ago it was reported that Mr. Chanler was engaged to Isadora Duncan, the day before she was killed in Southern France.

waterfront housing the American Consulate-General, commercial attache and other consulates.

There was some looting of firearms and jewelry. After traffic had been withdrawn from the streets, the marauding crowd had full sway. About this time the red flags of the Liberal group began to make their appearance. The paraders were unhindered by police or other agencies.

The rioting grew worse as the afternoon wore on. The crowds wrecked the plant of the Journal del Brasil, one of the most important newspapers in the country. There was firing in the streets by both sides.

Apparently No Casualties.

The police took a hand in an effort to stop the disorders about 3 p. m. It did not then appear that there had been casualties.

Gabriel Bernardes, appointed by the revolutionary government as Minister of Justice, announced the Junta would hold a meeting at 5 p. m. to take steps for restoration of tranquillity in Rio de Janeiro. All necessity steps to this end, he stated, would be taken by the military.

Prof. Bruno Lobo of the faculty of medicine, was appointed superintendent of police. He began his duties by calling for student volunteers to take up police duty in the emergency.

But by sundown the riots appeared to have been quieted. Police controlled strategic centers and the great crowds in the street showed good nature, cheering their political idols as they passed.

News of the coup was sent out by radio through the Military Committee, and the strict censorship was lifted in order that news of the latest developments might be sent out of the country.

The provisional general headquarters of officers of the army and navy issued a proclamation published in Diario de Noticias at noon which says:

"The Brazilian nation is anxious for peace. It is tired of the savagery of its latest governments which have insisted upon supplanting the free opinions of opponents which the regime admits it should respect and esteem. It is tired of application exclusively in time of reason of brutal force, crushing by armed despotism and by steel and bullets.

"The lack of comprehension of problems of government by its directors signifies that the nation needs a radical substitution in administrators.

"As it was necessary to act by force, the nation's permanent armed force is acting to convey this will of the people.

"The President of the republic was asked in the name of free Brazilians to leave power—the little power which in fact remains to him—and to confide pacification of the country to Generals of the army and navy.

"Idea Pure Patriotism."

"The master idea of this movement is pure patriotism because it is absolutely necessary to halt the useless spilling of blood and the useless destruction of property—which on either side would be Brazilian blood and Brazilian property.

"The peaceful forces of Army and Navy have joined in national protest against the fighting recently started and they count upon all their brothers in the armed camps, no matter on which side they may be.

"They can best support this movement peacefully as follows:

"Those troops which are still under so-called 'legal' orders must refuse to combat further with the revolutionaries; the revolutionaries must suspend their offensive and hrough plenipotentiaries confer with this provisional government on bases of pacification.

Lists Rules of Conduct.

"Since the present government (that of Washington Luis) did not submit to the national will we now prescribe the following conduct:

"(1) Neither troops nor volunteers will hereafter obey any order of the old government.

"(2) Troops will not attack the permanent forces of land and sea, nor will they fight any force that should attack.

"(3) Troops will not attack police or volunteer forces of any kind whatsoever, but will fight implacably if attacked.

"Five forts have been named as headquarters of this provisional government."

The manifesto is signed by Loao de Deus Menna Barreto, General of Division, and Col. Bertholde Klinger, as Adjutant.

Pernambuco Closes Shops to Celebrate Victory.

PERNAMBUCO, Oct. 24.—A radio broadcast from Rio de Janeiro today said the military school there revolted, the cadets being led by several high army officers.

Shortly afterward it was announced the navy, which has remained loyal to the Government, had joined the revolutionary movement.

When bulletins announcing the new movement were posted by newspapers the people became wild with joy. Banks and shops closed in honor of the victory.

Only Three Major Eastern States Remained Loyal.

The administration fell before a revolution which, beginning Friday, Oct. 3, just three weeks ago, spread rapidly over the entire republic, but three of the major Eastern seaboard States, Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and Bahia, remaining loyal to the Government.

President Washington Luis, whose full name is Dr. Washington Luis Pereira de Souza, assumed office Nov. 15, 1926, and was to have served until Nov. 15 of this year when he would be succeeded by President-Elect Julio Prestes, who recently completed a visit to the United States.

The revolution broke first in the State of Rio Grande do Sul, furthermost south of the divisions which make up the Brazilian Union. Troops formed there under the leadership of Dr. Getulio Vargas, President of the State and defeated candidate in the recent national presidential election.

The States of Santa Catharina and Parana fell quickly into line and a large Southern army was rushed to the Parana-Sao Paulo border, where battles have been in progress for more than two weeks, with conflicting claims of victory. The fighting has centered about Itarare, railroad point, on the Sao Paulo border.

In the north, forces from Parahyba, one of the original revolting states, moved southward under Capt. Juarez Tavora and on the night of Oct. 11 took Pernambuco, or Recife, establishing a revolutionary junta there. Capt. Tavora moved southward with volunteers gathered about him as he progressed and quickly subdued Government forces in the seaboard states of Alagoas and Sergipe, almost without contest. He was last reported to be moving on the city of Bahia.

The revolutionary movement in Central Brazil developed principally in the State of Minas Geraes, in which the Central Government threw most of its defending troops. In this State the Rio de Janeiro Government seemed to have the best of matters and claimed victory after victory.

Dr. Getulio Vargas, shortly after inception of the revolution, left his presidency of Rio Grande do Sul in the hands of Dr. Osvaldo Aranha, Liberal politician of the state, and assumed personal command of the armies beating at Sao Paulo's back door along the Parana state border.

A few days ago he arrived at Curityba to take actual charge of the armies, which were calculated to approximate in the south possibly 80,000 men. Gen. Miguel Costa was in command of the rebel vanguard and had led the insurgents in most of the fighting in the south.

Dictatorship Charged.

The insurgent movement was based primarily on charges of a dictatorship of the metropolitan districts, including Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and Bahia, from which the rural districts, such as Rio Grande do Sul and Santa Catharina, cattle-raising areas, were allegedly excluded. The Liberal party, headed by Getulio Vargas, charged it was defrauded in the last presidential election.

Just as in other South American republics in which the Governments were overthrown this year, charges of extravagance and misappropriation of public funds, were made by the insurgents.

The Government charged by statement and inference that the revolution was inspired by Communistic agitation and cited the red flags used by the insurgents in support of the contention. The insurgents answered this charge with a statement that the red flag had always been the flag of the Liberal party leaders. At Pernambuco, the provisional Government issued emphatic denial that there was a Communistic tinge to the movement.

Throughout, the Government insisted it had the movement under control. As late as Wednesday night dispatches from Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro said that except for arrival of occasional groups of wounded the two cities were calm and normal and that it was almost unthinkable that a revolution or civil war existed only a few hundred miles away.

At the inception of the movement the Government declared a 15-day holiday for all banks. On expiration of the 15 days, Oct. 21, the banks were allowed to reopen and function normally except to issue bills of foreign exchange, a privilege reserved for the Banco do Brasil.

From the start of the insurrection the Central Government was faced with mutiny of garrisons and defection of large bodies of troops. At one time the revolutionary leaders announced three-fifths of the regular army was fighting under their colors.

The Central Government called out its reserves, first the classes of 21 to 31 years, and later classes up to 45 years old, but since only a few states remained loyal the administration was unable to raise nearly as large an army as it needed.

Both Great Britain and the United States sent warships to the country as a precautionary measure and the U. S. S. cruiser Pensacola arrived only yesterday at Pernambuco, anchoring outside the harbor for a few hours and then proceeding to Bahia, which then presumably was still loyal to the Government.

Arms Embargo by U. S.

President Hoover Wednesday declared an embargo on arms and ammunition to Brazil, indicating, however, that the Rio de Janeiro Government, a recognized de jure administration, might purchase such in the United States with permits from the Secretary of State.

At the start of the revolution only the states of Rio Grande do Sul, Rio Grande do Norte, Santa Catharina, Parana, Piauhy, Ceara, Maranhao, Parahyba and Minas Geraes joined the movement. The states of Pernambuco, Alagoas, Sergipe and Espirito Santo were brought under insurgent control within a few days. The insurgents also claimed successes in Matto Grosso, Para, Goyaz and Amazonas. Only Bahia, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro remained unquestionably loyal.

Although some of the air force turned to the insurgents, most of the corps remained loyal to the Washington Luis regime. The planes made numerous bombing raids on rebel positions back of the front. The navy presumably remained loyal also.

Ten Large Biplanes Leave New York for Rio.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Ten large biplanes, originally designed for the United States Navy and bought by the Brazilian Government, which fell today, for use against the revolutionists, left for Rio de Janeiro this morning on the liner Western Prince.

The Curtiss-Wright Corporation, builders of the planes, said the ships had been paid for and that delivery, so far as the company was concerned, was completed when the planes were placed aboard ship.

ALDERMEN DISCUSS REPORT ON TRANSIT

Members of Committee Urged to Read Findings of City's Commission.

The joint committee designated by President Neun of the Board of Aldermen to consider the report of the city's Transportation Survey Commission held a brief meeting yesterday at which Chairman Edward W. Wiehe suggested the members read the report carefully before another meeting is called in three weeks or a month.

Alderman Neu suggested it would be better to have heads of interested city departments meet with the committee to read and study sections affecting their departments; he was afraid committee members would not read the report if left to themsedves.

Chairman Wiehe had read it, so had Alderman Studt, the latter remarking that it seemed much like the Kinsey-Smith transportation report of 1926. Wiehe said E. J. Russell, who was chairman of the commission, had offered to appear before the committee to explain the report and had assured him the consulting engineer, R. F. Kelkerf Jr. of Chicago, likewise would be glad to aid the committee.

It was Wiehe's opinion the committee first should study the report independently and then might call on those who helped draft it for their explanations. The joint committee consists of the board's standing committees on public utilities and legislation.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 24.—Andrew Drew, investment and real estate broker, on meeting in a hotel lobby the young gunman who held him up last Sept. 4, demanded return of the $1125 he had handed over, on threat of calling police. The robber was eager to return the money but it was all spent and he had no job.

Drew thought it could be arranged. "We made a deal," he explained, "whereby he is to pay me back at a dollar a day, $30 a month." In return Drew had to find the youth a job.

Payments start this week, and if the installments stop—police will get the robber's name.

COSTE LANDS AT HAVRE EARLY TO GREET WIFE

He Then Returns to Liner to Await Hour of Official Debarkation.

By the Associated Press.

HAVRE, France, Oct. 24.—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, trans-Atlantic flyer, debarked from the liner France incognito at 8 a. m. today and his much advertised marital difficulties were immediately smothered in the kisses and embraces of Mme. Coste, who was awaiting him at the pier.

They left for Deauville in an automobile, intending to return here at 4 p. m. for his official debarkation, when he and Maurice Bellonte, his mechanic in the flight across the Atlantic, will be received by Mayor Leon Meyer and the City Council.

"They certainly do things in a big way in America," Coste told newspapermen. "By the time we had gone half way on our national tour Bellonte and I were puzzled whether we were in France or in America.

"Only for language our welcome was just as enthusiastic as it might have been or will be in Paris tomorrow. Will you please tell them in the United States how much we appreciated it. Tell them Bellonte and Coste simply feel like shouting 'Vive L'Amerique.'"

Mme. Coste changed her mind at the last minute about not meeting her husband at Havre. Coste, learning she was in the port city, left the France without waiting for it to dock. He talked with her, high officials of the Air Ministry and close friends, and then returned to the liner.

Both Coste and Bellonte are in the best of health and spirits.

JOE AIELLO, RIVAL OF CAPONE, SLAIN BY MACHINE GUNS

one of them carrying a machine gun. They fled in a sedan. A few seconds later another machine, bearing two men, was reported to have followed the sedan. Later an automobile, with its license plates removed and its engine numbers obliterated, was found burning in another section of the city.

The police said they learned that the apartment from which the firing first began was rented by a young man 10 days ago, indicating that Aiello's death had been plotted long in advance of last night's shooting.

Aiello was 39 years old. He was the second of the "public enemies" to meet death since the Crime Commission issued its list of undesirables last April. The other was Jack Zuta, who was slain last August in a resort in Wisconsin.

His enemies downed Aiello, apparently, just as he was preparing to flee the city and perhaps the country. In his coat pocket at the morgue were found a railroad ticket to St. Louis and a scribbled notation, "Brownsville, Texas," supposedly his destination or his intended point of entry into Mexico.

Eight-year-old Frances Prestogiacomo, daughter of Aiello's host, said the gangster had come to their home Oct. 12 and had not ventured outside the door since. The child said her father, after bidding Aiello goodby last night, turned and ran back to his room, put on his shoes and left the house immediately.

Mrs. Aiello, the widow, was found at her Rogers Park home with 12-year-old Carlo. She told officers she had not seen her husband in two months but had communicated with him by telephone.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 24.

A POLITICAL campaign is a very healthful process for a self-governing people. It will develop the weak points in the governmental and economic structure. This is necessary to keep them sound. But there also will be a vigorous demonstration of what is wholesome and good. We have learned to discount the exaggerations of both sides. If we are not so well off as some represent, certainly our condition is not so bad as others claim.

But the weeks preceding a nation-wide election are filled with so much uncertainty, so many charges and counter-charges that they are not helpful in restoring that public confidence which the country especially needs at this time. There is all the more reason during the next few days for the people to keep their common sense. Nationally, and by States, this country is on the whole well governed. In spite of some recession in trade the business of the country remains enormous. The nation is solvent. During a time when political revolutions and economic disasters have been world wide, the strength of our Government, the fundamental soundness of our financial institutions, stand unquestioned.

3 WORLD RECORDS CLAIMED FOR ITALIAN HELICOPTER

Said to Have Laid Marks for Duration, Distance and Altitude.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Three world records, for duration, distance and altitude of flight, are claimed by the Royal Aero Club for the new Italian helicopter L'Ascanio.

The helicopter, piloted by Maj. Nello Marinelli at Ciampino Air Field, stayed in the air for 8 minutes 45 1-5 seconds. In a straight line it traveled 3284 feet in 5 minutes 12 1-5 seconds, and it rose 54 feet in 1 minute 40 1-5 seconds. The tests were made on Oct. 8, 10 and 13.

The helicopter is a metal structure with an 80-horsepower motor running two propellers, one above the other, moving in opposite directions. The angles of the blades can be changed at will.

The machine met the test of maneuvering by covering a specified route and moving backward and forward.

PARLEY WITH AFGHANS FAILS

PESHAWAR, India, Oct. 24.—The Government's negotiations with the leaders of the warring Afghan tribesmen of the Northwestern Frontier have come to a sudden unsuccessful end.

As a consequence, there is a considerable concentration of the enemy in Kharjuri Plain, and the prospect of fighting. The council, which has been meeting at Kamrup, East Bengal, has dispersed. The Afridi chiefs have returned home.

Justice Holmes Has Slight Cold.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, who will be 90 years old next March, remained at home today to nurse a slight cold. Several days this week Justice Holmes presided over the court in the absence of Chief Justice Hughes during the argument of a number of community property tax cases. The Chief Justice considered himself disqualified from sitting because he had been retained before he became Chief Justice to act as counsel in one of the tax cases.

TODAY ANNIVERSARY OF START OF RECORD STOCK CRASH

Wall Street Thinks It is At or Approaching End of a Bear Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Today was an important anniversary in Wall street for which no celebration was arranged. It was the first anniversary of one of the blackest days in recent Wall street history, the 12,894,650-share day, which sent leading bankers into a hurried conference to deal with a stock market crisis.

Although share prices have continued to decline, with intermediate rallies, for about a year, Wall street at least had the satisfaction today of believing that it was at or approaching the end, rather than the beginning of a bear market, for stock market history shows few declines lasting much longer than a year.

While the market experienced a 6,000,000-share day a fortnight ago, trading has quieted down to an average daily turnover of only about 2,500,000 shares. Call money ruled at 2 per cent and time money from 2 to 3 per cent, against 6 to 5 per cent for call money and 6½ to 7¼ per cent for time money a year ago.

U. S. Steel closed a year ago at $193.50 a share. It closed last night at $146.75, having recently touched $143.25.

DARROW AND WILSON DEBATE IN KANSAS CITY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—When prohibition ceases to be amusing, Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer, and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, could become one of the most successful vaudeville teams since Weber and Fields.

Debating prohibition last night in Ivanhoe Temple, the two speakers, the one dry, the other wet, sustained an uproar of laughter in an audience of 1500 persons for two hours. Darrow, sour as a pet bull dog, and Dr. Wilson, vandyked and chipper as a bluebird, have been Pullman fellows so long on their tour of debate that they have developed a sense of humor over their savage disagreement. As in wrestling, openings are left by each opponent to make the exhibition worth the money.

"The Methodist Vatican in Washington," said Darrow, plucking at his watch chain and stooping over the rostrum, "is the most brutal, bigoted, ignorant bunch since the Spanish inquisitors. The inquisition would tear off your limbs and disembowel you, but it forbade the scattering of poison amongst the people. These men whose general secretary Dr. Wilson is, are poisoners. They have sentenced a drinker to blindness, death, or paralysis. They have sentenced him without trial."

Dr. Wilson replied:

"Mr. Mellon, a wet, is Secretary of the Treasury. That department first administered the poison. It has charge of industrial alcohol. But it labels each bottle with a skull and cross bones and a very plain warning. Even a man who cannot read may understand."

Darrow's uncanny eyes peered out from the shadows of their deep sockets and his expression creased his face with wrinkles.

"The kind of alcohol I buy and chance," he said, "is not marked with a skull and cross bones. It is labeled, 'Old Crow—Pre-War.'"

WHEN FOOD DOES NOT DIGEST

Sweeten the Stomach instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless. But it kills excess acids. It has remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for over fifty years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c bottles—any drugstore. The genuine is always a liquid—never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' on wrapper and bottle.

KINSEY TELLS WHY CITY CAN'T AVERT SEWER DAMAGE

Head of Service Board Asserts Law Places Duty of Protecting Improved Property on Owners.

RESIDENTS FORM AN ASSOCIATION

Plan to Seek Injunction to Prevent Further Loss Due to River des Peres Project.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, which awards city contracts, explained today why he thinks the city cannot do anything to protect owners of property along the River des Peres sewer right-of-way from damage by blasting and earth slides.

Owners of property between Lindell drive and Delmar boulevard, where the sewer follows the course of the River des Peres, met last night at Garavelli's restaurant, De Baliviere and De Giverville avenues, formed the River des Peres Protective Association, and resolved to take legal steps to enjoin further sewer construction if the city does not protect their property.

Kinsey stated that the city could not instruct the Stiers Bros. Construction Co., which has the contract, as to how it might proceed to prevent damage. First, he said, such instruction would form the basis of a claim for extra work and added compensation. Also, he added, it might be held that such instruction would invalidate an indemnity bond which the contractor provided for protection of the city. The terms of the contract were considered in the preparation of the bond.

The bond, written by the Southern Surety Co. in the sum of $238,551, was to guarantee completion of the contract and protect the city against any claims. The contract price for that section of the sewer was $940,404.

"Property damage has resulted largely from the sliding of loose earth with which the old meandering bed of the River des Peres was filled when the channel was straightened years ago," Kinsey explained.

Says Duty Rests on Owner.

"The law places the duty of protecting improved property on the owner and I cannot see how he can expect the city to pay. His action might be against the contractor, who made his bid and took the contract with his eyes open. He knew of the condition of the soil and this, I do not doubt, would be taken into consideration in preparing a bid for the work.

"The city is plainly protected by the bond from such contingencies and it is not in a position to do anything to relieve those who suffer damage."

William Seifert, 5959 Waterman avenue, who was elected president of the Protective Association, said that membership was composed of persons owning property within 200 feet of either side of the sewer right-of-way on Pershing, Waterman, McPherson, Kingsbury and Washington avenues, and Westminster place.

Alderman Waldman of the Twenty-eighth Ward, in which the project is located, has announced that he would introduce a bill for an appropriation for protection of the property affected.

The home of Mrs. Geraldine Canfield on Lindell drive partially collapsed as a result of earth slides last August, and other buildings have been damaged as the work has proceeded northward.

WIFE OF E. S. STRAUSS ATTACKS DIVORCE PLEA

Declaring that she is the innocent and injured party, Mrs. Morton K. Strauss today filed an answer to the divorce suit of Emil S. Strauss, wealthy retired president of the Strauss Bros. Mercantile Co., asking that the suit be dismissed. The answer alleges various indignities, charges that Strauss deserted her last July and denies the charges of extravagance contained in his petition.

Mrs. Strauss states that her husband, 62 years old when they married in Vienna, Austria, in August, 1927, is worth more than $3,000,000 and that he repeatedly taunted and belittled her by mentioning the fact, declaring he "had saved her and her children from poverty."

When they returned from their honeymoon, which Strauss declared his wife turned in a shopping expedition, Mrs. Strauss alleged he gave a family dinner which was attended by one "outsider," described as a woman Strauss had courted for many years before his marriage. Later, the answer declared, Strauss took his wife to the woman's home for dinner and Mrs. Strauss observed enlarged photographs of her husband "standing all over the home."

Embraced Jewish Faith.

The answer related that Strauss courted his bride-to-be for a year and a half and followed her to Europe, bringing a $50,000 letter of credit which he said was to pay the expenses of a honeymoon through Switzerland, France, England, Ireland, Germany, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Spain and Africa. To please him the answer said, Mrs. Strauss embraced the Jewish faith and the marriage was solemnized by a Jewish rabbi.

Shortly after the marriage, the answer continued, Strauss frequently was seized with uncontrollable and violent rages, once remaining sullen and silent for a whole day while sightseeing in Berlin, and once, in a fury dashing off a separation agreement which Mrs. Strauss persuaded him to destroy.

Strauss, it was alleged, insisted on sleeping with the bedroom lights burning and a light shining directly on his face, a condition which disturbed his wife's sleep and made her highly nervous.

Used Obscene Language, She Says.

After establishing themselves at the Senate Apartments, 265 Union boulevard, Strauss developed an antipathy to his wife's three children by a former marriage, according to the answer, using obscene language in the presence of a 14-year-old daughter, once kicking the child under a table and pretending it was an accident, complaining about suburban telephone calls the children had made.

Because of unpleasant relations between the children and their stepfather, Mrs. Strauss asserted that she decided to take her young daughter to Switzerland and place her in a school which a married daughter had previously attended. After they had gone to Europe, she declared, Strauss persuaded her two older children to follow her and write him concerning her movements, convincing them that the action was necessary "to save their mother and their own names and reputations."

Dissatisfied with the reports he received from the children, it was alleged, Strauss opened one or two letters written by the oldest daughter to her husband in order to ascertain whether they were being truthful to him. After protesting against his wife's trip, Strauss was lavish in paying the expenses, of the two older children on their trip, according to the petition.

"Kept Two Loaded Revolvers."

"During their entire married life," said the answer, "plaintiff has kept two loaded revolvers in his dresser drawer and on several occasions has imagined that burglars had gained entrance to the house and would flourish the revolvers on those occasions.

"On one occasion, in imitation of a cowboy, he twirled them about his forefingers and threw them up in the air and then pointed them at defendant's son and then at defendant. When she remonstrated that one of them might accidentally explode and kill her he replied that he didn't know that it would be an accident if that occurred."

On one occasion, the answer continued, when Mrs. Strauss was entertaining her children and their friends at Westwood Country Club, Strauss inquired at lunch who was going to pay the check and remonstrated when asked to sign guest cards for the swimming pool. At one time, it was alleged, he sulked for 10 days in his room, refusing meals which his wife prepared specially for him.

A motion, filed with the answer, asked for temporary alimony stating that Mrs. Strauss has received $1600 a month from her husband since separation.

Mrs. Strauss was formerly the wife of Edward G. Rolwing, principal stockholder in the Universal Life Insurance Co., to whom she was married in 1905. Her attorney is Robert Burnett of Stern & Burnett.

Strauss, in his suit, alleging general indignities, asserted that his wife referred to him as a "tight old man" when he found he could not buy a $60,000 necklace for her, although he had purchased $65,000 worth of jewelry for her and a $16,000 car of foreign manufacture after she refused to ride in an American-made automobile. During the honeymoon, Strauss alleged, "every suggestion that they visit points of interest was met by the suggestion that they go shopping."

STEPMOTHER AND UNCLE CHARGED WITH KILLING GIRL

Filing of Accusation Prevents Hearing on Habeas Corpus Writ Sought by Denver Woman.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 24.—First-degree murder charges were filed today against Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin and her brother-in-law, Frank O'Loughlin, accused of the slaying of the woman's stepdaughter, 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin.

A hearing on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, which Mrs. O'Loughlin's attorneys filed several days ago, was automatically defeated by the charge. District Attorney Earl Wettengel filed the double informations after Mrs. O'Loughlin had been interrogated for five days. Police alleged she made a statement she would take the blame for the slaying of her stepchild, and then added: "Get Frank and give us a sanity test. We must be crazy."

Case Against Uncle Weak.

Deputy District Attorney Ralph Cummings said at the present time the murder case against O'Loughlin, who is the slain child's uncle, was "admittedly weak," but that it was being filed to detain O'Loughlin for questioning.

Arraignment of Mrs. O'Loughlin is expected tomorrow. John M. Keating, attorney, said she would plead not guilty. He said his client was "wholly innocent" of the charge. John Weisz, attornew and brother of Mrs. O'Loughlin, became asociated with Keating in the defense today.

Mrs. O'Loughlin appeared in good spirits as she talked with Keating and Weisz in court when the charges were filed.

Detective Leo O'Laughlin, father of the child, was among those who signed the murder complaints. He expressed the belief that his brother was innocent and would be able to clear himself of the charge. Asked to comment on his wife's alleged confession, the detective said, "She made it and she should know what she is talking about." He said his wife and brother "despised each other," although they both lived with him.

Police said they were on the verge of clearing up the details of the murder yesterday when their questioning of Mrs. O'Loughlin was broken off by a court order admitting her attorney for a conference with the woman.

Chief of Police Reed said Mrs. O'Loughlin had implicated three others in the murder. He said that the stepmother, who had been questioned for five days, finally cried: "I did it. I alone am responsible. Take me out and hang me. I did all the cooking at the house. I cooked rice and the glass—"

Statement Interrupted.

At this point the arrival of the attorney interrupted the statement.

Among those questioned were Mrs. Ethel Sparr, beauty parlor operator, whom Mrs. O'Loughlin said she visited twice the night Leona disappeared, and several roomers at the Sparr home. After the questioning, police said Mrs. O'Loughlin's alibi had been broken.

The girl's body was discovered in a park lake two days after the disappeared from home. A quantity of glass was found in the stomach. On the day of her disappearance her father was stricken by a strange illness. It was caused by eating food in which ground glass had been placed. Later two family pets died. Examination of their bodies disclosed ground glass.

In investigating the girl's death, officers said they found a tire iron, a towel and wisps of human hair in the O'Loughlin family automobile, which Mrs. O'Loughlin had used the night of Leona's disappearance.

Edition of Red Newspaper Seized.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Today's issue of the Communist newspaper, Rote Fahne, containing a front page attack on Carl Severing, new Prussian Minister of the Interior, was confiscated on the ground that it violated the law for the protection of the republic.

CITY VOTERS MAY RECORD CHANGES OF ADDRESS TODAY AND TOMORROW

VOTERS who have changed their place of residence since the supplemental registration of June 9 must report the fact at the Election Commissioner's office at City Hall before 9 p. m. tomorrow in order to be eligible to vote at the Nov. 4 election.

The Election Commissioners' office will be open until 9 p. m. today and tomorrow to enable voters to record their change of address.

U. S. BIRTH RATE IN 1929 IS LOWEST IN 14 YEARS

Averages 18.9 to the 1000 of Population; Infant Mortality Declines Sharply.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. — The American birth rate for 1929 was announced by the Census Bureau today as 18.9 a 1000 of population, the lowest for any year since 1915 when such statistics were first compiled on a national scale.

At the same time the infant mortality rate also dropped to the lowest point recorded—68 deaths of infants less than one year of age for each 1000 born. This compared with a high infant mortality rate of 101 a 1000 births recorded in 1916 and 1918.

The highest birth rate for 1929 was in New Mexico, where it was 26.9. The lowest was in Oregon, 14.1, and this State also had the lowest infant mortality, 48.

Infant mortality in New Mexico was 145.

Ralph Beights Sent to Workhouse; Auto Was in Head-On Collision.

Ralph Beights, 24 years old, a laborer, 2003 North Ninth street, was sentenced to six months in the Workhouse for driving while drunk and to 30 days for careless driving by Provisional Judge Stein in Police Court today.

Beights was arrested Wednesday after his automobile collided head on with another which was going East on Chouteau avenue, near Jefferson avenue, injuring slightly its occupants, Mr. and Mrs. William Huskey, 801 Market street, East St. Louis and their baby daughter.

Stolen Auto Stripped and Burned.

Stripped of accessories and burned, the automobile of Miss Dorothy Gordon, 6401 Cates avenue, stolen last Friday, was found yesterday on Missouri Highway No. 30, 40 miles west of St. Louis.

BRIDE, 17, TESTIFIES IN ANNULMENT SUIT

Mrs. J. F. Hardy's Plea to Cancel Marriage Taken Under Advisement by Court.

The suit of Helen Marie Hardy, 17-year-old daughter of Otto J. De Donato, a hairdresser, to annul her secret marriage last April to James F. Hardy, 4961 Laclede avenue, her senior by 14 years, was taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Hamilton yesterday after four hours of testimony in Court of Domestic Relations. Attorneys were advised to file briefs and copies of love letters that passed between the two.

"It was my first love affair and he told me he loved me better than my parents did and I guess I was just infatuated," the girl testified.

Attired in a blue polka-dot frock and a cloche hat, the former Miss De Donato trembled visibly as she told of her romance. She has resided with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Fischer, 5587 Lindell boulevard, since her parents separated.

Hardy, she said, had promised her a better home. "My husband told me he was working for a construction company, but I learned that wasn't true, so I told my parents tbout the marriage May 2," she testified.

"I met Jim through mutual friends a year ago and he began to make ardent love to me. I had been attending Visitation Convent and had gone only with girls.

"Threatened to Kill Self."

"He called frequently at my home and telephoned several times a day. We didn't go with anybody else. My father said I was too young to think of any man seriously, but Jim said he was trying to interfere. He said he would damage my father's business if I didn't marry him and threatened to kill himself.

"Finally I agreed, and on the night of April 23 a Mr. Smith took me to De Baliviere and DeGiverville avenues to meet Jim. His friend, Carl Haupt, drove us to St. Charles, where we were married by a Justice. Then I went to Jim's house for a few hours and returned home."

Haupt testified the pair acted "like lovers in movie" on the marriage trip. When Haupt was asked if he knew of the parents' opposition, defense counsel objected. "Juliet's parents opposed Romeo," he pointed out, "but still Romeo is known as the world's greatest lover."

"But that was in medieval days," interrupted Mrs. Hardy's attorney.

Denies Agreeing to Settle for $90.

Hardy, a slender man with curly brown hair, admitted he had concealed the truth about his position, but said that Miss De Donato had suggested the marriage after he had known her several months. "She will always be welcome in my home," he said, "and I'll always love her." He denied he had agreed to settle the case for $90, explaining he had merely inquired of attorneys if he was to receive $90 he said he had lent his wife.

"She was always very affectionate," he continued. "Just a month before our marriage, when her family sent her to Kansas City to get her away, she telephoned me long-distance."

Attorneys for the wife frequently referred to Hardy as "a social climber."

At the conclusion of Mrs. Hardy's testimony, she burst into tears and was taken from the courtroom. She returned, however, to hear her husband's testimony.

Each of her parents has remarried. Her mother is Mrs. Gertrude Berger, wife of a physician. During portions of the trial the girl, her father, her mother and her father's second wife were seated in a row on the same bench.

$17,000 MAIL TRUCK HOLDUP IN CHICAGO

Vehicle Crowded to Curb in Suburb and Armed Men Take Bag and Escape.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Three men robbed a mail truck in the suburb of Argo today and escaped with a bag containing $17,000.

Two blocks from the pastoffice the truck was forced to the curb by a sedan. Two men emerged with sawed-off shotguns and while one gaurded Ralph Devee, the driver, the other sorted through the mail until he found the bag he desired.

He tossed it into the sedan in which the third robber remained seated and drove toward Joliet.

Police officers said the consignment was of $17,000, but did not know whether it was cash or securities. The empty bag was found shortly afterward at a grade crossing between Argo and Lyons, where the flight was delayed by a long freight train.

BOY, 15, GETS YEAR TO LIFE FOR $4 THEFT OF WIRE

Dee Pasulk, 15 years old, Buckner, Ill., was sentenced to serve from one year to life at the State Training School for Boys at St. Charles, Ill., by Circuit Judge Bernreuter at Belleville on his plea of guilty yesterday to the theft of $4 worth of copper wire. He will be subject to parole at the end of a year, contingent upon good behavior.

Two other boys, whom Pasulk said did not participate in the robbery but aided him in selling the wire, were paroled to Detective Sergeant Floyd Combs, East St. Louis. They were Stanley Clayton and Ray Brown, both of East St. Louis. The wire was stolen from the garage of Ralph Reiser, in East St. Louis, July 16, last, and involved a charge of burglary and larceny.

St. Louisan Gets Harvard Award.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 24.—Awards of 132 scholarships having a total value of $49,730 were announced at Harvard University today. The scholarships were given to students in the six Harvard graduate schools. Recipients in the Medical School include A. F. E. Settlage of St. Louis.

"A thirty-five dollar suit at Woolf Brothers?"

Certainly! Nothing astonishing about it. Simply because our store is nicely appointed and our standards of quality high is no reason why you should think you can't buy a $35 suit here.

It should be reason for your knowing: Your surroundings will be pleasant when you do buy it . . . and that Sterlingworth quality standards correspond to those this store maintains in everything it sells men, from collar buttons to frock coats.

HOUSE MOVED OUT OF TOWER GROVE PARK

A nine-room brick house was moved across Magnolia avenue to a new foundation Wednesday afternoon, the crossing requiring about two hours.

It was one of three dwellings in Tower Grove Park which were involved in litigation between the city and neighboring property owners when the ground on which the buildings stood was condemned for park purposes.

The house, two stories high, with tile roof, was trundled across the street on rollers operating on a right of way made of timbers. Locomotion was provided by a tractor and drum operating a cable. Workmen of the David House Moving Co. placed iron rollers beneath the shoring on which the house had been raised from its old foundation at 4558 Magnolia avenue and directed its diagonal course to the new foundation at 4549 Magnolia, a distance of about 250 feet.

Three weeks' work was required to prepare the dwelling for moving. After the house arrived at what will be the front lawn of its new location a pivot in the form of a jackscrew was placed beneath the corner. The workmen then built a circular track on which the house was turned after the manner of a turntable and was lowered to the new foundation today.

Fred Heger, 2 Heger court, obtained the house from the Board of Commissioners of Tower Grove Park with the approval of the city. The cost of moving the house, building a new foundation and restoring the park site will cost about $6000, according to Heger. The house now occupies a lot owned by Heger, who expects to sell it.

Neighboring property owners obtained an injunction in Circuit Court four years ago preventing the city and the Park Commissioners from renting the houses on the contention that special taxes had been assessed for the purchase of a 1700-foot strip on which the houses stood and that, therefore, they should have free use of the ground as a park site. The Supreme Court suspended the injunction on an appeal by the city, holding that it was in the public interest to rent the houses until funds were available to complete the proposed park improvement. Last year the Supreme Court ordered the injunction dismissed.

Three years ago one of the houses was moved to Shaw's Garden, a distance of more than a city block, and is now the residence of Supt. Pring of the Garden. The third house is occupied by the foreman of Tower Grove Park and it is not planned to move it at this time.

OUT OF WORK, ACQUITTED OF NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

Francis S. Warner Accused of Failing to Pay Alimony and Care for Child.

Francis S. Warner, 1161 Kingsland avenue, was acquitted of failure to support his 4-year-old son, Francis S. Warner Jr., by a jury in Judge Weinbrenner's Court of Criminal Correction yesterday.

Complaint in the case was filed by Mrs. Annette O'Reilly Warner, his former wife, from whom he was divorced last March, and who testified that he had failed to pay $75 a month alimony and $50 a month support for the child awarded by Circuit Judge Fitzsimmons at the time the decree was granted.

Mrs. Warner testified that since that time she had been forced to borrow clothing and food for their son from members of her family and had been forced to take light employment. Mrs. Warner, a daughter of Mrs. Robert J. O'Reilly of the Forest Park Hotel, lives at 4448 McPherson avenue.

Warner, former salesman for a paint company in Chicago, did not testify and introduced only one witness to show he had been out of work since the divorce.

G. O. P. WILL KEEP CONTROL OF CONGRESS, FESS PREDICTS

National Chairman Asserts Party Is Divided Only on Local Issues.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Republican control of the next Congress was predicted last night by Chairman Fess of the Republican National Committee.

"The country is Republican," Fess said in a statement through the Republican National Committee. "In the past 70 years the administration has been Republican save two exceptions. During that time both branches of Congress with but few exceptions were Republican."

Fess asserted Democrats never won "except when Republicans are divided in some off year when political interest is inactive."

"In this off year," he added, "the Republican party is not divided. Local issues here and there divide Republicans, but not more so than Democrats."

Wilbur's Leave Extended.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Dr. Lyman Wilbur's leave of absence as president of Stanford University was extended for a year by the board of trustees last night. Simultaneously the board extended the appointment of Dr. Robert E. Swan as acting president. Dr. Wilbur requested the extension to continue his duties as Secretary of the Interior.

POWER COMPANY HEAD TESTIFIES HE FOUGHT NORRIS

Banker Tells Nye He Personally, and Not "the Trust," Financed Pre-Primary Straw Poll.

VICTOR SEYMOUR WAS PUT IN CHARGE

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 24.—Walter W. Head, Chicago banker and official of the Nebraska Power Co., has told Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee, that his opposition to Senator George W. Norris in the primary was a personal matter and that the power company was in no way involved.

Head's testimony was in answer to Senator Nye's charge that the "opposition to Senator Norris had been placed substantially on the Power Trust."

The banker, who is chairman of the board of the power company, said he personally financed a pre-primary poll in Nebraska to test the strength of prospective opponents to Norris, because the incumbent Senator had failed to support the Republican candidate for President in 1928. Norris defeated State Treasurer W. M. Stebbins for renomination in the August primary.

The poll was not a secret, as has been indicated by testimony before the committee, Head declared. "I told at least 40 or 50 men in this State of the movement," he said.

Three Men Mentioned.

"I endeavored to ascertain the relative strength of the three men who were at that time most frequently mentioned as prospective candidates for the senatorial nomination," he testified. "I felt that either former Gov. Samuel R. McKelvie or Gov. Arthur J. Weaver would better represent Nebraska and the interests of Nebraska citizens in the United States Senate. When the results of the poll were made known to me, I came to the conclusion that the Republicans of Nebraska, at least a majority of them, were desirous of continuing Senator Norris as a United States Senator.

"No part of the $4000 which I expended was used in an attempt to secure the senatorial nomination for anyone. If this expenditure actually had any effect on the primary election, it was by discouraging the candidacies against Senator Norris."

Head said he learned later that Victor Seymour, a former attache of the Republican National Committee, had been employed to conduct a straw vote but that he personally had nothing to do with the selection.

Stebbins Tells of Bond.

Stebbins, another witness, said it was at his request that Seymour investigated to learn if George W. Norris, Broken Bow grocer, would enter the senatorial race to oppose Senator Norris. Seymour reported the grocer would file provided a $500 Government bond and $50 cash be contributed for the campaign, Stebbins said, adding that he left the bond and cash with Seymour.

Grocer Norris filed for the office but his petition later was ruled out on the grounds that it was filed too late.

At the conclusion of Stebbins' testimony, Senator Nye accused the treasurer of "shielding some person on something a thorough investigation might reveal."

Stebbins, replying that he was under obligations to no one, said: "I am assuming all responsibility, and I am shielding no one."

Another witness, Clark Jeary, Lincoln attorney, who contributed $1000 to Stebbins' campaign fund, was asked if he had hear of reports that a $60,000 fund was being raised in Nebraska to defeat Senator Norris in the election Nov. 4, he said he had no knowledge of such a fund.

Stebbins was called to the stand again and asked if he knew anything concerning efforts to get a George Morris of Beaver City or a George Norris of Havelock or a Mr. Norris of Wymore to seek the Republican senatorial nomination. The State Treasurer said he had not heard of any such move.

After adjourning the hearing, Senator Nye announced the committee would return to Nebraska about Nov. 12 and said he "hoped that at that time the real facts would be revealed" and that witnesses would decide to "tell the truth."

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS DENTISTS

Speakers at the annual conference of Southern Illinois Dental Societies, which ended yesterday at Hotel Broadview, East St. Louis, urged that the unlicensed practice of dentistry be made a felony. The $50 fine now provided by Illinois law, is an inadequate penalty, they agreed.

Dr. John H. Cadmus, a former president of the Society estimated there were 300 persons practicing dentistry in Chicago without licenses. Dr. M. M. Lundbattis, Mount Vernon, was elected president of the society, succeeding Dr. J. K. Conroy, Belleville.

LONG MISSING PLANE FOUND

By the Associated Press.

SPEZIA, Italy, Oct. 24.—Wreckage of the British tri-motored airplane, City of Rome, which made a forced landing near here and sank in the high seas on Oct. 26, 1929, drowning three passengers and a crew of four, was found today by a fishing boat.

In the wreckage was a leather suit case, believed to contain diplomatic papers, since one of the passengers was a diplomatic courier. There were no bodies.

CITY RENEWS ATTACK ON P. S. CO. VALUATION

Counselor Muench Says Too Much Weight Was Given to Reproduction New Theory.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—A valuation of $63,500,000 placed upon operating property of the St. Louis Public Service Co. by the Missouri Public Service Commission, as a rate base for fixing street car fares in St. Louis, again was attacked as excessive, in a motion filed in Supreme Court today by the City of St. Louis for rehearing of the case in which the Court last Oct. 14 affirmed the commision's finding.

City Counselor Muench renewed the city's contention that the commission gave too much weight to the valuation theory of reproduction cost new. He declared the Court had overlooked the point, raised in the appeal by thec ity, that the commission had not followed its own rule, expressed in the street railway case, that in valuing the property stress should not be placed on either the original cost or reproduction new theories of valuation.

In face of the rule expressed by the Commission, Muench stated in the motion, "a comparison of the reproduction cost of the property, including land, as found by the Commission, with the present fair value, as found by it, shows that it did put almost entire stress on the reproduction cost and very little on original cost."

Investment vs. Reproduction New

He pointed out in the motion, as was done in the original appeal, that the valuation finally fixed by the Commission in June, 1928, was 97.7 per cent of what the Commission had estimated to be the value of the property on the reproduction new theory.

The original cost or investment theory is based on the actual investment of the owners of the property. The reproduction new theory is based on an estimate of what it would cost to reproduce the property new, at present day prices, less any wear and tear that had accrued in the existing plant.

Muench said both the commission and court should have considered the fact that there had been a steady decline in the number of passengers carried by the street car company, for several years, and that this was a factor in determining the present fair value.

"It is obvious that a utility engaged in a losing business cannot be worth the amount it would cost to reproduce a prosperous one," Muench stated in his motion, "because no one would be found willing either to buy or to reproduce a losing venture at anything like its actual cost. It was clearly erroneous, herefore, to place the present fair value of the company's operating property at a figure within 2.3 per cent of the cost of creating it anew."

Going Value Attacked.

Muench declared also the court had overlooked evidence tending to establish that the going value allowance of $3,000,000 made by the commission was excessive. The city contended the allowance should not exceed $2,500,000. This allowance is an estimate of the difference in value between a public utility, ready to operate but with no business and one in successful operation.

Muench said there could be no justification for the Commission's increase of the going value allowance from the $2,500,000 allowed in a former valuation in 1919, considering the steady decline of the company's business.

The present valuation was established in June, 1928, in connection with the company's application for an increase in fare from seven to eight cents. The company's fare increase applications to the Commission have kept well ahead of the city's appeal to the courts from Commission orders granting the increases, as the company now has a 10-cent cash fare increase case established since the valuation and eight-cent fare was ordered.

'FRESH STATEMENT ON SEX' BY CHRISTIAN CHURCH URGED

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24. — A report submitted to the twelfth synod of the Protestant Episcopal Province of Washington, in session here, asks for "a fresh statement from the Christian Church on the subject of sex" and directs attention to the recent Lambeth conference indorsement of birth control under certain conditions.

The report also recommends a comprehensive survey "that the unchurched youth among us may be known and won to Christ."

On the question of unemployment, the report urges individuals and corporations to give work to unemployed men and women "in the spirit of sharing."

9686 in Prisons in Illinois.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 24.—Illinois' penal institutions continue to show an alarming increase in population, and on Oct. 1 totaled 9686, or an increase of 1169, or 13.2 per cent, over the total on Oct. 1, 1929, Frank D. Whipp, Superintendent of Prisons, told Gov. Emmerson today. Joliet prison had the biggest increase during that period, Whipp said. The population, including the women's prison, rose from 3859 to 4377 during the year, a gain of 518.

$15,000,000 AGAIN SOUGHT TO EXPAND CITY INSTITUTINS

MAYOR AND NOLTE AGAINST PROPOSAL

Former Does Not Think It Can Be Passed—Comptroller Worried Over Maintenance of Hospitals

The proposal for a $15,000,000 bond issue for extensions and additions to city charitable institutions, rejected last June by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, has been revived by the Public Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which voted yesterday to recommend the proposal to the Board of Estimate again.

The decision was reached after the committee had summoned Hospital Commissioner Lohr and questioned him about crowded conditions in the institutions. Lohr said all institutions were overcrowded and complained particularly about Koch Hospital and the City Sanitarium.

250 on Koch Waiting List.

Koch Hospital, with a capacity of 500 tubercular patients, has a waiting list of 250, Dr. Lohr said, while about 150 other tubercular patients are being cared for in temporary wards at the Isolation Hospital and City Hospital. The Sanitorium, built by 2400 insane patients, now houses 3345, although about 200 patients have been moved to State institutions elsewhere, he said.

The City Infirmary has a waiting list and the Training School for Feeble-Minded Children is crowded to capacity, Dr. Lohr pointed out, complaining particularly that there was no institution to care for feeble-minded Negro children except the City Sanitarium.

Mayor Miller and Comptroller Nolte, two of the three members of the Board of Estimate, are not firmly behind the proposal.

Thinks Voters Will Say No.

"It would be wonderful if it could be passed," said the Mayor, "but in my opinion the voters would not approve another bond issue at this time."

"Can the gentlemen suggest any means by which the city can maintain these institutions after they are built?" asked Comptroller Nolte. "We can't build buildings without money to operate them."

The Public Welfare Committee recommended the $15,000,000 bond issue in June after an inspection of city institutions in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Boston, Washington and Montreal. Members of the committee said today they thought the voters would approve a bond issue at this time if it were for hospitals alone.

TWO SISTERS IN AMBULANCE KILLED IN TOLEDO COLLISION

Third Woman Hurled 20 Feet and Seriously Injured: Victims Recently Wed.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 24.—An ambulances speeding to a hospital with two sisters, brides of a few months, collided with an automobile last night killing the two and caused serious injury to a third woman.

The ambulance was carrying Mrs. Mary Emch, 18 years old, of Pemberville, O., and her sister, Mrs. Ethel Langerman, 19, of Woodville, O., when it struck an automobile in which Mrs. Anna Clark, 42, was a passenger.

The two sisters, already in serious condition from burns suffered in an explosion while they were cleaning curtains, were pulled from the ambulance as the front of it burst into flames. Mrs. Clark was hurled 20 feet into the side of a building.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Port Columbus at 10:20 a. m. today, completing a survey flight over the route of the new transcontinental air mail line which will be opened tomorrow.

He was forced back to Bettis Field, McKeesport, Pa., yesterday after reaching Cambridge, O., because of heavy fog and clouds.

He left McKeesport at 8:15 today.

3800 Men to Resume Work.

After a four-week shutdown for inventory purposes, the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants, Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue, will resume regular production schedules next week and about 3800 men will return to work. This will be about the same number as was employed before the shutdown. The Fisher Body plant will re-employ about 2300 men and the Chevrolet plant 1500. Normal schedules will also be resumed in other cities where the two companies have plants.

Queen Victoria Called Kaiser "Wrong-Headed"

Her Letters Denouncing Wilhelm II and Saying Gladstone Would Ruin Country Made Public.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oca 24.—Letters written by the late Queen Victoria describing her grandson, Kaiser Wilhelm II, as "a hotheaded, conceited and wrong-headed young man, devoid of all feeling," are among the revelations made today in a book compiled from confidential sources including the archives of Windsor Castle.

Victoria also said that Gladstone, then Prime Minister, "will ruin the country if he can," the documents disclose.

The volume, edited by George Earle Buckle and published by the firm of John Murray shows that Victoria had decided viewpoints of her own, whatever might have been the views or intentions of the Government officers of her time.

Permission to publish these Royal secrets, hidden from the world for 40 years, was given by King George and, in the case of some of the letters, permission was said to have been secured also from the former Kaiser at Doorn.

Regarding Wilhelm, she wrote: "How sickening it is to see Willy, not two months after his beloved and noble father's death, going to banquets and reviews: It is very indecent and very unfeeling."

Of the Emperor Frederick, the Kaiser's father, she wrote: "None of my sons could be a greater loss to me. He was so good, so wise and so fond of me; and now?"

Victoria referred to A. J. Balfour, afterward the Earl of Balfour, thus: "Lord Salisbury named his clever and agreeable nephew as the person fittest to succeed him (she refers to Balfour's succeeding Sir M. Hicks-Beach as Irish Secretary) and I was just going to make the same suggestion."

The Queen would not admit to her court, nor have as Ministers, persons whose reputation she did not approve. For example, she declared that she would not accept Sir Charles Dilke as Minister "on account of his dreadful private character." Dilke had been named as co-respondent in a divorce case. The Queen said: "Everyone looks on Sir C. Dilke as guilty, though he has gone off without punishment."

Why Kaiser Dropped Bismarck.

Kaiser William wrote one letter to his grandmother in which, explaining why he dismissed Bismarck, he said:

"In my discussions with him he (Bismarck) treated me like a schoolboy. When I urged that I believed the Ministers were really in favor of my views, although they would not venture to say so because he was opposed to them, he told me that they were all blackguards and cowards. He became so violent on occasions that I did not know whether he would throw an inkstand at my head."

Ferdinand, Prince of Bulgaria in Victorian days, who later became King and is known to the present generation as the exiled Czar of Bulgaria, Victoria described in this manner:

"He is totally unfit—delicate, eccentric and effeminate . . . should be stopped at once."

The documents make it appear that the Kaiser's quarrel with the Prince of Wales who later became King Edward VII, was due to William's feeling that he was not treated with the dignity due him.

Regarding W. E. Gladstone, her Prime Minister, Victoria said: "He will ruin the country if he can, and how much mischief has he not done already! . . . His violent attacks on his former colleagues; his extraordinary letters and speeches in which he will not admit the possibility of his being wrong or others being right, have injured him very much."

Of Lord Randolph Churchill, father of the present Winston Spencer Churchill, she wrote: "He is so mad and odd and also has bad health . . . that strange, unaccountable man who has been a perpetual thorn in the side of his colleagues since he has been in office . . . this impertinent and not reliable or loyal ex-Minister."

Again Heads University Society.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Thomas Nicholson of Detroit was re-elected yesterday for her tenth term as president of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in annual conference here. Mrs. C. L. Mead, the wife of Bishop Mead of Denver, and Mrs. Dorr Diefendorf, wife of the Rev. Dr. Diefendorf of New York City, were elected as the vice presidents at large.

ANNOUNCEMENT

WE take a sincere pleasure in telling St. Louisans that we have appointed the Star Square Stores, a group of stores organized, owned and operated by St. Louisans, as exclusive distributors for the "Famous for Quality" line of Brunswick tires and tubes.

THE Star Square Stores were chosen after a thorough study had been made of a number of well-known St. Louis tire distributing agencies. The very evident confidence manifested by St. Louis motorists during the past many years, in this locally owned group of stores led directly to our choice.

WE have every reason to believe that you and other St. Louis motorists will readily take advantage of the opportunity you will now have to obtain at very low prices Brunswick first quality tires made by one of the oldest rubber manufacturers of Akron, Ohio.

THE low prices at which Star Square Stores will offer Brunswick tires are made possible by the shipment of tires in carloads, direct from our Akron factory without any of the warehousing, handling, branch sales, and national advertising expense, which must be included in the price of other quality tires.

WHEN you visit any of the Star Square Stores we know that you will be impressed as we were during the course of our inspection with the attractiveness of the stores themselves, the courteous service offered by all of their employees and the savings that are offered on many nationally known auto accessory, radio and sporting goods items.

TESTIMONY JOHN HARRIMAN TOCK WOMAN TO HOTELS

Witnesses for Wife Heard by Referee, Who Reserves Decision on Divorce Plea.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Referee Davis, sitting in Supreme Court, yesterday reserved decision in the suit for absolute divorce brought by Mrs. Anna Foley Harriman against John Harriman, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman. The action was not contested.

Mrs. Harriman charged her husband with misconduct and through her attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, introduced a deposition of Joseph Liggett, manager of the Drake Hotel in Chicago, which stated that Harriman, whom he knew personally, had registered at that hotel with a woman in September, 1929, signing the names of Mr. and Mrs. John Richards, Memphis, Tenn.

The other witnesses were Charlotte M. Powell, a friend of Mrs. Harriman, and John C. McCarthy, house detective of the Hotel Pennsylvania. The latter testified that Harriman had registered there with a woman in the fall of 1929.

Mrs. Harriman, who formerly was married to Louis D'Aigle Munds, married Harriman at his parents' home less than two months after obtaining a divorce from her first husband in Reno, Nev. It was Harriman's second marriage, also.

Under a separation agreement entered into by the pair last March, Harriman is to pay his wife $100 a month until August, 1931, after which he will pay her 30 per cent of his net income not, however, to exceed $200 a month.

DRY LEAGUE CHOICES IN RACE FOR CONGRESS

19 Missouri Candidates Outside St. Louis "Favorable" to Prohibition.

Ten Republican and nine Democratic candidates for Congress, in the 13 Missouri districts outside St. Louis, are listed as "favorable" to prohibition in the Anti-Saloon League's report for Missouri contained in a Missouri edition of its national organ, the American Issue.

The candidates are listed on the basis of their replies to a questionnaire sent out by P. A. Tate, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. Candidates who are now in office, or have served in legislative positions, are, in addition, rated on their records.

Those listed as "favorable," with the approval of record in some cases, are:

First District, J. F. Culler, R.; M. A. Romjue, D., record approved; Second, R. F. Lozier, D., record approved; Third, H. F. Lawrence, R.; J. L. Milligan, D., record approved; Fourth, R. D. Hopkins, R.; Fifth, E. C. Ellis, R, record approved; Sixth, T. J. Halsey, R.; C. C. Dickinson, D., record approved; Seventh, J. W. Palmer, R.; S. C. Major, D., record approved; Eighth, E. J. Melton, R.; W. L. Nelson, D., record approved; Thirteenth, C. E. Kiefner, R.; Fourteenth, J. F. Fulbright, D., record approved; Fifteenth, J. J. Manlove, R., record approved; F. H. Lee, D.; Sixteenth, R. L. Johnson, R.; W. E. Barton, D.

No reply was received from candidates in the St. Louis districts, the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth. In the Ninth District, in which Clarence Cannon, D., of Elsberry, is opposed by F. H. Hollman of Warrenton, R., no reply was received from either, but Cannon's record is approved. In the Thirteenth District, Clyde Williams, D., of Hillsboro, is reported as not replying, but his record is approved. Joseph B. Shannon, D., of Kansas City, running against Ellis in the Fifth, did not reply. Dewey Short, D., of Galena, in the Fourteenth, did not reply.

R. E. Culver, D., of St. Joseph, in the Fourth District, is reported as having made a satisfactory answer to the League's questionnaire, but "his record running over the years" is held not to be satisfactory, and answers made by him to other organizations also keep him from being indorsed. He said in one reply, "If conditions remain as they are now, I would favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

A list of candidates for the State Senate, outside St. Louis, shows the greater part of the candidates "favorable." The two candidates of the Tenth senatorial district, both residing at Columbia, are "noncommittal." Of candidates for the State House of Representatives, outside St. Louis, 112 are listed as "favorable."

TELLS OF WAYS TO CURE RINGWORM OF THE TOES

Dr. Herman Goodman Says Disease Affects Half the Population of U. S.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Discovery of a preventive for ringworm of the toes was announced to the first institute of podiatry last night by Dr. Herman Goodman of New York, who said the disease affects half the population of the United States.

The remedy is not patented, but can be made by any druggist. It is a combination of two fungicides, salol and chloral hydrate, "to be dusted between the toes."

"The return of soldiers to civilian life and the urge to partake in physical exercise which has been engendered by the campaign for keeping fit," said Dr. Goodman, "has had a share in the dissemination of ringworm of the toes.

"Certainly the disease was practically unknown to the average American until the close of the World War. Today, under various and sundry names, its symptoms and remedies fill pages of advertising.

"Ringworm ranks second among the list of common skin diseases among city dwellers suffering with cutaneous disease. Within the last five years it has advanced from fifth place, and is now surpassed only by eczema.

"A rational pharmaceutical measure for prevention has been made available by laboratory studies of salol and chloral hydrate as fungicides. Alone, or in combination with sterilized inert powder, such as purified infusorial earth, these two drugs are effective agents for the inhibition of ringworm growths."

EX-JUDGE VAUSE ACQUITTED OF EVADING U. S. INCOME TAX

Already Under Sentence of Six Years in Atlanta Prison for Mail Fraud.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Former Kings County Judge W. Bernard Vause, already under sentence of six years in Atlanta prison for mail fraud, was acquitted last night by a jury before Federal Judge Inch on Brooklyn of evading payment of part of his income tax for 1926. The jurors had been out seven and a half hours. Tears came into Vause's eyes as relatives and friends crowded forward to congratulate him. Vause is at liberty on bail, pending an appeal from his mail fraud conviction.

It was the second time Vause had been tried in Brooklyn on the tax evasion charge. The first time a mistrial was declared when it was discovered that one of the jurors had served on the grand jury which had indicted Vause.

NO TAFFY IN SALTY TALK BY JOAN LOWELL

She Assures Rotarians Her Book Is Never (Well, Hardly Ever) Exaggerated.

Speaking in a free and easy manner and now and then lapsing into the salty vernacular of the sea, Joan Lowell, who won fame last year as author of "The Cradle of the Deep" and then waged warfare with critics who said she went to sea in a book instead of a ship, addressed the Rotary Club at its luncheon at Hotel Statler yesterday.

With orchids at her shoulder and a white fur collar about her neck, she told of lean months after she came ashore from 16 years of cruising on her father's windjammer, when she didn't have the price of a meal but a consuming ambition "to get an education, act like a lady, and amount to something."

"When my book was published, my idea of success was orchids, negligees, perfume and no work," Miss Lowell said, "but my father was right when he used to say 'put your hand on the helm and ride out your own storm.'"

Saved Tips, Went to School.

"Five years ago I was a hotel waitress—waiting on just such clubs as I'm talking to now. And I only gave good service to those who gave me tips. But I saved my tips and started to school.

"I studied commercial law so nobody could gyp me. I took sewing just to be feminine. And I took typewriting and shorthand to earn a living.

"Then I got a job in a lawyer's office. He specialized in divorces and never charged a woman anything for getting her a divorce. I learned a lot about divorces from him, in fact, I'm interested in one now."

Prior to addressing the Rotary Club, she told a Post-Dispatch reporter she had obtained a divorce from Thompson Buchanan, New York playwright, granted in Mexico, on the grounds of incompatibility. They remain "sworn friends," she said.

Miss Lowell said when she came ashore, after having had a sailing ship for a nursery and deep sea sailors for playmates, she was "crazy only about women, because they smelt so nice."

"I wanted to be dainty and learn to use perfume too," she explained.

Wardrobe Girl at Hollywood.

Telling of days when she went hungry at times, the sea gamin who became an author—and insists stoutly that 80 per cent of her book is true—said she got a job as a wardrobe girl at Hollywood, carrying clothes to the stars.

"I was taken on as a waitress at the Hollywood Hotel," she said, "and I just gave the hotel as my address. I guess that impressed them at the studio."

Miss Lowell told of months of being hired and fired, finally getting a role as "The Sea Captain's Daughter" in a New York play after Al Woods (the producer) promised, "I'll make a star out of you," fad failed to materialize.

She wrote the first 5000 words of "The Cradle of the Deep" overnight after it had been suggested at a dinner party she write as she talked, Miss Lowell said. The rest of it was finished in six weeks, she added.

Will Return to Farm.

She lectures in Kansas City today, and after her tour will go to her 111-acre farm near New Hope, Pa., where she said she "gave a few shocks to that Quaker community" when she purchased it.

Despite the frankness of her language and informal style of delivery, the Rotarians and their wives, who appeared at first to be a bit startled, listened with obvious interest, interrupting by applause and commenting later on the obvious sincerity of her remarks.

"I've been called 47 different varieties of undesirable persons," she exclaimed as she began her talk, "and I'm getting in the habit of collecting names.

"Now, let's have a standing vote—have I or haven't I any sex appeal?"

There was silence for a moment as the Rotarians smiled and glanced at their wives. Then there was a burst of applause.

And a similar outburst greeted her when she advanced her father's recipe for raising children, saying it had worked in her case:

TWO FREED IN KIDNAPING OF GREENFIELD, MO., HEIRESS

Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley Says Auto Salesman Was Not Her Abductor.

By the Associated Press.

CARTHAGE, Mo., Oct. 24.—Two suspects in the kidnaping Oct. 13 of Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley, Greenfield (Mo.) heiress, were released yesterday after the victim said William Prater was not her abductor.

Mrs. Emory Hill, recently divorced wife of a Stotts City (Mo.) banker, arrested with Prater, also was freed. Prater is a Greenfield automobile salesman.

Mrs. McKinley, who was ordered from her home, held captive 31 hours and then released, came from Greenfield to view Prater.

Prater told authorities he was with Mrs. Hill until 8 o'clock the night of the kidnaping, which took place about 7:30. Another suspect, arrested several days ago in Kansas City, also was released.

TO MOVE $300,000,000 UNDER POLICE GUARD

Mississippi Valley Trust Co. Begins Transfer to New Quarters Today.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co., established 40 years ago this month, will observe the anniversary by removal from quarters it has occupied most of that period at Fourth and Pine streets to 50 per cent larger space on the southwest corner of Broadway and Olive street.

Moving is to begin tomorrow noon and be completed Sunday. The bank will be open for business in the new location, once occupied by the Liberty Central, at regular hours Monday.

A special guard of 25 policemen with armament including machine guns, will be maintained on the route less than two blocks long. Officers of the bank said more than $300,000,000 in cash and securities will be handled in armored trucks. Valuable records will be handled with similar precautions.

The new location, formerly the Liberty Central Trust Building, on Monday will become the Mississippi Valley Trust Building. The bank will occupy three floors and the basement, with a fourth floor in an annex on the south.

Space is taken by lease from a holding company controlled by the First National Bank, with which the Liberty Central merged. The term is optional for 40 years, terminable by Mississippi Valley at the end of five, 10, 20 or 30 years.

Quarters on the west side of Fourth street extending from Pine to Olive and occupied since the merger with Merchants-Laclede and State National banks last year, are owned by the bank. The corner building at Pine street, long since outgrown, was completed by the institution in 1897. Mississippi Valley had rented temporary offices on the second floor of the Merchant-Laclede building for six months following its incorporation Oct. 3, 1890, and, until its own building was completed, space at 303 North Fourth street.

The commercial and savings banking departments and the executive offices will occupy the first floor of the Mississippi Valley Trust Building. The basement will be devoted to safe deposit vaults, with public rest rooms for men and women. The north half of the second floor will be occupied by the trust division, and the south half by the investment subsidiary, the Mississippi Valley Co. The third floor will include the board room suite, the real estate department and other offices, and the fourth floor, the central accounting divisions.

Eleanor Pratt, Oil Heiress, to Wed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The engagement of Miss Eleanor Pratt, granddaughter of the late Charles Pratt, one of the founders of the Standard Oil Co., and James Ramsay Hunt, Jr., of New York, was announced yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Irving Pratt, parents of the bride-to-be, said the marriage would take place next June. Mr. Hunt is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Ramsay Hunt of New York.

BAR ASSOCIATION ASKS FOR SUPPORT OF JUDGES' SLATE

NON-PARTISAN PLEA MADE TO CITIZENS

Recommendations Include Eugene Sartorius, Democrat, for the Office of Prosecuting Attorney.

The St. Louis Bar Association today opened its campaign in support of its nonpartisan ticket of candidates for judicial positions and Prosecuting Attorney, with the address of John S. Leahy before the Civitan Club at Hotel Statler.

In announcing plans for the campaign, Edward J. McCullen, president of the Bar Association, issued the following statement:

"Two years ago the Bar Association recommended to the voters, candidates for judicial office and for Circuit Attorney. With the powerful aid of the press and the votes of citizens of both parties who put good government above partisan considerations, the Bar Association's ticket was elected in its entirety.

"The records in office of the candidates who were indorsed two years ago by the Bar Association and elected by the people, speak for themselves. Republican and Democratic citizens alike have expressed the wish that the Bar Association continue to render service to the public in connection with such offices by recommending candidates for election.

"In rseponse to this very evident desire of many conscientious citizens in both parties, the Bar Association now comes forward in this campaign and offers its services in an advisory capacity to the voters of St. Louis, and recommends the election of the candidates who have received its indorsement in a nonpartisan referendum vote taken by the association among its members."

The following candidates, eight Republicans and three Democrats, have been indorsed:

For Circuit Judge (six to be elected)—John T. Fitzsimmons (Dem.), Arthur H. Bader (Rep.), Robert W. Hall (Rep.), Frank Landwehr (Rep.), Granville Hogan (Rep.) and James E. King (Dem.). All except King are incumbents.

For Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 1—Edward E. Butler (Rep.), incumbent.

For Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division No. 2 (unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1934)—J. R. Weinbrenner (Rep.), incumbent.

For Prosecuting Attorney—Eugene Sartorius (Dem.).

A corps of speakers, who will address civic clubs and other nonpartisan organizations upon request, was announced as follows: R. F. Buckley, Robert Burkham, Lon O. Hocker, William T. Jones, Daniel Kirby, Jacob M. Lashly, John S. Leahy, Samuel McPheeters, Earl Nelson, Anthony O'Halloran, James J. Seeley and Luther Ely Smith.

Sudden change to COMPLEXION BEAUTY Amazed her Friends

BUT she never told them why. For years her skin was dull and sallow. Pimples, blotches and blemishes caused by constipation marred her chance of beauty. But not any more.

Tiny calcium wafers worked their wonders for her. Gentle internal cleansers—they quickly help to remove the cause: intestinal stasis and poisonous wastes that dull the eye, blotch the skin and stupefy the mind and personality.

Try This Five Day Test

A few days' use of Stuart's Calcium Wafers will often work a wondrous change: soft, silken skin clear and free from faults! Bright, sparkling eyes! Alert and vigorous in mind and body! No wonder that so many thousands of people find that an occasional sugar-coated Calcium Wafer (Stuart's) is all the tonic that they need.

NAVY BUILDING BLIMP TO DEVELOP NEW FUEL

Object Is to Find a Gas That Has Density of Air.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Navy Bureau of Aeronautics has contracted for the construction of the largest nonrigid airship in the country for use by the Navy to develop a fuel gas that will replace gasoline.

The envelope for the ship now is being built by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co. at Akron, O., while the car is being constructed at the Philadelphia naval aircraft factory.

The blimp, which will have a gas capacity of 320,000 cubic feet, is to be 220 feet long and 54 feet in diameter. The car will carry six persons. A speed of 50 miles an hour and a cruising range of 2000 nautical miles is included in the ship's specifications.

The Navy Department long has sought a fuel gas of the same density as air so that equilibrium could be maintained in airship flying without the necessity of recovering water from consumed fuel. German scientists already have developed "blau gas" for use in driving the engines of the Graf Zeppelin.

The fuel reservoir of the new airship will be a special constructed gas cell laid inside the envelope along the bottom of the hull. As the cell deflates with loss of fuel, air will be sucked in to maintain the shape of the hull.

With the development of gas fuel equal to air in density, aeronautic experts say it will not be necessary to weight the ship with apparatus designed to recover water from the exhaust, the method now used on the Los Angeles. With the new device air instead of helium will be valved-off to maintain equilibrium.

SUES TO STOP CANCELLATION OF 250 INSURANCE POLICIES

Loftus Agency Seeks Injunction Against the Security Agency Co.

Suit to enjoin the Security Agency Co. from issuing notices of cancellation of life insurance policies to clients of the Loftus Insurance Agency was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the latter company through Loyola Loftus, proprietor.

It is alleged the petitioner has placed about 250 applications for insurance with the Security company, which, acting as general agent for various insurance companies, issued the policies. However, the Security company, which is now liquidating its accounts, according to the petition, has threatened to send to plaintiff's clients notices that their policies will be canceled for nonpayment of premiums.

W. F. Storck, owner of the Security Agency, said notices of cancellation had been mailed to policyholders before he was served with notice of Loftus' suit. He said Loftus owed his company about $1400 in premiums on policies issued during the last few months. Both concerns are in the Chemical Building.

$3,000,000 Gold From Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 24.—A shipment of 5,030,400 gold pesos ($3,873,408) was sent to the United States last night by the Banco de la Nacion for use in helping to stabilize Argentine exchange. It was directed to several New York banks.

a new vogue of solid colors

featured in Bond two-trouser suits $30

From the Princeton-Cornell Game last Saturday, the Style Observer reports, "the swing is decidedly to solid colors. Over half the men at Palmer Stadium were wearing them." And echoing that distinguished fashion authority, our own "scouts" clicked off identically the same news just before the Ohio State-Michigan battle at Columbus. Solid colors have stepped into the lead, because young men and men with young ideas, want more conservative clothes this Fall • • We prepared for this trend with a careful selection of dignified British fashions and firmly-loomed worsted fabrics. We now add the final touch of style perfection with the accepted shades of deep, rich brown . . . lighter brown leaf-tones . . . London's favored Oxford gray . . . and two Fall blues, Scotclan and Navy • • We have, without doubt, the largest selections of solid colors in town. We also have, without question, the lowest prices in town. Our own tailoring plants take care of that. They cut and deliver new fashions—while they're really new! They cut selling costs, and deliver sensible savings. They never cut quality — which is a bit of news just as important as the new vogue of solid colors.

CRIMINOLOGIST TRAPS BURGLAR IN HIS OWN APARTMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Mark O. Prentiss, criminologist, who helped organize the National Crime Commisison, had a two-hour interview yesterday with a burglar whom he surprised ransacking his apartment.

Snatching a sword cane from a hall rack Prentiss unsheathed the blade and forced the burglar, Charles Faye, 22 years old, to sit down, then proceeded to question him regarding his business.

"The fellow was unarmed," Prentiss said, "but I wasn't taking any chances. He told me it was his first job, but the police have since learned that he has committed 16 burglaries in the neighborhood during the last few months.

"He didn't look a bit like the popular conception of a burglar. He was a fine looking chap, nicely dressed and neat as a pin. He told me he was a painter. I examined his hands and knew he wasn't telling the truth."

CITY TO CELEBRATE ITS AIRMAIL VICTORY

First Plane in New Service Will Arrive From Los Angeles Tomorrow.

A sweeping victory in St. Louis' two-year fight for adequate air mail service will be celebrated with a luncheon and an aerial show at Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport tomorrow when the first planes of the new Mid-Transcontinental line pass through St. Louis.

The celebration, officially proclaimed by Mayor Miller, was arranged by the Chamber of Commerce Air Board, leader in the campaign for main-line air mail to New York and to the Southwest. It will begin at 10 a. m. and conclude at 2:01 p. m. with arrival of the first plane from Los Angeles.

Lines inaugurated tomorrow provide St. Louis with virtually every service sought in its long struggle. They give a 12-hour schedule to New York and fast daylight service to the west coast. A night layover at Kansas City is to be eliminated Jan. 1 when completion of lighting for night flying will make possible 24-hour service over the entire route from coast to coast.

Not only did St. Louis obtain its direct service to both coasts—that route lies through Kansas City and Wichita—but a "cut-off" line carrying air mail daily between St. Louis and Amarillo, Tex., will be augmented tomorrow by additional planes between St. Louis and Springfield, Mo., Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Army Planes in Celebration.

The observance will begin at 10 a. m. tomorrow at Municipal Airport, with arrival of . Scott Field observation squadron, 15 planes under command of Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow. Planes from Parks and Curtiss-Steinberg Airports will join the army ships, and the Thirty-fifth Division Air Unit of the Missouri National Guard will take off from the field.

As one fleet, all the planes will fly east to meet the first Transcontinental and Western airship flying the direct route from New York. It will arrive at 10:48 and be met at the field by Assistant Postmaster-General W. Irving Glover, in charge of air mail; Stanley Clarke, chairman of the Air Board, and others.

The squadron from Scott Field will demonstrate military maneuvers following the mail ship's departure at 10:58. At 11:30 Dale "Red" Jackson, ex-holder of the world endurance record and outstanding stunt pilot, will give a one-plane acrobatic show.

A Von Hoffman hangar has been comfortably heated and furnished, without sacrifice of "atmosphere," for the Air Board luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Assistant Postmaster-General Glover is to speak, and Senator Hawes, Congressmen Cochran and Dyer and others to attend. George B. Logan, chairman of the Air Board Legislative Committee, will preside.

Greater Speed for Mail.

An aerial exhibition by the Thirty-fifth Division will begin at 1:30 p. m. and continue until arrival of the first plane from the West at 2:01. Sight-seeing flights have been arranged to follow for guests at the luncheon.

Tri-motored Fords with Wasp motors made capable by new stream-lining of flying 150 miles an hour, highest speed yet attained by American transport planes, enable development of schedules based on a cruising speed 15 miles an hour faster than before.

More than 1000 letters have been received at the Chamber of Commerce, where they are marked with a special commemorative cachet for the first flights of the new line. Additional letters must reach the Chamber by 4 p. m. today.

WOMAN OFFICE HOLDER URGES VOTING STRAIGHT G. O. P. TICKET

Mrs. Lenore Kamer Delivers Campaign Address by Radio; Jesse Barrett to Speak Tonight.

Miss Lenore Kamer, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, spoke in behalf of the Republican ticket in a radio address over station KWK last night.

She urged voting the straight Republican ticket because of the qualifications of the candidates and to prevent confusion in marking the ballot with the possibility of having the vote thrown out. Consideration of the recommendations made by the State Survey Committee demand that State Senators and Representatives of the highest type of intelligence and integrity be elected, she said.

Jesse W Barrett, former Attorney General of Missouri, and Branch Rickey, vice president of the Cardinals, St. Louis National League baseball club, will speak at a Republican mass meeting tonight at Jeffla Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues.

TWO HOLD UP POSTMASTER

Gibson (Mo.) Man Robbed of $75, Stamps and Money Orders.

St. Louis Postoffice Inspectors have been sent to Gibson, Dunklin County, Mo., to investigate a hold-up last night when Postmaster Thomas W. Curtis was robbed and beaten by two men who held him up on his way home and robbed him of $75 in cash, a quantity of stamps and a book of money order blanks.

Assault on a postal employe in the commission of a robbery is punishable by a mandatory sentence of 25 years in the penitentiary.

NEW FORM OF REPORT CARD IN CITY SCHOOLS

Pupils to Be Rated in Personality and Citizenship Traits, in Addition to Scholarship.

Pupils in the elementary grades of the public schools will hereafter be marked on a new basis, Supt. Gerling announced today. The change was made in response to requests voiced by many principals who contended that the old card gave a too limited picture of the child as a school citizen. Some principals have used a card of their own make rather than use the one furnished by the Board of Education.

School administrators believe a report sent to the home should disclose more of the school's estimate of the pupil than merely his achievement in a limited number of school subjects. The pupil's successes in the school subjects are stepping stones to the more subtle things for which the school is organized and to which it constantly aims. It is considered much more important to the parent, the pupil and the State that the child have a high rating in fundamental personality and citizenship traits than a similar rating in artihmetic, although a high rating in both is preferable.

It was with this in view that the new form of report card was made. The front of the card, where the parent is asked to sign his name, presents a rating of the child in personality and citizenship traits. Ten of these are enumerated and space is allowed for the principal to insert three others if he sees fit. The 10 traits listed are as follows: Self-control, reliability, earnestness, co-operation, industry, adaptability, friendliness, loyalty, initiative and leadership. There are many pupils who never rate high in academic achievement who make a splendid showing in these fundamental traits of character. The school wants the parent first of all to see his child progress in these matters which are considered of such vital concern to his life.

On the reverse side, the card provides for a half quarterly record in the pupil's school subjects. Two divisions are indicated here. One, the achievement, and the other, the interest and effort record.

The days absent are to be indicated as being of greater significance to the parent than the days present. A parent may not 20 days present for a half quarter but not know that the record should be 25.

The ratings are indicated by numbers and their meaning is explained on the card, viz.: 1, excellent; 2, good; 3, medium; 4, poor; 5, failure.

The principal will determine how often the report shall be sent home and how much of a report shall be made each time. It may be possible to grade a pupil on all the items each time.

YOUTH HELD AFTER TRYING TO STEAL SAME AUTO TWICE

James Clatto, Arrested in Car Yesterday, Admits He Took It First on Wednesday.

A youth who said he was James Clatto, 17 years old, of 4600 Westminster place, was arrested yesterday as he was attempting to drive away in a recovered stolen automobile which, detectives say, he admitted stealing the day before.

The machine of Francis Black, 6015 Pershing avenue, was stolen from in front of 717 Morgan street Wednesday and detectives recognized it yesterday when they found it parked in front of 4619 McPherson avenue. Black was notified. He identified the automobile and went home for his keys. The detectives left.

On returning, Black saw Clatto in the machine and called a policeman.

—they all must go in this slaughter of fine clothes. Every garment a guaranteed Bartlett value—from our regular stock.

Corner Sixth & St. Charles

Store hours 8 a. m. till 9 p. m. as long as our stock lasts. Plenty of parking space downtown after 6 p. m.

We're taking our last curtain call before the lights are turned out on us .. forever!

A week ago, when we opened our doors to this final smashing clean-out, we were literally swamped by the terrific rush of eager buyers. Men who know Bartlett quality and Bartlett values were here by the hundreds—and took away with them bargains in fine clothes that have never before been equaled in St. Louis.

All week it was the same story! But with all the crowds there isn't even a dent showing in our tremendous selections of fine new Fall and Winter Clothes.

When the crashing blow hit us we were loaded to the muzzle with brand-new, untouched stocks of Fall and Winter Clothes. The season was just ahead of us—men hadn't started buying yet!

Now we are forced to forget all about our plans. We have only one thing before us—SELL OUT and GET OUT!

It's a mighty bitter dose for us to swallow, so we're going to make it short! There's only one way to do that . . . smash the heart out of everything. That's what we've done!

Prices mean nothing, now!!

Imagine, men—now you get Bartlett All Wool Suits for as little as $16.85; the newest Topcoats and Overcoats must go for as little as $16.85; Bartlett All Wool silk lined Tuxedos, now $16.85; Odd Pants are marked $2.85; Bartlett's Raincoats are going at $2.95 . . . and that's the way it goes through our whole stock. We can't give you every price—because we haven't room to list all the breath-taking bargains here.

We have lost our lease—we must clean out—and get out—in a hurry. Prices mean nothing—Now!

PERSHING WARNS U. S. AGAINST DISARMING

Says Nation Has Little Military Equipment to Throw Away.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A warning to the United States that it will be caught unprepared in event of another war is sounded by Gen. John J. Pershing in an interview published in the Country Home.

"People say we should disarm," he is quoted as saying. "America already is disarmed. Good men and good women tell us that we should throw away our armaments. We have very little to throw away."

Declaring no one hates war more than he does, he says:

"I pray fervently that there will be no more war. With all my soul I hate it. I have seen it in all its horrors. The great war was called a war to end war. Yet, in these dozen years, think how many disastrous wars have been fought and how many others seem to be in the process of making.

"We know that we will not provoke war. But what is there in history which authorizes us to conclude that someone else will not provoke one some of these days? It is not a question of whether or not we believe in war. It is a question whether we shall defend this wonderful country if some other nation, which does believe in war, should attack us."

Economy Measure in Tasmania.

HOBART, Tasmania, Oct. 24.—Economy ruled the State Assembly on this island yesterday. After debate Premier McPhee announced the office of Agent-General in London would be abolished. An opposition motion to abolish the office of Governor of the State was defeated, 9 to 8. Future representation of the State in London will be arranged with the Australian Commonwealth Government through Australia House.

FARMER AND SON HELD IN BANK ROBBERY

Charged With Having Shared Loot and Harbored Men in Stoutland, Mo., Holdup.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEBANON, Mo., Oct. 24.—Indictments charging them with aiding in the robbery of the Bank of Stoutland Aug. 29, have been returned by a Camden County grand jury against Jim Rogers, farmer, living near Stoutland, and his 19-year-old son, Homer Rogers.

The two men were arrested last Saturday by Sheriff John W. Jones of Laclede County and Sam C. Allen, former Sheriff, who have conducted an investigation into the robbery that has led to the arrest of five men. Jim Rogers was released on bond of $10,000 and his son $5000.

Two of the bank robbers, Hobart Rogers and Stacy Howard, were given penitentiary sentences when they pleaded guilty Monday before Judge C. H. Skinker in the Camden County Circuit Court. Rogers was given a 12-year sentence and Howard 10 years.

Hobart Rogers and Bo Howard, an escaped convict, leader of the gang, entered the bank and looted it of $3250, numerous notes and travelers' checks. Stacy Howard was the driver of the automobile used by the gang. A fourth man, who stood guard at the bank door, has not been arrested, but his identity is said to be known by the officers.

Bo Howard, although arrested for his part in the robbery, was returned to the Oklahoma penitentiary to finish serving a term of seven years for manslaughter. He had served only one year when he escaped. On his release he will face a second manslaughter charge, that of having killed a man and a woman in a fight at a dance.

Both Hobart Rogers and Howard made written confessions to Sheriff Jones and Allen last Thursday, following Howard's return here from Depew, Ok., where he was captured. They declared Jim Rogers and his son harbored them at his home before and after the robbery and received a part of the loot when it was divided.

FIVE TRAFFIC BILLS APPROVED BY ALDERMANIC COMMITTEE

Two of Them Would Further Restrict Parking in Grand-Olive District.

Five traffic bills were approved yesterday by the legislative committee of the Board of Aldermen. Two of them prohibit parking at any time on Olive street, between Channing and Vandeventer avenues, and on Washington boulevard, between Theresa avenue and Grand boulevard.

Two others prohibit parking between 7 and 10 p. m. on Grand boulevard, between Arsenal and Juniata streets, and on Hartford street for 150 feet east of Grand boulevard. The fifth bill would make Laurel street a one-way thoroughfare for southbound traffic, between Delmar boulevard and Westminster place.

A bill to change the zoning classification of the northwest corner of Flora place and Grand boulevard to allow construction of a miniature golf course was killed by the committee. Thirty residents of the street had protested against the measure.

CIVIL SERVICE IN POSTAL WORK SET ASIDE TO AID IDLE

President Acts to Help Needy During Holiday Rush — No Extra Session of Congress.

RELIEF DIRECTOR FOR MIDDLE WEST

Three Other Regional Aids to Be Named—Lake Area Most Seriously Affected by Unemployment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Hoover considers it unnecessary to call a special session of Congress for employment or any other subject.

The President's views became known at the same time announcement was made that he had signed an executive order removing the restriction on the Postoffice Department, which compelled it to draw from the Civil Service additional help for the Christmas holiday period. This was done to permit the Postoffice Department to employ bread winners of needy families irrespective of civil service status.

President Hoover, in saying "no special session is necessary to deal with employment," added:

"The sense of voluntary organizations and community service in the American people has not vanished. The spirit of voluntary service has been strong enough to cope with the problems for the past year and it will, I am confident, continue in full measure of the needs."

"Col. Woods is receiving most gratifying evidence of this from the Governors, Mayors, industrial leaders and welfare organizations throughout the country." Col. Arthur Woods is national unemployment relief director.

Woods Stresses Organization.

The problem of unemployment will be attacked by Col. Woods, with a view, first, to find employment for as many persons as possible and, second to provide relief in those cases where employment is not available.

Although stressing the task of feeding the unemployed was one for local organizations to handle, Col. Woods said the Federal Government would assist in aiding the states to work out plans to increase the number of jobs and to care for families which do not have a bread-winner.

He announced he had obtained the services of Fred C. Croxton, Columbus, O., to co-operate with the Governors of states in the Middle West. Croxton, he said, was largely responsible for a successful plan worked out in Ohio to take care of the unemployed.

Woods said the most seriously affected region appeared to be the Great Lakes states and Croxton would work in them. He expects to appoint about three other regional directors to co-operate with the states.

Col. Woods said he was seeking the accurate number of unemployed. "We expect to get information from each city," he added, "and pass it to other cities, particularly as to successful methods used in combatting the unemployment problem.

Wants All the Facts.

"We want to know all about labor conditions, those working on part time and the number of families left with no bread winner. It is only on accurate information that wise action can be taken."

He said information also would be sought from the Census Bureau, the American Federation of Labor and state labor and other agencies.

Col. Woods said he expected the relief machinery to be "operating under full steam within a week. He was pleased to note industry generally was co-operating through the adoption of the stagger system of employment. It will not be necessary for the Federal Government to set up a breadline, he said, adding the feeding of unemployed was a local problem.

Col. Woods said approval of public works proposals totaling approximately $450,000,000, to be voted on in about 20 states in November, would stimulate industry and go far toward relieving unemployment. These issues, Woods said, would entail the employment of a large number of men.

Nine states, he said, have before them issues aggregating $290,000,000 and cities, counties or special districts have issues totaling $146,000,000.

Work on the Mississippi.

Major-General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, announced today that all matters involving labor along the Mississippi and Missouri rivers were being handled with the greatest dispatch to keep in employment as many men as possible.

Secretary Lamont has received from Mayor Curley of Boston an outline of a plan for the Federal Government to expend within two years $1,000,000,000 for the development of the Mississippi River from the Lakes to the Gulf. Such a project, Curley said, not only would give employment to thousands of jobless, but would decrease unemployment in several basic industries, including lumber, steel, agriculture and cement. It would, he added, stimulate activity and contribute to the alleviation of the existing economic depression.

Two Government branches have taken steps to help in a small but substantial way, the Postoffice ordering all overtime eliminated and the work given to substitutes, while the Shipping Board announces it will "forget" for the time being the plan to cut down the Merchant Fleet Corporation's staff. This cut would have laid off some 700 employes at a saving of about $1,000,000. These workers are at various ports.

Some Encouraging Reports.

From Detroit comes an announcement that 10 plants of the Fisher Body Corporation outside Detroit will resume full-time operation Monday. Between 6000 and 7000 men who have been working only three days a week will benefit.

Detroit shops and factories are reported to have recalled 2261 workmen during the past few days, while the Municipal Unemployment Committee has found jobs for 3803 men. These figures were announced by James M. Duncan, employment manager of the Municipal Employment Bureau.

Stagger System in Cleveland.

In Cleveland County Commissioners have announced that a $9,000,000 two-year road building program will be attempted, starting with letting of $450,000 worth of road contracts Dec. 16. Preliminary road construction work will require employment of about 1000 men through the winter, the Commissioners said. Meanwhile the city has 1100 men working on streets, sewers and parks, as a part of its relief program. The city is using a stagger plan of employment for these, giving 1100 men three days of work, and then replacing them with 1100 others. About 6000 men will have part-time employment through this system. City Manager Daniel E. Morgan announced that virtually all industry in Cleveland had adopted the stagger system of employment to divide work among as many employes as possible.

New York City Plans.

New York City is preparing to serve from 12,000 to 15,000 meals a day during the winter to the unemployed. Also 3000 persons nightly will be sheltered in the Municipal Lodging House and a recreation pier, which is to be converted into a barracks.

Public Welfare Commissioner Frank Taylor estimated there are 10,000 persons homeless in the city.

In Chicago and in Illinois generally unemployment relief his advanced in this order: Surveys to find jobs for the jobless; establishment of soup kitchens and shelters; establishment of registration bureaus for the jobless; collection and distribution of relief funds, clothing and food; patrolling of railroad stations and bus depots to prevent an influx of unemployed; a central Statewide committee, appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, to guide relief work with local groups in cities, towns and counties. It is estimated there are 400,000 jobless in the State.

Dollars from the pay checks of officers and employes of the Insull Utility companies promises a potent fund. Samuel Insull, head of the group, announced that one day's pay a month for six months would be given in voluntary contributions by the entire personnel of his organization. It is estimated by one company officer that the gift will amount to more than $100,000 a month.

Steel Plant Reopening to Give 700 Work.

By the Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 24.—The Inland Steel Co. of Wisconsin will reopen its Milwaukee plant Nov. 3, giving full time employment to 700 men. The plant will be run 24 hours in three shifts, E. G. Jones, general superintendent, said today.

BRITISH LABOR CABINET CHALLENGES ITS OPPONENTS

Its Demand in King's Speech for Repeal of Union Disputes Act May Lead to Its Overthrow.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Labor Cabinet has sent to King George a draft of the King's speech for the opening next Tuesday of what seems likely to be the last session of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's Parliament.

The ministers, who traditionally write the "King's speech," are putting into the mouth of the monarch proposals to extend education and raise the age at which children may leave school, for compulsory inclusion of 15 per cent of home-grown wheat in all flour milled in Great Britain to settle unemployed townsmen on the land as agricultural laborers, and, finally, to repeal the Trades Union Dispute act, which the Tories enacted after the general strike four years ago in order to make any similar upheaval impossible.

In well informed labor circles this last point, which is embodied in a bill is thought to be likely to bring the Government down and precipitate a general election within a few weeks. The Liberals are determined to oppose and their votes are sufficient, with those of the Tories, to turn the MacDonald Government out. The Labor Ministry is, however, forced by pledges to its own supporters to try to repeal the Conservative legislation hampering the rights of trade unions to collect industrial war funds from their members.

What complicates the situation most is the Indian round table conference which meets next month. The opposition is anxious not to force an election while this is in session; but it is felt that the trades dispute act will leave it no choice, unless by consent it can be hung up in committee for weeks or months. The importance of the Indian conference, however, seems less than was anticipated because, as the delegates to it begin to arrive here, irreconcilable differences are already evident and the prospect of any agreed results remote. It is already noticeable that the leaders of both the Tory and Liberal parties are carefully holding aloof from the Indian conference, not wishing to share responsibility for its seemingly inevitable failure.

The Imperial conference is moribund and worse than moribund. Hitherto these gatherings, by keeping to generalities, have done much good in fostering imperial sentiment and no harm; but this year the effort of the dominions, especially by the Canadian Prime Minister, Richard Bedford Bennett, to get definite economic decisions adopted, by forcing into the open the conflicting interests of the dominions and Great Britain and making clear that nothing can be done, have created friction instead of good will. Privately, many of the participants from the dominions and this country are already deploring the existing deadlock and wondering what can be done to save the face of the conference and conceal the breakdown.

MENDELSSOHN MARCH FOR ROYAL WEDDING

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 24.—Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, who is to marry King Boris III of Bulgaria here tomorrow morning, is to have her wish, after all, and leave the Franciscan Basilica, where the ceremony is to take place, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. This has been made possible by a last minute decision to hold the wedding in the upper part of the two churches which compose the Basilica.

Only ritual singing is permitted in the lower church, which contains a papal altar, and it was here that it was first planned to hold the ceremony. The upper church, built after the lower one, is the larger and lighter of the two, but less picturesque. The wedding cortege will remain there after the ceremony, while Giovanna and Boris descend to the crypt to worship at the tomb of St. Francis.

Children and old people have been busy all today for miles around this peaceful mountain town collecting twigs and leaves for the bonfires which will blaze tonight in honor of the royal wedding.

Every house, from patrician castle to humblest peasant's cottage within a 15-mile radius of the Franciscan city, will light its own bonfire at a given signal after sunset.

The simple mountaineers of the region explain that through Giovanna's wedding communicants of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church and those who regard Rome as the spiritual center of the world, will be united in prayer and piety.

Counting up the eight times that Giovanna has visited St. Francis' tomb here in the past five years, they explain that the Princess came to ask St. Francis to intercede for her so that the religious difficulties which impeded the royal match might be removed.

St. Francis is supposed to help aspirants to matrimony who pray to him and also to keep unions happy after they are made.

MANY KILLED IN FLOODS IN STATE OF VERA CRUZ

"Possibly Hundreds" of Residents of Alamo Caught in Rush of Water.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Dispatches to the newspaper Excelsior from Tampico quote the commander of the Federal garrison at Alamo, State of Vera Cruz, as saying that many persons, possible hundreds, perished during floods there Tuesday.

Capt. Alvaro Barrazo, who escaped from the town with his troops, said he had observed the disaster from high ground and had seen "possibly hundreds" of persons caught in the sudden onrush of water. He added the town was almost destroyed, although an American aviator, E. Warren, flying over what he thought to be Alamo yesterday, said several buildings were left standing and were emerging from the receding waters. Warren saw several persons walking around.

Barrazo and his men reached the town of Chapopote Nunez after a hard march through storm and flood-ridden country, losing their horses on the way. From Chapopote Nunez he told the commander of the garrison at Tampico of the disaster. He said the storms commenced Sunday, Oct. 5, and kept up until Tuesday of this week.

Other reports say the villages of San Isidro, Tumbadero, Ojite and San Miguel disappeared beneath the water, which receding had left many human bodies as well as the bodies of cattle. The Penn-Mex. Fuel Co. property at Alamo was damaged.

SENATE INQUIRY OF BANKING SYSTEMS TO OPEN NOV. 15

Hearings by Glass Committee Expected to Give Insight Into Stock Exchange Operations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Senate's inquiry into the operation of banking systems will open Nov. 15 under tentative plans announced by Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, chairman of the Investigating Committee.

The hearings promise to give an insight into the operations of the stock exchanges where fluctuations in stock prices have created considerable interest both at the Capitol and the White House, but the investigation itself is not directed at the Stock Exchanges.

Pending conferences with the other committee members, Senator Glass is announcing no definite plans for the study other than to emphasize that it will be conducted into all phases of the National Federal Reserve banking systems.

Glass, a co-author of the Federal Reserve Act, has always contended that the act was intended to forbid the use of Federal Reserve funds in speculation and said "it is inevitable that ultimately we shall go into that phase in order to find some deterring penalty to prevent resreve banks from letting their facilities be used for speculation."

The Virginian has pending a bill to amend the Federal Reserve Act and one provision would provide that when loans are made to member banks by the Federal Reserve bank "said bank shall not increase or enlarge the total of loans already made by it either upon collateral security to any borrower or to the members of any organized stock exchange, investment house or dealer in securities."

FEDERAL BOARD TO STUDY CONSERVATION OF TIMBER

President Hoover to Set Up Agency to Investigate Forest Resources.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Hoover plans to create a national timber conservation board to make a broad study of forest resources and means to conserve and perpetuate them.

The announcement that the chief executive would set up such an agency was made at the White House yesterday after he had received from Dr. Wilson Compton of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association a suggestion that similar fact finding commissions be named to study all of the nation's basic industries.

M'CAWLEY MAKING THIRD UPHILL FIGHT FOR STATE SENATE

GREATEST STRENGTH FROM ROAD RECORD

Prohibition Not a Strong Factor but Any Benefit From Wets Will Go to Preacher.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 24.—Senator A. L. McCawley, of Carthage, who has a record of nosing out his Republican opponent in this overwhelmingly Republican Twenty-eighth Senatorial District, is having his third fight for the office this year. While it never can be said that a Democrat has carried the district until the count of votes has shown that he has, McCawley's record as a candidate in this section of the State has led to the general expectation that he will be returned to the Senate.

McCawley's prominence as chairman of the Senate Committee on Roads and Highways, his successful Senate fights to preserve the integrity of the State highway fund, and his leadership in the advocacy of measures to strengthen the State road law form the principal impetus behind his candidacy this year, relegating to comparative insignificance in this section of the State any controversy which might grow out of the fact that he is the author of the Missouri "bone dry" law and that he is known as the "dry leader of the Senate."

No Stress on Prohibition Issue.

It can hardly be said that prohibition is not an issue in the district, which is confined to Jasper County, but it can be said that it is not much of an issue. McCawley's opponent is the Rev. Cliff K. Titus, pastor of the Community Church of Joplin, a nonsectarian organization. The Rev. Mr. Titus is not making prohibition an issue. Being a dry also, he is not in a position to do so, but he is the recipient of whatever advantage may accrue from the criticism which speakers on the same platform with him level at McCawley for his authorship of the State enforcement act.

The Rev. Mr. Titus as his meetings talks principally of national issues and makes a few veiled references to the duty of State Senators to refrain from connections with corporate interests which may conflict with his duties as a Senator, but he makes no direct personal fight on McCawley. His veiled references are understood to be to McCawley's acceptance of employment as an attorney by the defunct Young Bros. brokerake house, the collapse of which resulted in criticism of Secretary of State Becker and other officials. McCawley has insisted that his representation of Young Bros. was purely professional, and was in no

D'ANNUNZIO'S ACTS RATIFIED

Seizure of Ship at Fiume War, Not Piracy, Court Holds.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 24.—The Supreme Court has decided that the seizure of the steamship Cogne by officers of Gabrielle D'Annunzio during the Fiume trouble of 1920, was an act of war and not of piracy. Hence the Italian Union Insurance Co. must pay for the loss involved.

When the ship was seized it was on the way from Fiume to Sao Paulo, Brazil, with a valuable cargo.

DREYFUS' VINDICATOR DIES

Brother and Defender of Devil's Island Prisoner Succumbs.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Mathieu Dreyfus, who led the fight to establish the innocence of his brother, Capt. Alfred Dreyfus, against the accusations of having divulged state secrets to a foreign power, died here today.

In the historic fight for revision of his brother's sentence in 1894 to confinement on Devil's Island, Mathieu Dreyfus expended his time, energy and fortune.

DO-X EXPECTS TO START FLIGHT TO U. S. TUESDAY

OCEAN JOURNEY BEGINS AT LISBON

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(Copyright, 1930.)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 24.—"The DO-X will be all clear on Tuesday morning for the takeoff from Lake Constance on the first leg of the flight to Lisbon, from which the trans-Atlantic hop to New York will begin."

This was the statement last night of Capt. Christian Christiansen, master of the giant Dornier flying boat, on his return from Hamburg, where he had been in consultation with the Seewarte, chief German Atlantic weather station. Capt. Christiansen said:

"With everything ready on Tuesday, our start from here will then depend solely on the weather. We will hop when the cloud ceiling is high enough and the visibility down the Rhine to Holland good enough."

From an announcement by the German postal ministry that mail for the DO-X flight would be accepted until Nov. 8 came the mistaken conclusion that the flying ship would remain here until then.

This is explained away because the DO-X is carrying no mail from Friedrichshafen. The mail for the trans-Atlantic passage will be assembled here until Nov. 8 and then taken to Lisbon on a special plane after the DO-X has left Southampton, England.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

P. S. C. and Delmar Boulevard.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE St. Louis Public Service Co, is asking the city for a very valuable franchise, after getting fares boosted to 10 cents. What has the P. S. C. given in return? Only service which is paid for in cash. When the people of St. Louis ask for something, what do they get?

For instance, about 10 years ago a bill was passed by the Board of Aldermen to remove the ugly, menacing curb poles and projecting rails on Delmar boulevard from Kingshighway to Clara avenue. The presiding Mayor promised to sign the bill, but instead vetoed same, according to good authority.

The people who own property, the people who drive, the people who live in this vicinity, the hospitals and institutions harassed by the noise and honking horns of cars trying to pass in the narrow spaces, are asking the removal of this ugly, dirty and dangerous menace.

About six months ago a petition was again presented with about 500 names, business men and women, property owners, backed by 47 improvement associations and the president of the Real Estate Exchange praying the Board of Public Service to give their approval to this most necessary improvement on one of our important boulevards.

And what did the petitioners get? Not a word in answer. Are the people of St. Louis to be ignored entirely by our city fathers and the Public Service Co.?

JUST A CITIZEN.

Dedication of Harding Tomb.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER reading the press opinion on the Harding tomb, I am prompted to write to you. I am a former resident and still a property owner within a stone's throw of the tomb erected in memory of Marion's own President.

Because of my sense of humanity and good traditions of our forefathers, I would be in favor of the school children of Marion dedicating the memorial, with a competent student to give the speech of dedication. I am sure that would meet with the approval of our beloved Warren G. Harding. This would relieve all of our politicians of any embarrassment.

Where Sartorius' Strength Lies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SARTORIUS may not take so well in the Twenty-eighth Ward, but he sure is going over big both in North and South St. Louis, and those are the spots which can put the Democratic ticket over. Sartorius is your strongest, not your weakest, candidate. NOT SO DISGUSTED.

News Reel Contribution.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your Wednesday edition I noticed contrasts suitable I think for your News Reel.

Hoover appoints Arthur Woods to find employment for 3,500,000 idle people.

The Secretary of Agriculture summons the entire membership of the St. Louis Livestock Exchange and the St. Louis Order-Buyers' Association to a hearing Nov. 6, threatening to revoke their licenses and suspend them from doing business on this market. That would automatically throw out of honest employment nearly 1000 employes, all of whom are assisting in carrying on a legitimate and honorable business. Many of these men, including the writer, have spent a life-time in the livestock business.

W. M. BRODERICK.

Not Offended by British Attitude.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MAY I respectfully take exception to your heading of Oct. 22, "World Jewry Offended at British Stand on Palestine"? The article in question hardly warrants so sweeping an assertion.

I am a Jew; yet I do not feel in the least "offended" by Great Britain's attitude. On the contrary, I believe it not only sensible but inevitable. The British Government is merely recognizing what many Jews consider the fundamental weakness of the Zionist movement—namely, the difficulty of creating a Jewish "homeland" in a territory already occupied by another people.

HAROLD M. BAER.

For Simple Form of Merger.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CITIZEN X's proposal either to drop or defeat Proposition No. 5 and make the right start in 1932 should be heeded.

The first essential step in solving our regional problems is to retire the suburban officials on a pension. This would prove to be much more economical in the long run than providing for them through the clumsy governmental structure advocated.

This real conflicting interest being eliminated, the remaining metropolitan population with identical interests could secure a grant of authority whereby complete consolidation could be accomplished. This would make possible the simplest form of government with the minimum of taxation.

FLORENCE S. EARLING.

ALLEVIATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

The prospect of a second winter of serious unemployment has led to the creation of a number of committees charged with the task of formulating plans for relief. Gov. Roosevelt's committee on the stabilization of employment is actively continuing its work in New York State. In Illinois, Gov. Emmerson has just created a commission on unemployment. The Detroit committee, created by Mayor Murphy at the time of his election, has presented a practical program for relief. St. Louis, Indianapolis and Cincinnati have established municipal committees, and a Federal committee, consisting of six Cabinet officers and the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, has been appointed by President Hoover. In New York City a group of financiers has pledged itself to raise from private sources funds adequate to support a payroll of $150,000 per week, which will be used to employ 10,000 men for work in the city's parks. Many practical suggestions have already been made by several of these bodies. Large community chests have been raised and charity must be organized with a view to relieving serious distress.

Work may be spread out by persuading employers to reduce hours and take on more workers during the emergency. Extra shifts may be persuaded that partial employment at reduced wages for all is to be preferred to absolute privation for many. Odd jobs and neighborhood chores might be consolidated so that they would afford regular work by the day rather than occasional employment by the hour. More free public employment offices should be opened and the work of all these bureaus should be in some way co-ordinated. Repair work in schools, homes, offices and factories should be undertaken at once rather than postponed until business recovers. Corporations should be persuaded to make purchases of necessary material and supplies in advance of use and to undertake further manufacturing for stock. Consumers should be urged, insofar as possible, to increase their purchases. The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce has initiated a "buy now" campaign which has attracted wide attention.

Even more important, however, is the possibility of stimulating construction. Many of our public institutions stand in serious need of improved equipment. We still need roads, parks, bridges, public buildings. Our cities call for extensive programs of beautification. Thousands of families need clean and comfortable modern dwellings, not houses in the $20,000 class, such as John D. Rockefeller Jr. is erecting in Cleveland, but small homes that laborers, clerks and small tradesmen can afford to build and own. Public building projects which have already been financed should be pushed with all the haste which is consistent with careful and economical construction. New public construction should be financed through tax levies and bond issues at the earliest possible moment. The building of small homes should be promoted by the facilitation of credit extension to home builders. It is to be hoped that President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership, which is now meeting in Washington, will be able to suggest how this may be done.

Now is the time to build. Millions of working men are idle. Billions of dollars in savings are piling up in the banks. There are many public improvements which society urgently needs. Marked revival in the construction trades would not only alleviate temporary distress, but might soon develop a market which would start business on the road to recovery. The situation calls for the co-operation of voters, legislatures, city councils, public officials, bankers, business men—of the whole community—to the end that employment may be provided, industry revived and prosperity eventually restored.

LANGUAGE OF THE AUTO HORN.

For years motorists have had their own way about squawking horns whenever they felt like it, but at last steps are being taken. Mexico City has enacted penalties for sounding off at corners where officers are stationed or in front of theaters. New York police, conducting a drive against unnecersary tooters, handed out 888 summonses the first week.

If the weird noises of auto horns were intended simply for a warning, as the fire trucks employ their sirens, a jittering public might forgive the wear on weary nerves and the distraction forced by the blasts. But the sudden detonations of sound now may mean so many different things that their original purpose is forgotten. From the vast vocabulary of the honker, we gather a few of the phrases he expresses by one long push on the horn button:

What's the delay up ahead there? Have a look at my new car, fellow citizens. Scatter for your lives, I'm shooting through. Don't you dare brush my fender. Anybody home on the second floor? Why doesn't that green light come on? I'm in too big a hurry to slow down at this corner. I've been waiting in this line a full minute, officer. Get that old hack out of the way and let me have the road. And, hello there, girlie.

PLATFORM OF THE STRADDLE PARTY.

The Straddlers, although running a good many candidates in the current campaign, have with their usual modesty made no announcement of their platform. To guide our readers at the polls, we compile the party's credo, as culled from remarks by its leaders:

Prohibition: We favor upholding the Constitution and supporting the will of the people. We shall be governed by the majority judgment as expressed in a solemn referendum.

Tariff: This should be adjusted on a purely scientific basis to give full protection to industries of our district.

Prisons: To relieve congestion, we urge building new facilities at once, if it can be done without expense to the taxpayer.

Regulation of public utilities: This is an important problem. We shall make a study of it when we have a little more time and let our constituents know what should be done.

Farm relief: The drouth was severe and some districts may need help, but it should not be in the form of charity or doles.

Unemployment: We advocate solving this at once by giving a job to every man who needs one.

Sunday baseball: Baseball is a healthful, invigorating sport.

Taxation: Taxes should provide enough revenue to run the Government, but should not be a hardship on the people.

Honesty in government: We take a flat-footed stand in favor of this, and urge drastic punishment for any and all corrupt practices of our opponents.

MONTANA, THE NATION AND SENATOR WALSH.

With the clouds of what appears to be another oil scandal gathering over Washington it becomes all the more necessary that the State of Montana re-elect Senator Walsh on Nov. 4. To a considerable extent the fight against him is similar to the primary campaign against Senator Norris of Nebraska. Each stands for the right of the people against vested interests and in doing so naturally has incurred the ill will of the latter.

Senator Walsh's opponent, Albert J. Galen, is an outspoken wet, whereas Senator Walsh has been a friend of prohibition and was one of those who helped in drafting the eighteenth amendment. Other things being equal, the Post-Dispatch would prefer the election of a Senator opposed to prohibition, but in this case other things are not equal; far from it. In his three terms in the Senate the quiet Montanan has been an outstanding figure. His speeches, replete with facts and packed with close reasoning, have made him a formidable adversary in debate. He is known as one of the Senate's best constitutional lawyers, and as such his advice is constantly being sought. He wrote that part of the Federal reserve act which required national banks to subscribe for stock in Federal reserve banks. He formulated the case against Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, trail blazer among senatorial candidates who would win their seats with wealth.

His great work was his investigation of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills leases, one of the finest examples of faithful public service in the history of the United States. Public property valued at more than $1,000,000,000 was recovered by the Government as a result of his work. About that accomplishment so impartial an authority as the Encyclopedia Britannica (14th ed., v. 23, p. 314) says: "He is chiefly known for the tireless tenacity with which he prosecuted the investigation of circumstances surrounding the illegal leasing of Government oil reserves during Harding's administration, an investigation which he took up after it had previously been dropped, and carried it through to overwhelming success."

Such an achievement as that would be enough to make of him a marked man. Those who believe the purpose of government is to make possible the enrichment of the few at the expense of the many could not be expected to work for him. Senator Walsh is their enemy. The Power Trust would like to see him defeated, just as it would like to see Senator Norris defeated, for in 1928 Senator Walsh, in the face of the most powerful lobby ever assembled in Washington, made a successful fight to have the financial and trade practices of public utility corporations investigated. This investigation has resulted, in disclosures of tremendous importance and is far from complete. That victory means another black mark for him in the record book of the vested interests. Nor did he gain himself friends in certain circles by exposing the amazing scheme by which the Government's prosecution of the Bread Trust was scuttled.

Rumors that some of the oil magnates Senator Walsh brought to justice are pouring money into Montana to defeat him is an added reason why every citizen of the State interested in the public welfare should be a diligent worker for him at this time. If adherence to the public good is a criterion, Senator Walsh deserves re-election. Montana has had confidence in him for 18 years. She can do the nation no greater service than to reaffirm that confidence on election day.

DELICATESSEN JURISPRUDENCE.

Cook books no less than statute books will be cited in court should delicatessen dealers fall under suspicion of evading the Sunday regulations as expounded in the temporary Circuit Court injunction just issued. The writ seeks to segregate "prepared" foods from raw ingredients, a problem on which writs and recipes are likely to clash. One comestible forbidden for Sunday sale is sugar, and here a delicate question arises. Sprinkled on breakfast food or stirred in coffee, sugar is ready for the consumer, without preparation. Used to make Sunday afternoon fudge, however, it would be an ingredient. But milk also is a constituent of fudge, and the sale of milk is unhampered. Again, fresh vegetables are verboten for vending on the Sabbath, though there are many requiring no cookery. Radishes and green onions, for example, need no more preparation than does a can of sardines. The sardine is legal, the onion an outcast. Other dilemmas innumerable will be faced by both police and storekeepers in wrestling with this law. Does this decree, we ask, divorce those boon companions, frankfurters and sauer-kraut? And what are the chances for buying a can of malt syrup next Sunday?

WHY THE SOUTHPAW?

Superintendent of Schools Gerling, in calling attention to the presence of 3194 left-handed writers among the 85,000 pupils in the elementary public schools, ordered teachers to devote special effort to assisting them to a standard writing technique. Children in kindergarten and first grade will be encouraged to begin writing with the right hand. The matter brings up the question why 92 to 96 per cent of human beings do things in a right-handed way while the remainder develop sinistery. There is little agreement among theorists as to the cause. Some believe it an acquired habit and relate it to the way a child is held in infancy. Dr. Watson, the behaviorist, thinks it is a socially conditioned response. Then on the other hand, there is the view that it runs in the family. It seems to us that specialists ought to be able to think of many more reasons why children who want to southpaw should be allowed to do so. Offhand we can think of 12 reasons, namely: Eddie Plank, Sherrod Smith, Rube Waddell, Jim Vaughan, Art Nehf, Herb Pennock, Doc White, Slim Sallee, Dick Kerr, Rube Marquard, Lefty Grove and Wild Bill Hallahan.

"IF YOU KNOWS A WORSE 'OLE GO TO IT."

The Disunited States of Europe

Proposal for United Europe rests on erroneous assumption that nations of Continent have identity of feeling like that held by states of this country; instead, each unit has intense and separate nationalist spirit; any union would touch Anglo-Saxon Powers at all points; only rational basis of unity project is on world scale.

Salvador de Madariaga in the Forum.

THE question of a European Federation has remained on the international round table ever since M. Briand let it fall there with a gesture half cautious, half negligent; half "I wonder," half "what do I care?" Since he outlined the vague contours of his cloudy thought to a gathering of European delegates at the 1929 Assembly of the League of Nations, he has prepared and distributed a memorandum on his views to which most European nations have already presented their observations. As usual in these cases, the cloud has burst and we have been blessed with a rain of paper.

One of the most distinguished American internationalists, Frank Bohn, disagrees with my views. Mr. Bohn was good enough to say that I have been one of the most faithful of nurses to the League of Nations; but to represent my cautious position toward the United States of Europe as concern for the League is to misunderstand it altogether.

I would gladly give up the League for the United States of Europe. My point is that the organization of the United States of Europe is not possible; that it is not advisable in the form in which it has been put forward by M. Briand; and that the idea of it rests on a basis of wrong assumptions and of delusions.

Mr. Bohn gives an imposing list of "continent" nations: The United States of North America, the United States of Latin America, the United States of Western Europe, the United States of Russia, the United States of China; almost certainly, the British Commonwealth of Nations; and, possibly, the United States of India.

The idea of such a list is purely bookish and theoretical. The United States of North America have for their basis an identity of feeling, of culture and of reaction toward life. In fact, they are a nation—a federation of states, if you wish—but not a federation of nations. To consider Tennessee and Alabama as nations in the sense in which Italy and Holland are nations is playing with words—and, what is worse, playing with ideas.

The United States of Latin America (why Latin?) may some day develop. It will take very long. The United States of Russia—well, that is Russia. The United States of China—well, that is China. The United States of India—well, that is India.

But the British Commonwealth? Are you going to take Great Britain from Europe? Very good. I merely make a note of the fact. Only remember this: there is nowhere in any one of the groups we have so far mentioned as much intensive variety of life, as much difference, as much consciousness of historic and cultural disunion, as there is in Europe.

Now the point to be emphasized is that the differences between the several components of Europe are greater than those between Europeans on the one hand and certain non-Europeans on the other. To write, as Mr. Bohn wrote: "Pull down the European tariff walls! Let these peoples work together! Let them travel at will! Then they will learn to like one another. They will all learn a single language"—is to brush aside facts of nature which are stronger than the will of any man or group.

Take the last item in the program: "They will all learn a single language." But is a language like a dress that one can adopt at will? A language is a fact of nature, and it is as hopeless to expect all the peoples of Europe to learn one language as it is to expect all the trees to have the same leaf.

The point I wish to emphasize is that Europe is honeycombed with separate, distinct, characteristic, national spirits to a degree altogether exceptional in the world.

Let us by all means foster the sense of solidarity among all these peoples. But—and this is my second point—the constitution of a European Federation is neither possible nor necessary nor desirable in order to achieve this end. The true basis for the growth of European solidarity can be nothing less than the whole world.

* * *

A purely European Federation is not possible because the sense of difference between European nations is so strong that, unless it be diluted with the co-operation of non-European nations, it will be increased through an isolated coming together on a strictly European basis. Both Washington and New York are fully aware of the soothing effect of the presence of American delegates at discussions of all questions pertaining to reparations.

Any attempt at a European Federation would touch American interests at every turn. English interests would likewise be powerfully affected. Could the two great Anglo-Saxon nations which Mr. Bohn leaves out of his United States of Europe tolerate the exclusion?

There is one thing, and one thing only, which is European—and that is the problem of security. Europe is a woman with a history. She is therefore subject to fits of nerves. Independently of any economic argument of solidarity or rivalry, and precisely because she is so rich in separate national spirits, Europe often finds herself divided against herself.

But history has shown that even this strictly European problem cannot be solved on a European basis, for otherwise neither England nor the United States of America would have participated in the war. It is this double situation of England—European, yet oceanic — which makes every European problem a world problem as well.

But then, if the only strictly European problems that can be found are those that arise precisely out of the rich nationalistic loam of which Europe is made; and if even those problems, strictly European in their source, become world problems owing to the amphibious character of England: then why the United States of Europe? And what is more to the point, how?

Nothing could be further removed from the spirit of these remarks than a nationalistic or narrow interpretation of the spirit which inspires them. Far from it. My objection to the idea of the United States of Europe does not come from a feeling that it is too wide, but from a feeling that it is too narrow, and that it constitutes a diversion and an unnecessary step in the evolution toward the organization of the world.

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Poet

LONESOME WATER. Poems by Roy Helton. (Harper & Bros., New York City. $2.00).

SINCE the so-called "Renaissance of Poetry" began along about 1912 with the free verse movement, it is practically certain that there have been far more professing poets in the world than ever before during any single generation. The number of those who have managed in one way or another to get their verse printed has been very great and they can not have constituted more than a very small minority of verse addicts. Nevertheless, anyone who has really experienced the poetic mystery intensely and often, not as literature, but as a state of expanded and uplifted consciousness, must have noted that in our time, as doubtless in former times, poetry very seldom happens. So seldom does it happen, that hundreds of books written in verse, even though some of them are notably well written, may be read eagerly with only an occasional moment of the genuine psychic expansion and uplift. On the contrary, such moments are frequent and intense in the best work of a very few of our lyric poets—Edna Millay being a notable example. It has happened that certain collections of verse have been praised in the most extravagant terms for a season, although not one such moment was to be experienced in reading them. As a matter of fact, the man in the street is almost right in his judgment of "poetry" in the bulk. In the main, it is largely a matter of vain pretense and self-fooling, the saying of something in an awkward insincere way that was not worth saying.

So confused has the whole question of poetry become as the result of its democratization in the worst possible sense, that to say of a book of verse simply that it contains much genuine poetry is to give to most people no impression whatever of one's meaning. Such a statement should constitute the highest praise, without any attempt being made to rate the writer as "greater" or "greatest" or even "great." Nearly all of the unquestionably genuine poetry of our day is minor in character, for that matter, the mood being personal and concerned with broken fragments of experience, not with the building of objective wholes vital with emergent meaning of a general character.

The purpose of the foregoing remarks is to prepare the reader, who may have come to regard the poetical game of the day as rather piffling on the whole, to read an extraordinary meaning into a simple statement about one Roy Helton, whose volume of verse, "Lonesome Water," has just appeared. And this is the statement: Roy Helton is a poet.

The collection is composed almost wholly of Kentucky mountain ballads and lyrics of life in the hills. It is not primarily the nature of the material treated nor the convincing use of mountain dialect that makes this a notable book. Whatever might deeply interest a man like Helton would be certain to result in poetry; but his evidently intimate knowledge of the hill people has given him the opportunity to deal with fundamental human nature, and with the insight and verbal magic at his command he has produced some strangely impressive poems for which many a lover of poetry will be deeply grateful.

After all, talk about poetry really doesn't get anywhere. The important thing is to experience it—and here in "Lonesome Water" is an opportunity.

TWICE BORN IN RUSSIA. By Natalia Petrova. (William Morrow & Co., New York City, $2.).

This simple and deeply moving account of one woman's experiences before and during the Russian revolution, was written, we are told, by a Princess of the Imperial house, "Natalia Petrova" being a pseudonym. The author begins with her childhood setting forth briefly but vividly the manner of life lived by the old aristocracy, and the relations that existed between her class and the peasants. When the great breakup came, she made no effort to escape from Russia, but, moving from place to place, managed somehow to keep herself and her children alive. It is a story of terrible cruelties and hardships and heroisms, but it is told without emphasis and with a minimum of self-regard.

The utter lack of resentment on the author's part, her very evident habit of understatement and the level-headed humanness of her attitude toward the whole ghastly business leave no doubt in the reader's mind as to the record's truthfulness. It's a book very much worth reading.

TUNDRA. By The Eddingtons. (The Century Co., New York City. $2.50).

The story of the adventures of one A. H. ("Bert") Hansen who, as a raw youth, went to Juneau, Alaska in 1896, walked 470 miles to Fairbanks in the dead of winter, became deputy U. S. marshal and, in the pursuance of his official duties, "mushed" more than 60,000 miles through the interior of Alaska, tracking criminals and doing deeds of mercy. It is a brave tale well told.

ALICE DAVIS DESCRIBES LIFE IN PHILIPPINES

Governor-General's Daughter Stops Here on Way to Paris to See Mother.

Miss Alice B. Davis, daughter of Dwight F. Davis, Governor-General of the Philippines, stopped over in St. Louis yesterday on her way from Manila to Paris to visit her mother.

She left St. Louis today, planning a brief visit in Washington, after which she will go on to Paris where her mother has been ill for the past two years. If Mrs. Davis' physicians think her health will permit her to live in the tropics, mother and daughter will return to Manila together.

At the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis, 13 Westmoreland place, Miss Davis talked of her life in the Philippines, where for two years she has acted as official hostess for her father, accompanying him on inspection trips through the islands.

The Davis family occupies the historic Malacanang Palace, residence of the rulers of the Philippine Islands for almost 150 years, modernized by improvements installed by successive Governors. Gen. Wood, the former Governor, added a fine tennis court and swimming pool, and Gov. Davis has added a wing of bedrooms.

Miss Davis said her duties as hostess were not arduous and related that she found time for several leisurely trips, in the Governor's private yacht, to the China coast. Because of the nature of the roads, an automobile is almost useless in the islands. The Governor and his family usually travel by boat or on horseback. Neither Miss Davis nor her father has mastered the native dialects although both have been studying Spanish diligently since their arrival in the islands.

Miss Davis's sister, Miss Cynthia Davis, and her brother Dwight Jr., recently joined their father in Manila where the son is now employed in a bank. Miss Davis said she would not make plans for her return trip until after she had seen her mother. She may return by way of St. Louis or she may complete a trip around the world.

RELIEF GROUP FOR OZARK SECTION TO MEET TUESDAY

In Addition to Clothing, They Will Send Soup for Some of School Children.

The Ozark Helpers, a volunteer organization of women who send clothing to families in the tiff-digging sections of the Ozark mountains, will hold their second meeting of the season Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Villa Duchesne. Weekly meetings are held.

In addition to making and collecting clothing, the organization is endeavoring to supply soup this winter to some of the mountain schools, having learned that many of the children lack proper nutrition. Officers of the group said soup would be furnished one school at first and to others later, if the experiment is successful.

The chairman of the organization is Mrs. William G. Kimball, Mrs. Harrison Hoblitzelle is vice chairman and Mrs. J. L. McHugh, general director. Mrs. Martin Lammert is secretary.

CAPT. DONALD B. MACMILLAN WILL SPEAK ON ICELAND

Arctic Explorer to Describe Visit During 1000th Anniversary Celebration There.

Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, will speak on "Iceland. Its Land and Its People," at a meeting of the Washington University Association Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium at Lake and Waterman avenues, formerly used by Mary Institute.

Capt. MacMillan spent last summer in Iceland where he witnessed the celebration commemorating the 1000th anniversary of the founding of the Iceland Parliament.

His Arctic expeditions began in 1908 under Commodore Peary. Two years later he was a member of the Cabot Labrador party, and for four years he was the leader of the Crocker Land expedition. He served in the Navy during the World War, and returned again to his Arctic explorations.

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

The Denton J. Snider Association for Universal Culture will meet at Cabanne Branch Library at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Papers will be read by Mrs. William Watt Spear and Miss Belle Wall.

Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman will give the second of a series of lectures on Russia, entitled "The New Woman, the New Morality, and the New Justice in Soviet Russia" at Temple Israel this evening.

Unemployed workers will speak on "Starvation Amidst Plenty," with open discussion, at a meeting at 8 p. m. today at Crunden Branch Library, Fourteenth street and Cass avenue, under auspices of the Workers' Alliance.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

WITH the increase in popularity of the hunting season in St. Louis, groups of the socially prominent young married set have built lodges on their preserves in and around St. Louis County. Week-end parties and informal Sunday lunches are given as a respite from the more formal functions of the season in town. Some of the women are good shots, and spend whole days in the duck blinds with their husbands.

The Willow Gun Club built on a tract of hundreds of acres near St. Charles, Mo., and owned by a small group of men, is having a run of popularity just now, and almost every week-end finds some of the members and their families there.

The members include Lewis D. Dozier, Virgil A. Lewis, Joseph L. Werner, Arnold Stifel, Andrew W. Johnson, Bradford S. Shinkle, Louis Nicolaus, Harold M. Kauffman, John Gates Williams, John Overall, Harry Hall Knight and Charles Lemp.

Mr. and Mrs. Leicester Faust and Mr. Faust's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr., are joint owners of Quack Lodge near St. Charles, and spend part of each hunting season there.

She shooting lodge of Mr. and Mrs. August A. Busch, while not a new one, is the scene of much activity and many parties are given there. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Church Bixby have a place near St. Peter's, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein have joined the devotees of the sport.

Mrs. George T. Priest and Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter, 4934 Pershing avenue, will be joint hostesses at a Field day party for the debutantes to be given at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. PUriest on the Lemay Ferry road near Jefferson Barracks the afternoon and evening of Saturday, Nov. 15. The guests of honor will be Mrs. Priest's daughter, Miss Julia Rogers; Miss Jane Perry Francis, Miss Louise Goddard and Miss Mary Francis Day, all prominent debutantes of the season.

Field day parties wera inaugurated by Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter several seasons ago, when they lived in Florissant. The guests are invited for out-of-door games in the afternoon and remain for an informal buffet supper.

Miss Irene Williams, debutante daughter of Mrs. John T. Williams, 5635 Waterman avenue, will give two luncheons next month instead of one as had been planned. The first, for which invitations have been received, will be Nov. 5, and the second Tuesday, Nov. 11. Both will be given at the Williams home.

Miss Betty Rathmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lincoln Rathmann, 6424 Cecil avenue, will be guest of honor at a luncheon to be given the afternoon of Nov. 18 at the St. Louis Woman's Club. The hostess will be Miss Frances Boogher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Boogher, 6241 Waterman avenue. Miss Boogher was a special maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball last year, and Miss Rathmann received a similar honor at this year's ball.

Mrs. H. H. Culver, 40 Washington terrace, and her daughter, Mrs. Monroe H. Rodemyer, will be hostesses at a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon honoring Mr. Rodemyer's sister, Mrs. Frederick Sutter of Phoenix, Ariz., who is visiting in St. Louis. The decorations will be yellow chrysanthemums arranged in vases throughout the rooms.

The hostesses will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. John W. MacIvor, Mrs. E. R. Thomas, Mrs. Percy O. Eisenbeis and Mrs. Scott Heuer.

Miss Helen Kirtland Spencer, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Spencer, 4324 McPherson avenue, and Miss Louise Goddard, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddard, Brentmoor, will share honors at a luncheon to be given next Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Walter Baumgarten, 5032 Westminster place.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Blackburn (Joanne Gorey) have returned from an extended tour of the West and an early autumn sojourn in California and Mexico and are now at home at 4066 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Blackburn returned to St. Louis this week after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Gorey in Paris, Ky.

The Elliott Alliance of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah will entertain the alliances of Alton and St. Louis Monday at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Charles E. St. John of Boston. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock, after which Mrs. St. John, who is chairman of the International Relations Committee of the General Alliance, will speak on conditions in Northern Europe.

Mrs. Paul Compton is president of the Elliot Alliance, and Miss Mary Ittner, secretary.

Percival Chubb on Politics.

Percival Chubb, leader of the Ethical Society, will speak on "What Is Politics?" at the Sheldon Memorial, 3646 Washington boulevard, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He will consider the subject in relation to the forthcoming election. His topic Sunday replaces "What Is Philosophy?" scheduled as one of a series on the "Revaluation of Values."

MISS LULIE SIMMONS,

DAUGHTER of Mrs. George Welch Simmons, 21 Westmoreland place, who has returned from Manhassett, L. I., where she has been with her mother since early summer.

LUTHERAN PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN AT ARENA

The city's Lutheran churches will present a four-act pageant, "Truth Triumphant," at The Arena Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock in celebration of the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg Confession, the chief credal statement of faith in the Lutheran Church made at Augsburg, Germany. There will be 3668 persons in the cast, a children's chorus of 1500, and a chorus of 250 students of Concordia Seminary.

The first act, "The Quest of Truth," will show how truth was found in the manger at Bethlehem after the quest had failed in Egypt, Babylon and Greece.

The second act will symbolize the testing of truth after the death of the Savior, in the age of persecution, during the missionary conquests, and in the persecutions of the Waldensians and others who sought to read the Bible in the language of the land.

The third act, reaching "The Crest of Truth," will portray the life of Martin Luther and scenes associated with the Augsburg Confession.

In the last act the climax in the history of truth will be reached with the portrayal of how missionaries and others who have won the truth have brought blessings to the world. The pageant will close with a dedication of youth to the unfinished task of the church and its consecration to the spreading of truth.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK.

THOUGHTS while strolling: What in the world is a fitted bag fitted for? W. T. Benda, who makes those masks. A West Forty-seventh street hat check girl is the image of Janet Gaynor, red hair and all. Beggars who sit on church steps baring afflictions. New busses with side doors.

Eva La Gallienne, a London, England, girl, who made good in the city. No actress in New York inspires such applause as Belle Baker singing "Eli Eli." How many Sobol Brothers are they? That cop certainly won't give that gorgeous lady a ticket? He did. The old fish-face.

Who remembers when plates were turned upside down over the silver in setting the table? Something a little bit all right about a young father who pushes a baby buggy these snooty days. Musical exchange bulletin board: "Wanted: Six hot crooners who look like Vallee!"

Comedy counter clowns in the Coffee Pots. A milk white roadster trimmed in garnet leather. And the show girl who drives it. Gil Patten, the white-haired Frank Merriwell author.

Johnny Gruelle, who draws hilarious cartoons of the cross-roads. A movie star has to be good to last six months these days. Curb comics are saying Gilda Gray has a touch of writher's cramps.

The sun sinks behind Jersey in a splendorous flame. Nothing will renew faith like watching a sunset. And some morning I must sneak up on a sunrise. They are not hard to take either.

Dinner neckers drifting to shadowy Chinese cafes. Orange drink places still running full tilt. Mark Hellinger and his wife, Gladys Glad. What inspires a fellow to take up trombone playing as a career?

THE dollar five-and-ten game outlives a fad. Each player goes shopping with a dollar and the one bringing the biggest bundle of five and ten cent store articles to the cocktail party wins all the truck and a dollar from each player. After that everybody settles down to a stretch of serious drinking.

A CHORTLE in a musical show: A young girl is asked if she is going to take bacteriology at college. She chirps: "Don't bacilli!" And if the boy editor of College Humor doesn't collect a fair take of royalties on that one he is not commercially conscious.

THEN there is the banker's son who left home suddenly in a huff, leaving a note reading "You haven't a chance to make me one of your vice presidents. I'm determined to amount to something."

COURTNEY COOPER tells of the East Sider who grew to middle-age without leaving Manhattan Island. Then he went on a trip to Denver. In the Middle West solidity near Cleveland he was gazing out the train window at the pastoral beauty. Finally he exclaimed brightly: "No matter where you go, you allus find human life."

Snaps Cap Pistol, Sets Store Afire.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 24.—Annoyed by a rat in her novelty store here yesterday, Mrs. William Herzberg fired a cap pistol to frighten it away. A spark from the pistol ignited a Halloween costume on a rack. In a few minutes the store was ablaze. Mrs. Herzberg, severely burned, was carried from the building by Virgil Feniello, a nearby barber.

McCAWLEY MAKING THIRD UPHILL FIGHT FOR STATE SENATE

The Rev. Mr. Titus has said that he agrees with President Hoover that prohibition is "a noble experiment," and that neither he not anyone else knows yet exactly how to handle it. He told the writer that he believed the State enforcement act was cumbersome, that it contained irreconcilable conflicts and that it probably could be improved by amendment, but he was quick to assert that he was "a dry" and that he had no intention, if elected to the Senate, of leading any movement to change it.

In view of the attitude of the Republican candidate, the speakers in the Republican campaign are having difficulty in making much of a point in criticism of McCawley for his authorship of the enforcement act.

The district normally returns a Republican majority of around 2000. Notwithstanding this, and in elections which have resulted in success for Republican candidates by majorities reaching far higher than that figure, McCawley has slipped through by a small majority.

There are conditions in the present race which might be construed to indicate that he will have a more difficult time than in his other contests, but on the other hand there are conditions which justify an opinion that he will not find the race as difficult.

In his first contest, in 1922, McCawley defeated Howard Gray, a former Judge of the Springfield Court of Appeals and long a Republican idol in Jasper County. In his second race, in 1926, he defeated John Flanigan, a young lawyer, a descendant of a family long prominent in Republican politics in the county.

"Joplin's Most Popular Citizen."

The Rev. Mr. Titus, McCawley's opponent this year, is the pastor of the non-sectarian Community Church, one of the largest congregations in Joplin. He frequently is referred to as "Joplin's most popular citizen." He is a good mixer, an active participant in all civic affairs. He is a good speaker and has many of the elements usually considered essential in a strong candidate.

In addition to these things, he is the first Joplin candidate to oppose McCawley for the Senate. In other years McCawley has run against Carthage men, and Joplin voters, from a selfish sectional standpoint, have had no choice. There is a sectionalism in the county, a Carthage-against-Joplin and a Joplin-against-Carthage feeling and this will be reflected to some extent in votes. In Joplin there has developed some special opposition to McCawley on the road question. His opponents have argued that McCawley has used his influence as chairman of the roads committee to favor the Carthage end of the county against Joplin in the location of state highways. This argument has been largely dissipated, however, by McCawley's announced position on roads. He has agreed with Joplin representatives on virtually all of their contentions, and is strongley advocating the roads which Joplin is particularly desirous of obtaining. His position has been that the county should get all the roads it can get, regardless of the selfish interests of any particular community.

McCawley's greatest strength in the campaign is the fact that he is head of the road committee and probably will be retained in that chairmanship in the next Senate, if re-elected, and that, because of his long experience and his complete accord with the State Highway Commission in extending the good roads program, he can be of great benefit to this district, which for many years has been in the front of the good roads movement.

Antagonism Among Churches.

While the personal popularity of the Rev. Mr. Titus and the growth of his nonsectarian church are elements of strength for him, there are certain weaknesses in his candidacy. He was the pastor of the First Christian Church of Joplin when he developed the movement for a community church. Certain of the orthodox among his parishoners objected to any change in the church structure and, when the church divided, a majority going with the preacher and a minority continuing the Christian Church organization, there was considerable bitterness which has not abated. In addition, the Community Church naturally attracted membership from most, if not all the other churches. While it is probable that most of those who left other congregations to go into the Community Church were those who were not particularly active in their church connections, there is no question that there is an antagonism to the Community Church and it's pastor among the orthodox of the old denominations.

As has been said, it is always an uphill fight for a Democrat to win office in Jasper County. It has been on the cards each election that McCawley should be defeated and, according to regular political formulas, it is on the cards this time that Republicans should be elected to all offices, but the regular formulas do not apply when McCawley is running.

Though no definite forecast of victory or defeat can be made, it may be said that, if McCawley wins, it will be by a small majority, and that if he is defeated, it likewise will be by a small majority.

Attorneys Protest Against Granting Increases to Laclede and to Southwestern Bell.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—Two appeals by the City of St. Louis from orders of the Missouri Public Service Commission, granting the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis an increase in gas rates, and approving an extra charge by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. of 25 cents a month for each dial on telephones in private branch exchanges in St. Louis, are being argued by attorneys today before Division No. 2 of the Missouri Supreme Court.

Shot Raiding Newspaper Office.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 24.—A man identified as Amos Sullivan, 30 years old, Logan County special officer, was wounded seriously early today when an attempt was made to enter the plant of the Coal Valley News here. Elmer Jones, brother of the editor, was placed under $5000 bond on a charge of malicious shooting. Luther Jones, the editor, said he believed Sullivan, accompanied by two other men, attempted to enter the plant to destroy equipment used in publication of the Guyan Valley News, a weekly established recently to oppose the Republican candidates for county offices.

URGES ELECTION OF DEMOCRAT TO COURT OF APPEALS BENCH

Kenneth Teasdale, a Candidate, Appeals for Removal of Judiciary From Politics.

Removal of the judiciary from politics by the establishment of a bi-partisan bench was advocated last night by Kenneth Teasdale, Democratic candidate for Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, in an address before Twenty-second Ward Democrats at 4908 Natural Bridge road.

He pointed out that the three Judges of the St. Louis Court of Appeals were Republicans and said Democratic voters should be represented by one member of the court.

Owen G. Jackson, an attorney, who withdrew as Democratic candidate for Congress in the Tenth District, because the Democratic platform convention failed to adopt an antiprohibition plank, also spoke. He declared that "Republican paternalism should extend its protection to all classes alike, and not proclaim a doctrine of 'root hog or die' to the wage earner."

Democratic meetings and speakers announced for tonight are: Third Ward, 1439 Warren street, former Circuit Attorney Lawrence W. McDaniel; Twenty-sixth Ward, Cabanne Branch Library, 1106 Union boulevard, Jacob M. Lashly; Thirteenth Ward, 4200 Gravois avenue, McMillan Lewis; Seventh Ward Negro voters, 1731 Chouteau avenue, J. L. McLemmore.

CORONER HOLDS DRIVER IN SAFETY ZONE DEATH

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today against Fred A. Brecht, 27 years old, a vulcanizer, of 5195 Dresden avenue, in the death of Miss Gladys Sthair, 19, of 214 Vista avenue, St. Louis County, who was killed by Brecht's automobile Wednesday night in a safety zone at 425 South Fourteenth street.

Brecht, who did not testify on advice of counsel, was released under $5000 bond pending grand jury investigation.

Miss Hazel Bruns, of 1407 Grattan street, the only one of seven young women in the zone who escaped injury, said she did not see the approaching car until its headlights "loomed up big as a house." Then she jumped aside as the other girls, all employed by the J. C. Penney Co., were knocked down.

Two young women, waiting for another street car across the street, said the automobile was moving at an "ordinary speed" and did not attract their attention until the accident occurred.

Two policemen testified that the street is narrow, that the safety zone is marked only with painted yellow lines and not with buttons or posts, and that it is difficult to see the lines in drizzling weather such as on Wednesday night.

It was erroneously stated yesterday that Brecht was manager of an oil filling station at Ninth and Walnut streets. He is employed by a tire and battery company at that location.

EX-SENATOR WILLIAMS URGES DEFEAT OF PROPOSITION NO. 5

Says It Is "Involved, Novel, Fantastic and Strange," and Will Engender Strife.

Hope that Proposition No. 5, constitutional amendment permitting the consolidation of St. Louis and St. Louis County under certain conditions, will be defeated and that city and county authorities will then appoint another Board of Freeholders under the 1924 amendment to frame a mutually acceptable merger plan, is expressed in a letter by former United States Senator George H. Williams, made public yesterday by the Save St. Louis County League.

"The proposed amendment is something foreign an any previous attempt in this State at constitution making," he wrote. "he proposal is of great length, involved, novel, fantastic and strange. The formation of a Greater City of St. Louis as a super-government creates an overlord in municipal government which would engender more strife and animosity than can now be calculated."

W. W. Butts, former president of the Real Estate Exchange, advocated passage of Proposition No. 5 in a radio address over station KWK last night. He said the amendment would permit the city and county to solve problems of relationship in a manner advantageous to the business interests of the community. Emphasis was placed on the fact that the amendment merely permits submission of a charter which must be ratified by city and county at separate elections before any change in government is made.

3 KILLED IN TUNNEL COLLAPSE

Only Survivor of Train Crew Dies at Martin's Ferry, O.

By the Associated Press.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 25.—The collapse of a tunnel near here, which buried a freight train yesterday, cost three lives. The sole survivor, Louis Romando, 32 years old, a brakeman, died today at Martin's Ferry. Jerry O'Sells, 40, conductor, and E. E. Duba, 35, brakeman, were killed when the wreckage crushed the caboose. All of the victims lived in Dillonvale.

ing Dr. Heinrich Seilkopf, who was meteorologist on the Graf Zeppelin's world flight, are daily placing their knowledge and opinion on weather conditions over the Atlantic at the disposal of Capt. Christiansen. They believe that if the DO-X waits at Horta, in the Azores, until reports indicate good weather and a smooth sea to Bermuda, the flight will succeed with ease.

A weather service in which Hamburg and Washington will cooperate with numerous steamers on the Atlantic will be organized to make the passage foolproof in this respect. Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the DO-X, has demanded that Capt. Christiansen take no unnecessary risks and that no start be made from any point unless the weather is favorable.

A steamer especially equipped and chartered in New York will take an assigned station in the Atlantic on Nov. 12 and begin reports on weather, wind and sea. The ship will be the first floating airdrome for trans-Atlantic commercial transport by air.

The British Air Ministry has been advised that the DO-X may be expected at Southampton at the end of next week, weather permitting, after stops at Amsterdam and Havre.

Lieut. C. H. Schildaver, former American naval officer and second pilot on the DO-X, said that the proximity of the flight was more than any other thing responsible for his quick recovery from an illness which kept him in the hospital here several days. He was discharged from the hospital today.

"I Don't Feel Just Right, Doc"

(The Common Way of Describing Acidity)

You're not sick, yet not well. Your stomach isn't just right, you don't sleep well and you tire easily. Your color isn't what it should be and you probably look drawn.

A sort of vague, run-down feeling is one of the first symptoms of acidity. Acidity is due to our unnatural eating, our irregular hours and other excesses. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. This frequently results in sick headaches, dizzy spells, "nerves," mental depression and general lassitude.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets, called Magnesia Oxoids, which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen. Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the natural movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity, and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this acidity test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, or any other reliable druggist today on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal. Note the pickup in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement in your health, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money.

Flattens across the front

And does it both cleverly and surely . . . for this new Wonderlift inner belt fastens firmly at the side

$10.00
Six garters, side elastic inserts give added smoothness. Shoulder straps detachable and adjustable. Illustrated in rich pink brocade with softest rayon top. No. 96-115. All sizes, 34 to 52.

SLIM and slinky our all-in-ones must be. And firm as the law right across the front where stomachs will poke out in the new slim-waisted dresses.

So Nemo-flex has developed the marvelous Wonderlift (patented and patents applied for) inner belt which is completely concealed underneath this lovely brocaded combination. Supple boning and elastic, adroitly placed, both flatten and support the abdomen, and the closing at the side insures its staying flat.

NEW MODERNIST NUDE BY VALENTINE VOGEL

St. Louis Artist Whose "Adam and Eve" Startled Chicago to Give Exhibition.

Valentine Vogel, young St. Louis artist, has completed a modernistic painting embodying what she considers a more unconventional treatment than the combination of vermilion nudes against a green sky which precipitated considerable debate when exhibited at Chicago last spring.

Her latest picture, which she will include in her local exhibition this winter, depicts a blue green figure against a yellow green background, showing an almost life-sized nude, with a small male skull in one hand, and a rose coiffure. The figure, whose limbs have a bluish green tinge, is posed against a background which includes a tree with serpentine branches. A pool in blue and green, is at her feet, contrasting with her sea-green eyes.

This picture, as yet unnamed, will be exhibited with about 30 others recently completed, ranging from landscapes and stills to portraits. All are done in the modernistic manner, but none display a color combination as striking as ths unnamed nude, which Miss Vogel painted in about two hours. She is assembling also a smaller exhibition, including several water colors, for displaying in Cincinnati.

Her picture which caused discussion among officers of the Illinois Woman's Athletic Club when it was shown there but did not draw undue criticism here, depicted Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden. Eve wore a hair ribbon and both were sun tanned.

Fur Coat Stolen From Auto.

Miss Helen Buchanan, 6 Algonquin Lane, reported that a $200 fur-trimmed roat was stolen yesterday from her automobile, parked on Lucas avenue west of Sixth street.

BRISK STOCK RISE MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF BIG SLUMP

Large Assortment of Leading Shares Bound Up 2 to 5 Points or More but Trade Is Light.

WHAT THE MARKET DID.	Friday.	Thursday.
Advances	430	354
Declines	146	252
Unchanged	128	155
Issues traded	754	761

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The first anniversary of Wall street's "Black Thursday" was a bright Friday today.

A large assortment of leading stocks bounded up 2 to 5 points or more. Trading was light, but the advance was broad, embracing rails particularly the Van Sweringen group, yesterday's soft spot.

Indications of an ending of hostilities in Brazil, reassuring analyses of the steel industry by executives attending the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and John J. Raskob's assertion that the motor industry had touched bottom, gave the bears a bad day, despite omission of the Montgomery Ward dividend.

American Can, Chesapeake Corporation, Atchison and Eastman gained 5 points, and high fliers were allied Chemical and Pere Marquette, up 9. U. S. Steel and Westinghouse Electric gained 4, and General Electric, Erie, Consolidated Gas, Chesapeake & Ohio, Corn Products and International Telephone 3. General Motors and North American rose more than 2. Montgomery Ward, however, closed off 3. The closing tone was strong, nevertheless. Total sales were about 2,760,000 shares, compared with the market's first 12,000,000 share day a year ago.

Foreign exchanges were mostly firm. Sterling was about steady at $4.85 15-16 for cables, but the franc and mark were a little higher, and the Spanish peseta shot up about 1-5 of a cent. Quotations on the Brazilian milreis, however, were lacking, owing to disrupting of trading by the collapse of the Government.

Trade, Active Late.

Trading was particularly active in the last hour, as shorts rushed to cover, the market wavered for a time in the afternoon, after announcement of the Montgomery Ward dividend omission, but turned dull on the decline. The buoyance of the market gave rise to a flood of rumors in brokerage circles. The story that a $100,000,000 pool had been formed by one of the deans of the brokerage community to "support the market" was revived, but lacked confirmation.

Grains moved contrary to stocks, in response to bearish crop and weather reports. Wheat futures lost ¼ of a cent, and corn ⅜ to ⅞. Cotton, however, closed 45 to 50 cents a bale higher.

Views on Steel Industry.

Leaders of the steel industry, at the institute meeting a year ago, were inclined to minimize the probable effects of the decline in the stock market, and in steel mill operations, then apparent, but today's speakers demonstrated that faith in the future of the industry had not been impaired by the trying 12 months that have intervened. They found the basic structure still sound, and stated that by refraining from uneconomical price cutting, and over-expansion, the industry might struggle back to normalcy in a reasonably short time. James A. Farrell, president of U. S. Steel, asserted that through co-operation, the industry could get business back "where it belongs" in 60 days.

News from Brazil indicating that the revolution had been concluded with little bloodshed or property damage caused a fresh decline in coffee, as a reaction from the upturn which had been based on expectations of delayed shipments, but Brazilian securities rallied sharply, tending further to bolster speculative confidence.

News of Day.

The day's news was not wholly cheerful. Directors of Montgomery Ward omitted the quarterly dividend, a development not unexpected. Wall street has looked for a reduction, at least. Furthermore, copper prices were reduced fairly generally to 9½ cents a pound, a new low for more than 30 years. A constructive development rumored in copper trade circles, however, was an early conference with African producers seeking curtailment of production. The large red metal resources of that continent, mostly undeveloped, have caused some uneasiness. Reports of the conference of statisticians in industry, meeting under the auspices of the industrial conference board, pointed to signs of recovery, but added "the first half of October gives little evidence that the convalescent stage in the business cycle is at hand."

ST. LOUIS TRADE GROUP FOR COTTON BELT DEAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 24.—A petition of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce favoring the merger of the Cotton Belt Railroad with the Southern Pacific as being for the best interests of St. Louis trade, was presented yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission by George C. Smith, managing director of the Industrial Bureau of Industrial Club of St. Louis, and a director of the St. Louis Chamber.

The commission is holding a hearing here on the application of the Southern Pacific for merger with the Cotton Belt. The St. Louis Chamber asked for permission to intervene in the case.

"The proposal of the Interstate Commerce Commission, providing for the absorption of the Cotton Belt by the Illinois Central," Smith testified, "is not to the interest of St. Louis shippers. We already enjoy the facilities of that system and a substantial amount of interchange at this gateway between it and our lines operating to the West and Southwest.

"In the event it should acquire the Cotton Belt, such interchange as we now enjoy might and probably would occur far south of here, probably at Memphis and Shreveport. Instead of adding to the prestige of the Illinois Central in St. Louis, because of the several connections made with the Cotton Belt at more southerly points, it appears certain that St. Louis would become but little more than a way station on the Illinois Central lines. Its interest in this city as interchange gateway would be largely eliminated and it would become a stronger factor than it is even now in fostering the commerce of Chicago in our natural trade territory.

Chicago's Trade Rivalry.

"The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce cannot look with favor on any proposal which seems destined to favor Chicago and to add to its strong position even in the Central South. Our city, like Chicago and most other American cities, conceived on a site selected for its commercial situation, must be protected against the competition of other centers in our natural trade territory. Until now we have not had that protection in our railroad situation, particularly as against Chicago."

Smith said that St. Louis does not have a proper development of through transcontinental routes west and southwest, despite the fact that strong Eastern lines now serve the St. Louis gateway, with roadbed, equipment and schedules comparable with those at Chicago. The eventual merger of the Cotton Belt and Southern Pacific will be a step in the proper development of such transcontinental routes, he said.

"The proposed acquisition, by stock control, of the Cotton Belt by the Southern Pacific, and, we hope, the eventual consolidation of the two systems, will give St. Louis a transcontinental system, in fact, and enable our business interests to compete on a better basis with Chicago firms," he declared.

Terminal Advantage.

"That the Eastern trunk line railroads will use this gateway seems obvious. Their division of through rates, because of longer distances to St. Louis than to Chicago from Eastern industrial centers, will prove a larger and sufficient incentive to route through St. Louis. In such routing the location of the local terminals of the Cotton Belt is most fortunate, lying on the east side of the Mississippi River, thus eliminating the necessity for moving freight across the river into the larger and more congested terminals on the west side.

"St. Louis is interested in the development of this east-west interchange through our gateway because it would mean added employment locally with resulting increases in payrolls and because it would also mean an increase in the number of trains operating into and out of St. Louis and available for the transportation of our own goods, both in-bound and out-bound."

He further said that affiliation of the Cotton Belt with the Southern Pacific or its absorption by the Southern Pacific will preserve the value of the Cotton Belt to a greater degree than would be possible through its absorption by any other railroad now serving the St. Louis gateway. At the same time such an alliance or merger would stimulate the development of the territory local to the Cotton Belt and thus enhance its value as a market for St. Louis products.

The Groveton, Lufkin & Northern, extending from Groveton to Lufkin, Tex., the Louisiana, Arkansas & Texas, from Shreveport to McKinney, Tex. the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine, and the Paris and Mt. Pleasant, asked to be included by purchase in the new system.

The short lines took the position they were doomed unless they were embraced in one of the new railway groupings.

MORE LIBERAL WHISKY RULES URGED BY HOSPITAL HEADS

One Says Unreasonably Strict Interpretation Has Been Given Law Under Woodcock.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—Paul M. Fesler, superintendent of the University of Minnesota Hospital at Minneapolis, was elected president of the American Hospital Association yesterday, defeating Robert E. Neff, superintendent of the University of Iowa Hospital at Iowa City.

The Rev. M. F. Griffin of Youngstown, O., was elected association trustee over Fesler.

The convention adopted a motion urging the board of trustees "to have the prohibition forces give a more liberal interpretation of the laws as regards the use of whiskey in hospitals."

The resolution was proposed by Dr. John A. Hornsby of Charlottesville, Va., who said that an unreasonably strict interpretation of the prohibition law had been given since the transfer of enforcement from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

"The present interpretation permits a doctor to prescribe only one dose at a time for the patient and forbids any whisky being carried in ambulances even in emergency cases," said Dr. Hornsby. "I don't want whisky but I do want whisky for my sick people."

QUICK RELIEF FROM INDIGESTION
Burning acid stomach, gnawing pain, before or after eating, gas, fullness, heartburn, dizziness, if neglected, often lead quickly to other serious and more painful troubles, says a well-known authority. Don't fool with things that don't give the right results. Ask your druggist today for ACIDINE, a wonderful new prescription which is now being prescribed by many physicians. Quickly relieves gas and pain. Costs only a few cents. Get ACIDINE today for acid stomach torture.
ACIDINE is entirely different from other known stomach medicines. Contains the marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on starchy foods, which cause so much stomach distress. It liquefied 800 times its own weight of such foods in only 30 minutes! Five other scientific ingredients in ACIDINE neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, relieve gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this wonderful scientific combination for acid stomach trouble.
Don't risk dangerous and more painful troubles. Get ACIDINE from any druggist today. Watch how pain, gas are relieved! Eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed.

ABYSSINIAN EMPEROR CALLS ON AMERICANS

By the Associated Press.

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Oct. 24.—To the booming salute of 17 guns, H. Murray Jacoby, the special Ambassador of the United States for the coronation of the Emperor Haile Selassi, yesterday presented to His Majesty the greetings of President Herbert Hoover.

Jacoby conveyed to the ruler of one of the world's most ancient empires the President's "most friendly greetings and confident hope for the great prosperity of Ethiopia and the happiness of its people under the benign reign of Haile Selassi."

The Emperor thanked Jacoby and then, speaking in the Ethiopian language, said with great earnestness:

"Your safe arrival in Ethiopia affords us much pleasure. We beg you to convey our best wishes to the President of the United States, his family and the American people."

Jacoby then presented Brigadier-General W. W. Harts and the other members of his official party, and all chatted pleasantly with the Emperor. During the audience, held in the throne room, there were present the Crown Prince and a number of other Princes, including Prince Juska of Tigre, designated by the Emperor to look after the comfort of the Americans.

First to Be Received.

The Emperor's reception to the Americans had special significance because they were the first delegation to be received officially.

Emperor Returns Visit.

The American delegation was escorted to the palace by a brilliant company of Ethiopian cavalrymen, equipped with modern accouterments.

The Emperor was most affable and gracious and at the conclusion of the audience showed the Americans the unusual honor of returning their visit at their hotel. He was accompanied by the Crown Prince and high Ethiopian dignitaries. The action is an unprecedented royal courtesy to foreigners.

The Emperor and Jacoby carried on an animated conversation in French.

HOPE OF REVOLUTIONIZING FIRING AT AERIAL TARGETS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ABERDEEN, Md., Oct. 24.—Prediction that bombing planes of the future must stay above 25,000 feet altitude or be annihilated by improved methods of anti-aircraft fire were made at the Army proving ground here yesterday by artillery and ordnance officers who witnessed a series of tests Wednesday with a new secret fuse developed by the Sperry Gyroscope Co. of Brooklyn. If the device stands up to the preliminary showing, firing at aerial targests is expected to be completely revolutionized.

The new fuse is the invention of Capt. T. B. Doe, vice president of the Sperry company and head of Eastern Air Transport Inc., an affiliated company, which operates the New York-Atlantic-Miani air mail route. It is known to be entirely different from that of fuses now used.

These fall into two classes, the powder time train and the clock fuse. The Sperry fuse is thought to involve the principle of the gyroscope in some manner, though just how this is applied to control the explosion of a shell thousands of feet in the air is one of the things the experts decline to discuss.

EXECUTED AS TRAIN WRECKER

Mexican Caught Taking Rail From Line From El Paso.

By the Associated Press.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, Oct. 24.—Francisco Ruiz Cardenas, whom Federal troops caught in the act of removing a rail from the Mexico City-El Paso railroad line, near here, was executed by a firing squad. He was tried by court martial, convicted and executed at dawn Thursday.

Several attempts have been made to derail trains in various parts of Mexico during the few weeks by similar tac

Soft, wavy hair!
The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day modes of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.
Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.
Danderine helps dissolve dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps stop falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

PARLIAMENT TO TAKE UP PALESTINE POLICY

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Changes in British policy in Palestine will be brought up in Parliament shortly after it convenes for its winter session next Tuesday.

Sir John Scurr, Labor member of the Commons, in addressing his constituents last night in a Jewish section of London, said he was taking the earliest opportunity of raising the matter in the Commons. He declared that the Government's new policy did not carry out terms of the mandate under which British control in Palestine is exercised, and that it was contrary to the Balfour declaration.

The executive of the World Zionist Movement has called its Actions Committee together in an extraordinary meeting for Nov. 4, at which curb on immigration to Palestine the crisis created by the new enunciation of British policy will be discussed.

The letter of Stanley Baldwin, Sir Austen Chamberlain and Col. L. C. S. Amery, Conservative party leaders, to the London Times protesting against the MacDonald Government's stand in putting a and other measures construued as anti-Zionist, attracted comparatively little attention in the London press.

Britain Appeals to Polish Government for Protective Measures.

WARSAW, Oct. 24.—Continuing protests of Polish Jews at abandonment, as it is understood here, of Britain's policy of fostering Zionism, has led the British embassy to appeal to the Polish Government for protection for its buildings.

Sixteen young Zionists were arrested yesterday after renewed demonstrations in front of both the embasy and consulate. They were members of He'Chalutz, Zionist youth organization.

The polish Government has permitted holding of a huge protest meeting Saturday night on condition that there be no street demonstrations afterwards.

BELLEVILLE MINERS URGE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Also Adopt Resolutions Favoring Adoption of a Shorter Working Day.

Passage of a Federal unemployment insurance law and the establishment of shorter work days were advocated in a resolution adopted at the final session of the constitutional convention of the Belleville Sub-District of the Illinois United Mine Workers at Collinsville, yesterday.

The resolution, addressed to President Hoover, Congress, and Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, requested a remedy for "the present deplorable situation of unemployment" and the adoption of the suggested legislation as a means of averting future crises.

William Jacks, president of the district, which includes about 9000 men, reported that three of five locals out of the 39 in the district, which had affiliated with the John L. Lewis faction, had been suspended previously because of nonunion memberships.

A resolution was adopted assessing each man working five days a month 25 cents a month to supply funds to fight the nonunion factions. A donation of $50 was authorized also for the striking miners of Kelley Creek, W. Va.

The constitution of the sub-district was amended so that future officers will be chosen by a plurality instead of a majority and the office of vice president will not be salaried. The vice president will be paid, instead, $8.20 a day and expenses when called into service by the president.

SYMPHONY MEETING THURSDAY

Society Will Elect Officers and Hear Reports.

The postponed annual meeting of the St. Louis Symphony Society will be held Thursday at 5 p. m. at Jefferson Memorial.

Officers will be elected and various reports read. Holders of season tickets and contributors to the maintenance fund, as members of the society, are urged to attend.

FRED H. HAID IS APPOINTED CHIEF CLERK, PROBATE COURT

He Had Been in Office 17 Years and Succeeded Late George Brand.

Fred H. Haid, 5874 Plymouth avenue, was appointed by Probate Judge Holtcamp yesterday as chief clerk of the court, succeeding George Brand, who died Monday.

Haid's appointment is a promotion in the probate office staff, he having been a deputy clerk for 17 years. In announcing the selection Judge Holtcamp said he recognized Haid's ability as a clerk and his courteous attitude toward the public. The new chief clerk is a brother of Presiding Judge Haid of the Court of Appeals.

Brand's salary was $5000 a year, but the court has not yet fixed the salary of his successor.

18 JUDGES FILE REPLY TO COURTHOUSE SUIT

Deny Chouteau-Lucas Heirs' Contention That Circuit Is County Court Successor.

A joint demurrer in behalf of the 18 Circuit Judges of this city to three separate suits brought by heirs of Auguste Chouteau and J. B. C. Lucas, pioneer St. Louisans, for title to the Courthouse site on Broadway, has been filed by City Counselor Muench and Richard S. Bull, Assistant City Counselor, representing the Judges.

The members of the Circuit bench were named as co-defendants with the city on the theory they were successors of the St. Louis County Court as original titleholders when the property was donated by Chouteau and Lucas for a courthouse site in 1823. The demurrer denies that the Circuit Court is the successor of the county court. It further sets forth the Judges were improperly joined as parties.

The three suits are pending before Circuit Judge Hogan, one of the defendants. He stated today that because all of the Judges are involved it will be necessary to call in a Judge from another jurisdiction to dispose of the demurrers.

A fourth suit filed by heirs, in which the Judges are not included, is pending before Circuit Judge Pearcy and the city has demurred to this on the ground that the petition does not state a cause of action.

The heirs assert title on the theory that when Chouteau and Lucas donated the site they provided it was to be forever used for a courthouse. Last June the Circuit and Probate Courts moved to the new Civil Courts Building, leaving the old building occupied by two Justices of the Peace.

DAVID KINLEY'S DAUGHTER MARRIES ROBERT GREGG

63-Year-Old Inventor of Shorthand System Wed at Gallup, N. M., Bride Is 30.

By the Associated Press.

GALLUP, N. M., Oct. 24.—John Robert Gregg of New York, wealthy inventor of the Gregg system of shorthand, and Janet Kinley, daughter of David Kinley, former president of the University of Illinois, were married here yesterday in a private ceremony at the home of C. N. Cotton, a relative of the bride.

When the marriage license was obtained, Gregg gave his age as 63 and the bride as 30. The pair departed for Albuquerque and New York.

The wedding was the culmination of a meeting on board a steamship in the Mediterranean about a year ago. Gregg and Miss Kinley slipped away to Gallup several weeks ago for a quiet wedding to avoid publicity in New York. The Rev. Harry Stagg, Baptist minister, performed the ceremony.

BAUSCH OF KANSAS SAYS MISSOURI COACH OFFERED HIM BETTER JOB

BIG SIX FACULTY BOARD MEETS TO REFEREE BATTLE OF AFFIDAVITS

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 24.—Fresh accusations of unethical practices and fresh recriminations were hurled as faculty representatives of the Big Six meet here today to weigh charges of proselyting and recruiting of athletes which have reverberated throughout the conference.

Affidavits by three University of Kansas freshmen last night charging that representatives of the University of Missouri had "approached" them, stole some of the interest which had centered about Missouri's question as to the eligibility of Big Jim Bausch, Jayhawker halfback, which precipitated the investigation today.

The statements were filed at the University of Kansas athletic office after Prof. W. A. Tarr, Missouri's faculty representative, said he had been conducting a personal investigation to obtain evidence for test cases and named Bausch, an outstanding conference star, and Phil Borello, a Kansas freshman, as the principals.

Bid From Missouri.

Borello's affidavit, one of the three on file, stated that after he had obtained a job at Lawrence before enrolling in the university last fall, he was approached by Byron Spencer, Missouri alumnus, who sought to have him attend the rival university. He said Spencer had offered him a job which would pay more than the one he had with room, books and tuition. Borello is a former Notre Dame student.

The affidavit of Ross Marshall, who is not engaging in freshman athletics, said Walton Holmes Jr., a former University of Missouri student, had promised him $300 in cash if he would attend the Missouri school and pledged a certain fraternity. The statement added that Holmes had displayed 15 or 20 such contracts.

Jewell Campbell, Kansas City, the other freshman, said that while a high school student he was invited to Columbia, the seat of the universary, and had received promises of a job if he enrolled there.

Charges Against Coach.

Formal charges against Bausch and his coach, H. W. ("Bill") Hargiss, were filed by Porf. Tarr with George Shaad, K. U.'s faculty representative and president of the faculty group. While the nature of the charges was not revealed by Shaad, it was understood that Bausch was charged with professionalism and Hargiss with recruiting an athlete in violation of conference rules.

The status of William ("Bill") Meissinger, a backfield man on the Kansas State Agricultural College team, Manhattan, also was drawn into the controversy. Meissinger and Bausch are both employed by a Topeka insurance firm. Bausch receives $75 a month as an advance against commissions.

The Kansas Aggie player admitted to his school authorities he received $75 a month in the nature of a retainer for a position as manager of a Kansas farm after graduation. The farm is owned by E. H. Lupton Jr., president of the insurance company.

Brewer's Heinous Crime.

C. L. Brewer, Missouri athletic director, and H. J. Huff, Missouri track coach, also were involved in the charges. Bausch, former University of Wichita student who twice before has been cleared of ineligibility charges, issued a statement in which he said Huff had approached him regarding attendance at M. U. with the promise of a job paying a larger salary than he was receiving from Lupton's concern.

Clerin Zumwalt of Kansas City, Kan., a student at Washburn College, Topeka, in another statement said Brewer, whom he met at a Colorado Hotel, had told him of a rooming house at Columbia where he could work for his room and board. He said, however, that the athletic director had not urged him to attend the institution.

The Missouri athletic officials and Coach Hargiss denied they had attempted to influence any athletes. Dr. King, in Kansas City last night, said he would not defend Meissinger at the conference.

"So far as I am concerned," he said, "I was ready to declared Bill ineligible this morning."

Six Freshmen Fired for Demanding Free Board.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—George Washington University today was minus six of its best freshmen football players, who were left out yesterday for demanding free room and board so the earnings from their jobs could be kept as spending money. Six more are under investigation.

The boys were dismissed from the squad by James W. Pixlee, director of athletics. Later, after failing to obtain honorable dismissal from President Cloyd H. Marvin, they announced they had withdrawn from the university.

The six are Frank Walsh, Duluth, Minn.; John Hofsess, Mexico, Mo.; August Newcamp, Erie, Pa.; Charles Robinson, Newark, N. J.; Vance Joviok, Butte, Mont., and George Venerosa, Pittsburg. The other half dozen, understood to be in sympathy with the students who demanded money, were not named by the school authorities.

A game which was to have been played tonight with the Georgetown freshmen—the high spot of the first year team's season—was canceled. Pixlee said the boys had intended presenting their demands just before this game, but he had been forewarned and had brought matters to an earlier climax.

Up to last Thanksgiving room and board as well as athletic scholarships and other concessions were given at George Washington. Then the university announced it was "cleaning house," and such privileges were canceled.

Pixlee said the players this year came "with the definite understanding that he would do nothing for them except see that they got a job."

The Junketeer.

On many cities they will call,
And a pleasant time is had by all.

An Odd Number.

Down Birmingham way there is a light-heavyweight yclept Battling Bozo and he's all of that. All he does is kid his opponents all over the place while slapping them for a loop.

Besides a flock of lesser lights, all Bozo has done so far is take Jimmy Maloney and Maxie Rosenbloom, the current champ, over the hurdles for a cross-country ride to the land of Nowhere.

Bozo was so funny that Jimmy and Maxie were holding their sides with laughter and the tears ran down their cheeks until their eyes were closed by Brother Bozo.

Yep, he's funny. But his brand of humor is not the kind that grows on one. Both Jimmy and Maxie say you soon get tired of it and if you don't jump out of the ring he'll bore you to death.

Just one of those rough-hewn guys without a system and if a guy has no system how are you going to solve it? We ask you.

Presidents Barnard and Heydler both agree that the baseball rules need revising. They do. The error column, which is nearly as extinct as the dodo bird, should be restored to the box score.

About the only way a guy can make an error is to camp under the ball and let it drop out of his hands. Even then he sometimes gets away with the "holding it momentarily" clause.

What with rabbit balls and one thing or another, the pitcher has troubles enough without having boots turned into hits.

Anybody who imagines for a minute that any ballplayer ever went to the bat and knocked an intentional sacrifice fly doesn't know his ballplayers. Acting under strict orders, he may be induced occasionally to lay down a bunt. But a sacrifice fly—boy, pass the court plaster.

That woman in Lyons, France, who cries when she is happy and laughs when she is sad, would be a tough egg to outguess in a poker game.

Football is a funny game. About five per cent of the customers know what it is all about. That's what makes it interesting. They get a kick out of finding out what happened in the papers next day.

Even the nation-wide broadcasters have a hard time following the ball and guessing under which shell the little pea is.

Baseball is easier to understand. That is why there are so many more grandstand managers in a baseball stand than in a football stadium.

But in one respect the gridiron has it all over the diamond. The coaches can be seen but not heard.

They'll "Bear" Watching.

As Coaches Rockne and Sutherland are both viewing with alarm Saturday's clash between the Ramblers and Pitt, it looks like it is going to be a survival of the unfittest.

MISS FORDYCE RETAINS GOLF TOURNEY TITLE

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, O., successfully defended the Dorothy Campbell Hurd Golf Cup over the Merion East course yesterday by turning in an 88, which, with her 84 over the west course Wednesday, gave her the winning 36-hole score of 172.

Miss Frances Williams, Allentown, Pa., who led the field at the half mark, with 82, took a 91 yesterday, failing by one stroke to tie Miss Fordyce.

PUBLIC SCHOOL STADIUM, Oct. 24.—With the football championship of the Prep League probably pending upon the outcome, the McBride High School and Christian Brothers' College elevens, both undefeated thus far, met here this afternoon in the second conference tilt of the season.

The game is the first in the league for McBride, defending titleholder, while the C. B. C. outfit is in the lead at present with one victory and no defeats.

McBride hopes were raised considerably by a last-minute change which placed two injured stars, Capt. Conlon, tackle, and Bufe, end, in the lineup. This is Conlon's first game of the season.

FIRST QUARTER.

Berger kicked off to McDonald of C. B. C., who ran the ball back to his 30-yard line. Braudrick broke off tackle for 15 yards on the first play, but the Brothers failed to gain and kicked. After McBride kicked to the C. B. C. 40-yard line, Captain Fuchs of C. B. C. got away for a 20-yard run, but the Brothers again failed to make yardage and punted.

An exchange of punts gave C. B. C. the ball on the Colonnaders' 35-yard line, but McDonald fumbled and McBride recovered. Braudrick took the ball after the McBride kick and made 10 yards. Flynn made another 10 yards and first down on the McBride 25-yard mark as the quarter ended.

Score—McBride 0, C. B. C. 0.

Second Quarter.

A 25-yard pass, Fuchs to Kelly, put the Brothers on the McBride 7-yard line. The Colonnaders held for three downs, and on the fourth McDonald went around right end for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Score: C. B. C. 6, McBride 0.

Berger kicked off to McDonald, who returned to his 35-yard mark. A succession of slants off tackle by Flynn, Fuchs and McDonald carried C. B. C. to the McBride 25-yard line but here the Colonnaders held and C. B. C. lost the ball on downs.

Drone flipped a long pass to Bufe, McBride end, who was downed on the Brothers' 40-yard line. The Colonnader attack was smothered, however, and C. B. C. too kthe ball on its 20-yard mark when Drone kicked over the goal line.

Line plays carried the Brothers to midfield and McDonald passed to Busch, who went to the McBride 20-yard mark, where he was downed as the half ended. The score: C. B. C. 6, McBride 0.

ST. CHARLES CRIPPLED FOR WELLSTON GAME, THREE REGULARS OUT

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Oct. 24.—In a County League contest tonight at St. Charles, Wellston will oppose a shuffled lineup, Coach Dueringer, has shifted some of his more weighty material to the backfield for his second conference encounter after losing the first to University City, 27—0, a week ago.

Three regulars, however, will be unable to play, he said today. Thoelke, a 160-pound tackle, has been discharged for the season because of a ruptured blood vessel on his left leg, suffered in the first game of the season with Central. His weakness on account of the injury was evident in scrimmage the past week.

Irvin Willner, left tackle, will be out of tonight's game because of illness and Ludwig who has given some splendid exhibition at fullback, will not get to play because of a hip injury.

The shift in the setup will place Crouse, 160-pound end, in the fullback position. Bacon, who weighs 158 pounds will be Crouse's leading cohort at right half back, while Wallenbrock, a considerably lighter teammate will assist on his left. Towers will replace Crouse as end man.

The game scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock will be played under the new floodlights which St. Charles has recently installed on their athletic field.

My 50 Years in Baseball

by CONNIE MACK Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics

Mack Tells How Mickey Cochrane, Almost Over Night, Became Star Catcher in Majors in the 1925 Season.

WE also had to go deep in the billfold to get Gordon Cochrane, who almost instantly became the outstanding catcher of baseball. This marvelous young maskman was born in Bridgewater, Mass., and was graduated at Boston University.

In college he won fame both as a baseball and football player. He went to the Dover (Del.) team of the Eastern Shore League in 1923 and caught the eye of the enterprising and alert Thomas L. Turner, president of the Portland (Ore.) team of the Pacific Coast League.

He played so brilliantly for Portland in 1924 that Turner was convinced that he was ripe for the majors. Mr. Turner was a Philadelphian and an intimate friend of mine.

I once had him for a brief time as a pitcher but he hurt his arm and I used him as a scout. Later he obtained control of the Portland franchise and quickly became conspicuous as a player-trader.

For old time's sake Turner gave me first choice on Cochrane and I though he was piling it on pretty thick whenever he spoke of the young catcher and believed he was asking far too much for a man of such brief experience but my scouts partly verified what he said. The upshot was that I bought Cochrane and I quickly found that Turner had not exaggerated his ability one iota.

He is without a doubt the greatest receiving, batting and baserunning catcher of baseball and is the motor of my baseball machine.

As I said before, Turner was once in my employ and I think it is time to tell something about his zeal for discovering ball players.

Major Tom Turner.

WHEN America went into the World War, Turner was one of my scouts. He went out as a private and came back as Major. That is why a certain sports writer aptly described him as "the only Major in the minors."

Connie's Scout Found Heimach Over in France

THE only major league player believed to have been "scouted" in France was, according to Mack's life-story, southpaw Fred Heimach. Heimach pitched a game during a lull in the fighting "Over There" and Tom Turner, then a scout for the Athletics, saw him shut his opponents out.

After the game, Turner learned the kid's name and was surprised to find that he lived in Camden, N. J., just across the river from Philadelphia.

"If you survive this war," Turner told Heimach, "lose no time going to Shibe Park and tell Connie Mack Tom Turner wants him to give you a trial."

Heimach did so, was signed by Connie and stayed with the Athletics for several seasons before being traded.

Even with barrages of shells tearing up the soil of Northern France, Turner never forgot that he was a scout. One afternoon a baseball game was played in back of the lines.

It was Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, who had the foresight to collect money at major league ball games, the proceeds of which were used to buy baseball equipment which was duly sent to France.

That's why the members of our expeditionary forces in France were able to play baseball. Clark Griffith will always be remembered as the man who originated this idea and kept baseball with our soldiers as they advanced in France.

When Turner heard that a baseball game was on, he was there on the sidelines. No baseball scout wearing a soldier's uniform would be apt to pass up a chance to see a game played in France.

A Likely Southpaw.

TURNER saw that the youth had a lot of stuff and was impressed. He never saw him before; didn't even know his name, for there were no scoreboards or score cards in the French league.

After the game he went to the youthful pitcher and asked him his name and address.

"I'm Fred Heimach and I come from Camden, New Jersey," was his reply. Camden is just across the Delaware River from Philadelphia and all of Turner's scouting instincts were aroused.

"Let me tell you something, young man," Turner said, "you must know where Philadelphia is and you also must have heard of the Athletics."

"Now I tell you what to do. If you survive this war and get on a gang plank for Hoboken with your arms, legs and eyes intact, I want you to lose no time going to Shibe Park in Philadelphia and tell Connie Mack that Tom Turner wants him to give you a trial."

Heimach Signs Up.

HEIMACH did exactly as he was told. The war ended that fall and Heimach came over to me during the winter and introduced himself, telling me what Turner had told him to say.

I took a chance and signed Heimach on the spot. I think he is the only ball player who ever made the majors on the strength of being scouted in France.

Heimach was with me several seasons and then I traded him. He is with the Brooklyn team this year.

You must give credit to Turner for being the most zealous scout that ever lived. A little thing like a world war and a ball game in France did not make him forget that he was a scout for the Athletic ball club.

Jewel Ens Will Be Retained as Pirate Manager

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 24.—There were indications at Pirate headquarters today that Jewel Ens will be retained as manager of the Pittsburg National League baseball club.

Ens, who arrived yesterday from Cuba, was called into conference by Owner Barney Dreyfuss, who had as his guests President Sidney Weil and Manager Dan Howley of the Cincinanti Reds, here to see if something could be done in the way of a trade.

Following a long conference behind closed doors, it was announced there was "nothing to report," but it was learned Weil and Howley will remain here until the end of the week.

STEINBORN TO MEET GROBMEIER IN MAT CONTEST WEDNESDAY

Fred Grobmeier, lanky Iowa heavyweight, will meet Milo Steinborn of Germany in a one-fall bout announced today by Promoter Tom Packs as the semi-windup to the heavyweight elimination tryout between Paul Jones and Rudy Dusek, featuring next Wednesday night's wrestling show at the Coliseum. The preliminary feature will be governed by a time limit of 45 minutes.

Grobmeier defeated Nazzarino Poggi of Italy in the semifinal of last week's Coliseum card, after losing to George Zaharias, youthful Colorado grappler, in a previous setto on the local mat. Steinborn, making his first appearance here in four years, was defeated by Dusek in the main event of last week's show.

CLEMSON ELEVEN WINS FROM SOUTH CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 24.—The undefeated Tigers of Clemson College kept their season's record intact by coming from behind and trouncing their ancient foes, the South Carolina Gamecocks, 20 to 7, in the annual State Fair football feature here yesterday.

BILLIKENS WILL MEET FRESHMEN TOMORROW IN REGULAR GAME

The St. Louis University freshman football squad, reputed to be one of the best of years, will have its first test under real game conditions tomorrow afternoon when Coach Chile Walsh turns the boys loose against the varsity. The Billikens have no regular game scheduled this week-end.

"This special match, under real game conditions, will give me a chance to see some of my reserve varsity material in action," said Coach Walsh today. "I don't get much of a chance in our regular games to give all the lads a thorough opportunity. Saturday's game will, in a measure, supply this opportunity. I want to see how the boys act under fire."

Spectators will not be admitted to the game, which will be played on the main field at Walsh Memorial Stadium. Play will start at 2 p. m.

The Billikens may have to stop some husky backfield men this season but surely no more burly fellows than they struggled with yesterday when Coach Walsh himself headed the attack. Just by way of variety and as a means of insuring his regular backs against injury, Walsh teamed with Titus Cornell and Joe Maxwell in carrying the ball against the varsity line. Each of the three former stars weighs near or over the 200-pound mark. The members of the varsity came out without any apparent injury but Walsh, Cornell and Maxwell may feel a bit the worse for wear and tear today.

Walsh continued to give his attention to schooling his men in new plays. He has his second string players working as regularly as his first string men, for he wants to be able to make full use of his reserves in the Rolla game, Oct. 31, and in subsequent games. He can't afford to have any more of his regulars banged up.

Once more the squad worked until after 6 o'clock, a condition made possible by the use of flood lights which have been installed above the practice field.

Scrimmage probably will be a portion of today's entertainment.

MISSOURI U. POLOISTS BEAT OHIO STATE, 8-7

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 24.—The University of Missouri polo team, in an extra chucker, defeated Ohio State here yesterday, 8 to 7, to win their first game of the season. The Buckeyes rallied in the sixth period with three goals to tie the count. Mossman and Scott of the Tigers and Koch of the visitors led the scoring with three goals each.

Jackson Eleven Wins.

JACKSON, Mo., Oct. 24.—The Jackson High School Indians defeated the Doniphan Dons here yesterday, 13 to 0, on a muddy field. The local eleven scored early in the third quarter and again two minutes before game ended. Jackson made 13 first downs to the visitors' one. Caruthersville calls for a game here next Friday.

Wray's Column

More Soiled Linen.

AT Columbia, Mo., today the Big Six Conference is washing some dirty football linen. In Washington, D. C., the George Washington University football authorities are also giving their gridiron situation a good tubbing. It is not altogether conjecture to suggest that there is scarcely a section of the United States that would not profit by a similar cleansing of football affairs.

Annually the housecleaning fever strikes some conference. The Big Ten had its day in the laundry a year or more ago. Each year sees the evidence of internal unhealthiness break out in a different location, which seems to indicate that football eligibility abuses are nation-wide.

There isn't much that can be done about it, apparently. The surface symptoms are cured here and there, but the trouble break out again some place else. Seemingly the only sure remedy for a situation of this sort is to drop all restrictions and let the boys openly professionalize themselves, if they want to. If we must have this sort of thing it is better to have it above board than under cover.

* * *

Who's to Blame?

In the beginning it was the over-ardor of the alumni, who went to all sorts of lengths in recruiting talent and who still do plenty of proselyting.

Next it was the student demand that their pride in alma mater be justified by a winning football eleven.

Then came the officers of the institutions, who, in many instances, shut their eyes to the building up of recruited teams for the sake of the advertisement the schools obtained; who today countenance and finance expensive publicity bureaus for the promotion of football and sports advertising.

Finally, there is the paid coaching system which is nationwide and which undoubtedly is a primary cause, in many instances, of illegally recruited elevens. The coach must have a winner to keep his job. The rest is easy to guess.

* * *

Deeply Rooted.

AS WE have universities in almost every section graduating men who are to become coaches of college, high school and even grade school teams, the effects of the paid coaching system and its reaction on the youthful mind are deeply rooted.

Crowning all this is the excuse offered everywhere that a good football team pays the expenses of all physical development programs and the cost of every losing sport on a college's schedule and is therefore to be fostered and not discouraged. Gigantic and costly stadiums are the hoppers in which is ground out the financial grist that keeps

ILLINOIS HAS CHANCE TO SURPRISE MICHIGAN, KNUTE ROCKNE SAYS

Steffen Selects Notre Dame to Beat Pittsburg

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.

PITT'S PANTHER may expect a beating from Notre Dame tomorrow. Authority for the pick is no less than Judge Walter P. Steffen, Carnegie Tech's commuting football coach.

Not only that, but Judge Steffen believes the 1930 Irish to be stronger than the team which swept through a nine-game schedule without a defeat last year, basing his judgment on the Skibos' defeat at South Bend last Saturday.

"In my opinion, there is no question that Notre Dame has a stronger team than last year's," Steffen said last night. "Perhaps Notre Dame played over its head against us. Maybe it didn't; but we were no match for Notre Dame, especially in the second period."

By Knute Rockne.

Member, All-America Board of Football.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 24.—Here we are, almost to the middle of the football season, and the talk about the shift has died down entirely. The teams that in the past have shifted legally, I mean by this, have come to a full stop, are continuing as they have in the past. If there are any who shifted illegally, they, of course, have had to slow down but so far as I can gather the shifting teams in all parts of the country are going merrily on their way, having just just as much success as those using other systems. Everybody seems to be happy except the loser.

ROCKNE.

The two outstanding games in the Middlewest this week-end will be the annual battle between Michigan and Illinois and the Badger invasion of the Boilermaker lair at Lafayette. Michigan, from its fine showing the last two weeks, would appear to be the outstanding favorite, but you never can tell about one of Bob Zuppke's teams after they have been beaten. Zuppke, in my opinion, is one of the most resourceful coaches in the country and he is never so dangerous as when he has his back to the wall. So look for the fighting Illini to do a little surprising this week-end.

Wisconsin, from the tremendous power it showed last Saturday against Penn, looks a little better than Purdue. Those boys, Schneller and Behr, tore the Penn line to shreds, while Lusby tossed some neat and accurate passes. Of course, Purdue won't indulge in any more orgies of fumbling such as marred the game against Michigan and Noble Kiser's boys will be mighty tough to beat on their home lot. Yet it looks as though Wisconsin is gathering momentum for a big year.

S. M. U. Rules Favorite.

Indiana plays Southern Methodists at Dallas and I am afraid the Hoosiers will find the S. M. U. passing attack too much in the semi-tropical sun of Texas. If a "norther" were to blow up Indiana might have a chance, but if it is as hot as normally they will have wilted long before the second half is well under way.

In the Missouri Valley, I look for Washington to take Oklahoma Aggies tonight, and Haskell should take Creighton, but only after a nip and tuck encounter.

In the Big Six, Kansas which apparently has the best team the Jayhawkers have had in goodness knows when, has too much power for Iowa State. Oklahoma should have a slight edge on the Kansas Aggies and Nebraska should not have much trouble with Montana State. Drake has the edge on Missouri. The "show-me" boys are apparently having an off season.

Michigan State, which is certainly making some football history up at East Lansing by virtue of its tie with Michigan and victory over Colgate, has an easy one against Case.

North Dakota Has Fine Team.

North Dakota is one of the strongest teams in the Midwest Conference and should not have much trouble with North Dakota State. The Army will have to be on its toes when North Dakota invades West Point in a couple of weeks as Jack West has a real organization.

Wittenberg is a little too strong for St. Xavier and Ohio University has a little edge on Miami. Dayton University, while they will put up a good scrap, can hardly hope to beat Boston College.

As regards the Pitt-Notre Dame game, I refuse to make any prediction. Last week I felt sure that Carnegie would beat us and yet our team came along and surprised me more than anyone else by the high caliber of ball they played against Wally Steffen's group. I am frank to admit that I don't know what we will do against Pitt or what Pitt will do against us, but I believe it will be a game well worth seeing.

Washington Eleven Will Have Weight Advantage In Aggie Game Tonight

STILLWATER, Ok., Oct. 24.—When the Oklahoma Aggies and Washington University meet on Lewis Field here tonight, the home squad will have a weight advantage of five pounds in the backfield, but will be outweighed 10 pounds a man in the line.

From end to end, Waldorf's squad will average 181 pounds, while the Bears will average 191 pounds. In the last three games, however, A. and M. has been outweighed so that the seven men who compose the forward wall are able to take care of themselves. The 1930 squad is the lightest which has represented the local institution for a number of years.

When it comes to the backfield, though, it is a different story. Capt. Jack Baker's 201 pounds brings the Aggie average up to 171 pounds, while the average of the four Washington ball toters is 166 pounds.

Both Teams in Workouts.

Both teams worked out at Lewis Field yesterday afternoon. Coach Al Sharpe and his squad took the field first and then the Aggies had a brisk workout. Except to say that his team was anxious to win its first Missouri Valley Conference tilt, Sharpe made no comment. He said injuries had hurt the effectiveness of his team, but believed he would be able to put a strong eleven on the field.

The Aggies, for the first time in two weeks, will be at top strength. Capt. Baker will be at fullback, Fisher will be at left end and Turner will be at the center position. These three regulars were on the sidelines nursing injuries when Oklahoma City University defeated the Aggies, 6 to 0

Coach Waldorf announced that Capt. Baker would call signals from the fullback position against Washington. He is making this change, not so much because Baker is a hardier football player than Trigg, but because he believes the duty of calling signals is somewhat of a burden to the 145-pound junior.

Cleveland Gains 19 to 0 Victory Over Western

A fast Cleveland team ran over the Western line at Alton yesterday to gain a 19—0 victory. The Cadets showed plenty of fight and were in scoring position several times but failed due to bad breaks. Costa, all-star prep guard, played well for the Cadets. He did most of the tackling and broke up numerous Cleveland plays.

Cleveland, with Eddie, Werley, Wenzel and Vogt in the backfield, could not be stopped. Vogt and Eddie showed exceptionally well with their broken field running and return of punts. Most of Western's gains came on passes. Spalding, Cadet substitute, fullback, made a 65-yard run on the kickoff through a broken field at the beginning of the second half and with a 15-yard clipping penalty against Cleveland advanced the ball to Cleveland's 10-yard line, but a fumble saved the Clevelanders.

The three touchdowns of Cleveland were made by line bucks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The Perlick Twins of Kalamazoo had a red-letter night at the Paterson, N. J., Armory last night, where Herman stopped the spectacular winning career of Jackie Shupack by knocking him out in the first round. Henry scored a knockout victory over Pete Petrolle, brother of Billy Petrolle, in the seventh round. Herman Perlick's triumph came as a big surprise, for Shupack recently defeated Joe Glick and Lope Tenorio.

Parks Opposes Saunders in Bout On Elks' Program

Four bouts scheduled as special events and at least six fights in the novice class will be put on in a boxing program tonight at the Elks Athletic Club, 3619 Lindell, under the supervision of Kid Bandy, former professional pugilist.

Joey Parks, a promising featherweight, will meet Tex Saunders of East St. Louis in what promises to be the most interesting event of the card. Parks is being groomed by Kid Bandy with the expectation of placing the young featherweight in open professional competition when he acquires more experience and ring knowledge. Bandy believes that in Parks he has the best St. Louis boxing prospect since Peewee Kaiser broke into the game here.

Joe Borich, bantamweight, also handled by Kid Bandy, will endeavor to whip Clifford Doetzel, the South Broadway boy, in an event that will rival the Parks-Saunders bout in interest. In the other special events, Jack Lee, Tower A. C., meets Morris Sills, Elks A. C., heavyweight, and Elmer Polkinghorne, Wellston A. C., opposes Louis Vollmer, welterweight.

The program is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

McKENDREE COLLEGE OPPOSES CHARLESTON TEACHERS, TONIGHT

LEBANON, Ill., Oct. 24.—The McKendree College football eleven will play the Eastern Illinois Teachers of Charleston in their annual game tonight on Hypes Field, before what is expected to be a record-breaking crowd.

The big guns of Charleston's attack are Hance, quarterback, and Smith, a halfback. Coach Doolen has been drilling his linemen, especially Capt. Hubbell, center, and Kurrus, guard, to "take care" of this Charleston pair.

McKendree's punch rests in Butch Todd, left halfback, and Tango Radosevich, freshman fullback, both of whom are all-around backfield men. No player has been able to fill the right halfback role to the satisfaction of Coach Doolen.

Probable lineups:

McKENDREE.	Pos.	CHARLESTON.

GOLFERS START PLAY IN $5000 TOURNEY TODAY

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 24.—The first of a long series of winter golf tournaments opens over the course of the Salt Lake Country Club this afternoon with a strong field of contenders on hand seeking first-prize money of the $5000 purse.

Although a few of the nation's outstanding professionals failed to make their appearance as expected, a dozen ranking players were here for the opening round. The links stars on hand include Harry Cooper, Los Angeles; Craig Wood, New York; Mel Smith, Portland, Ore.; Olin Dutra, Del Monte, Cal.; Abe Espinosa, Chicago; Fred Morrison, Los Angeles; George von Elm, Detroit; Al Espinosa, Chicago; Jimmy Thomson, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Harold McSpaden, Kansas City, and numerous others.

Walter Hagen, former P. G. A. titleholder, and Joe Kirkwood, trick shot artist, had indicated they would arrive today, although no definite word as to their whereabouts has been received for several days.

Von Elm, making his debut as a "money golfer," will likely attract considerable attention for it was in this city he learned the game as a caddy.

Eighteen holes were on the program today, the second 18 tomorrow morning and the final 36 Sunday. After this joust, the contestants will move to the Pacific Northwest for a series of "money events."

HOPPE HOLDS LEAD OVER OTTO REISELT IN 3-CUSHION CUE PLAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Willie Hoppe and Otto Reiselt broke even in their three-cushion play at the Strand Billiard Academy yesterday, Hoppe winning in the afternoon, 50 to 39, and Reiselt scoring in the evening, 50 to 41. Hoppe now leads in blocks, five to three, and in points, 385 to 345.

MRS. M. J. ISLER WINS MIDLAND VALLEY TITLE

Mrs. M. J. Isler won the women's championship of the Midland Valley Country Club, with Mrs. H. E. Davis as runner-up, in the competition recently closed on the Midland Valley links. In the championship consolation, Mrs. Harold Johnson was winner, with Mrs. B. von Hoffman second. Mrs. B. M. Sharp won the Class A title, and Mrs. E. H. Kniep the Class A consolation.

Beaumont Plays Soldan In Feature High School League Game Tomorrow

By Harold Tuthill.

The City High School League football season will open tomorrow afternoon with a double-header at the Public Schools Stadium, Soldan meeting Beaumont in the first game at 1 o'clock and Roosevelt opposing Central in the second contest, starting at 3. Cleveland will be idle.

Pre-season records make Roosevelt a decided favorite over Central. The Rough Riders have scored 91 points in four games, whereas Central has only counted 19. Two of Roosevelt's mainstays, Ken Koerner and Henry Krause, will not start, because of minor injuries.

The feature game of the afternoon will be that between Beaumont and Soldan. The North Siders feel that they have a chance for the championship this year and are counting heavily on the first game. The one disconcerting factor is the loss of Herb Bohringer, who has a bad foot. It is likely that Bohringer will be sent into the game if he is needed.

If the Soldan attack has reached its peak, it will be hard to stop, because the team is in excellent condition. The West Enders weigh almost as much as the big Beaumont team, so that it is not improbable that a break resulting in a touchdown will decide the game.

PITTSBURG TAKES OVER NIAGARA FALLS HOCKEY FRANCHISE, PLAYERS

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 24.—Negotiations were completed last night whereby Pittsburg interests will take over the Niagara Falls, N. Y., franchise and players in the International Hockey League.

Allen Victor in Pocket Billiard Tourney Here

Benny Allen, a former world's pocket billiard champion, of Kansas City, clinched the right to represent this district in a Southern sectional pocket billiard playoff at Memphis, by defeating F. A. Schwartz of St. Louis, 100 to 10, in their pocket billiard match last night at Arata's Academy.

The tournament here, in which five players participated, was conducted on a round-robin basis. Allen won all of his four matches. His best effort was put forth in his match with Schwartz, in which he ou the 100 points in 11 innings. He scored a run of 28 points in the first inning, 39 in the fifth, and closed the game with a run of 26.

Schwartz, in the afternoon game, won from Charles Summerall of Little Rock, 100 to 55. The St. Louisan had the high run of the game, with 29.

Allen will compete at Memphis Oct. 29 to 31 against the winner of the Southern half of the Southern sectional division, for the right to represent the Southern section in the national championship tournament at New York in December.

INDIANA ELEVEN PLAYS SUMNER HIGH TONIGHT

A Negro High School game will be played in Stars' Park, Compton avenue and Market street, tonight when the Lincoln High School of Evansville, Ind., comes here for a game with Sumner High of St. Louis. Starting time of the game is 8 o'clock.

King Tut Scores Kayo.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 24.—King Tut, hard-hitting welterweight from Milwaukee, won on a technical knockout from Billy Townsend, Vancouver, B. C., in the sixth of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. Tut weighed 142½; Townsend 141¼.

EDDIE MACK'S JOB AS BOXING COACH BLOWS UP

Eddie "Kid" Mack, one of the ranking lightweight boxers of the country, who was appointed boxing instructor at St. Louis University at the opening of the fall semester, will sever his connection with the school today. Mack was engaged as boxing instructor and clerical assistant to Rev. J. J. O'Regan, director of athleitcs, more than a month go, but it is understood he has never taken up his duties in either capacity, although he has attended classes. He is a law student.

While the university authorities have made no official announcement covering the incident, it is reported that the athletic board does not approve the plan to develop boxing as a major sport.

"We are not ready at this time to develop boxing to a major sport," said Father Conway, acting director of athletics. "Our plan is rather to centralize on basketball and football. Every student in the university is required to participate in some form of athletics, even if it is only a gymnasium workout, under the supervision of our instructors. We believe that this is the better way of keeping the boys fit. If our student body were larger and the gymnasium extensive enough, we might very will give more attention to boxing."

Eddie Mack has a bout booked on the West Coast on Nov. 3 and plans to leave St. Louis within the next day or two, stopping off at Denver, his former home, on his way to California. Father O'Regan, who announced Mack's engagement as boxing coach, suffered a breakdown in health several weeks ago. He is recuperating rapidly and has made several visits to the gymnasium recently.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN WINS EASILY FROM MAIER

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 24.—In a one-sided 10-round bout, Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, former light heavyweight champion, last night won the judges' decision here over Davie Maier, Milwaukee. Maier took but two rounds. Loughran weighed 183 and Maier 177½.

NUMBER OF FORMER "PROS" ON MUNICIPAL ELEVENS TO BE LIMITED

TEAMS WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO DRAFT PLAYERS FOR TITLE PLAY

By Dent McSkimming.

Most of the changes in the constitution and by-laws of the Municipal Soccer League, as recommended by the managers at their meeting last Monday evening, were approved by the Central Council of the Municipal Athletic Association yesterday. The only instance in which a rule change was disapproved was the following: "No city employe shall be a member of the soccer Executive Committee, and no member of the committee shall receive remuneration for his services." The parent body, composed of delegates from all municipal sports groups, voted this proposal down, on the grounds that in the past several men who received pay from the city have proved useful members of various executive committees.

The Soccer Committee, newly elected, rejected the suggestion of the managers that the "referee in chief" must have had 10 years' experience as a Municipal League referee. The proposed rule, therefore, did not get as far as the Central Council for consideration.

One of the new rules will tend to limit the number of ex-professional players used by any one club. The restriction does not become effective until the season of 1931-32, when no club will be permitted to enroll more than two players who played 10 games of professional football in the previous season.

Cannot Draft Players.

Another departure from the old rules which is expected to prove beneficial is that which nullifies the right of the group champions to draft two players from other teams in their group. The purpose of the old rule was to provide plenty of reserve material for the elimination series, but it has led to some abuses.

Henceforth, except in very unusual circumstances, the soccer groups will be limited to four teams. This will necessarily work a hardship on some individual clubs and on the committee which is confronted with the task of grouping the teams, but it was felt by both the soccer executive committee and the Central Council that the interests of the league would be better served if the groups were restricted to four teams.

Such grouping has forced the Kingdom House team into Group One at Carondelet Park where the youngsters are obviously outclassed by the Spaniards, Germans and Schenbergs. It is probable that Kingdom House may go through the season without a victory and, in their case, the players will be making considerable sacrifice in the interest of the four-team group idea.

26 Elevens Entered.

Another group in which difficulty was encountered was at Sherman Park where two teams were forced out, the Geraghtys (formerly the Academys) and the Euclid-Branconiers. Both are composed of players from the Sherman Park district but they have been asked by the committee to play in the Number Five Group at Fairground Park.

With 22 senior teams and four junior teams scheduled to play opening games Sunday, the Municipal League seems headed for one of the best seasons of its history. Among the new teams are the Christian Brothers College Alumni, the C. B. C. Juniors, McBride High School and the St. Louis Hurlers. The latter team is composed almost entirely of young Irishmen who have confined their athletic activity here thus far to the game of hurling.

Thomas J. Lyster represented the soccer league as delegate to the Central Council meeting yesterday. The meeting was presided over by Ben Larman, tennis representative and chairman of the council. When there arose a question regarding the right of Lyster to represent the soccer group at this special meeting, John "King" Finnegan, former delegate, volunteered to withdraw, thus leaving the way clear for the newly elected delegate to vote.

Carnera, on Way To Italy, Faces More Wrangling

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Italy, Oct. 24.

PRIMO CARNERA, giant boxer, now en route to Italy, will have to straighten out his citizenship and pugilistic status before he will be permitted to fight here, Signor Mazzia, secretary of the Italian Pugilistic Federation, said today.

"In 1929 Carnera had the card of our federation, which was not renewed in 1930," Mazzia said. "We recognize the card of the National Boxing Association of the United States only when the boxer is American.

"It is logical that the giant fighter, in order to re-establish his position in the federation, must first announce definitely whether he wishes to be French or Italian, and this time it is necessary to pass from words to deeds."

KANSAS FAVORED TO DEFEAT AMES IN BIG 6 GAME

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—Week-end football games in the Big Six Conference occupied only part of the athletic attention this week-end.

College players, students, coaches and alumni kept an ear cocked toward Columbia, Mo., where a committee of conference faculty men were assembled to consider charges of subsidization and proselyting involving at least half the conference members.

Two conference games were scheduled, Iowa State at Kansas and Kansas Aggies at Oklahoma. The home teams in both cases are co-leaders of the circuit, each having won a game. Kansas was generally favored over the Iowans, but the Sooner-Aggie melee was rated an open affair.

Nebraska meets a nonconference foe in Montana State in Lincoln and probably will use reserves all possible to save the regulars for the hard games to come on successive week-ends—Pitt, Kansas, Missouri.

Missouri, scoreless thus far in three nonconference games, meets Drake in Columbia for its fourth and last opponent before the Tigers undertake their five-game titular grind.

Over a period of years Missouri holds the edge on Drake. Victories and defeats are about evenly divided in the Kansas-Iowa State and Oklahoma-Aggie engagements. Montana State usually is only a practice game for the Cornhuskers.

BOWLING NOTES

The first series of games in the St. Louis County Knights of Columbus Handicap Bowling League have been completed at the Clayton bowling alleys. University City maintained its lead but is closely pressed by Clayton and De Soto Councils, with Santa Cruz of Normandy on the heels of De Soto. Kirkwood Council was heading the second division, with Webster Groves close. Fourth Degree Assembly emerged from the cellar tie with Harty when the latter lost three straight to Clayton.

De Soto Council of Maplewood closed the series with high three games and a total of 2879 pins. This team also had high single game for the series with 1013. A. Beckman of Clayton topped 237 pins for high single game, and tied with Steins of De Soto for high three with 614. Steins was awarded the honors.

In the regular night meet of the St. Louis Bowling League at the Florian Recreation Parlor, the Bars took three games from the Bolts, Screws won two from Studs, Nuts took the odd game from the Specials, while the Rods took the odd game from the Washers.

E. Brinkman of the Rods was high for the evening with scores of 245, 175 and 216, for a total of 636. L. Amrhein of the Nuts is leading the high individual three games with 668, while E. Brock of the Specials holds high individual single game with 256.

An individual handicap sweepstakes is scheduled for the Cinderella alleys tomorrow and Sunday. Three squads will be bowled each evening, the first to start at 8 o'clock. The event is three games, with entry fee $1.60, including bowling. Reservations can be had by calling PRospect 8751.

The Browns are leading the South Side Kiwanis League on the Cinderella alleys by a margin of one game. The Cards are second and Athletics third, three games behind the Cards. The Browns have high team average of 792 and season high three, 2508. High single, 912, was shot by the Cubs. Russell Harstick, who recently shot a perfect game during the weekly round of the Kiwanis League, is leading the league, with an average of 182. R. Kugler is two points behind, with B. Mohr third, with 179.

alive all university athletic activities. They, too, must therefore be maintained.

That's a real reason for recruiting a strong football eleven. But it's not a reason for deceit and underhand procedure, destined to distort a young fellow's view of right and wrong.

If a gridiron team's earnings are indispensable, then abolish all football restrictions and come out in the open with a professional eleven, if one can not be maintained on a clean, amateur basis.

More About Passes.

GEORGE HOOK, who with Charles Cunningham does most of the heavy duty for the City Boxing Commission, rises to remark:

"You're all wet about the City Commission having control of 140 passes. There may be that many sent to the City Hall, but not through the City Commission. We actually have at our disposal only 12 seat tickets, two for each commissioner. On the night of each fight there are 13 more passes issued by the commission to inspectors working for the commission, but these passes carry no seat coupons.

"That is the extent to which we swell the pass list. I know that the Board of Aldermen gets more than 60 tickets, the Police Department gets others and so on. But the City Commission does not issue them.

"For my part, I wish there were no passes issued and I think I speak for Charley Cunningham in this matter as well. We are willing to have every pass for which we are responsible checked after each show; and perhaps it might clarify the situation if all concerned would do the same."

University City Favored to Beat Webster Eleven

The Webster High football team meets University City, co-leaders in the County League race, in a nonconference game tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock on the Webster field. This game is one of Webster's outstanding contests of the season.

It will be the second home game this year for Webster. After tomorrow there will be only two more home games, one with Clayton, which had been scheduled earlier in the season to be played at Clayton.

As between Webster and University City it is difficult to decide in whose favor the advantage lies, although the University City eleven is a popular choice to win. University City has played four games this season and has run up a total of 91 to opponents' none. One game was a scoreless tie.

Webster has not such a spectacular record. It has tied a game, lost one and won one. In points it has 25 to its opponents' 15. However, Webster cannot be judged by this record, for it has been steadily improving since the East St. Louis game.

The University City team being outweighed 12 pounds, on a fast field University City's lightning fast backs will probably show Webster a few pointers in running.

University City has had only a few minor injuries and the regular lineup is expected to start. Webster may lose Bill Freschl, who injured his ankle. Coaster, regular end, has a dislocated collarbone, will be able to play only part of the game at the most.

The probable lineups:

WEBSTER.	POS.	U. CITY.
Harkey (140)	L.E.	Stewart (142)
Henderson (175)	L.T.	Lamb (160)
Becker (160)	L.G.	Pergament (150)
Nisbet (C.) (190)	C.	Campbell (165)
Scott (165)	R.G.	Oelz (C) (135)
Stork (175)	R.T.	Graner (140)
Evans (145)	R.E.	Meisel (160)
Larson (155)	Q.B.	Feldman (148)
Freschl (135) or Greene (165)	L.H.	Vaccaro (157)
Hall (145)	R.H.	McClintic (140)
Carr (155)	F.B.	Deckert (180)

Webster Groves: Line, 165; backs, 155; team, 160.

RISKO, FLOORED FOR NINE COUNT, FOULS DANIELS

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—A new young heavyweight from out of the West has hurdled that dangerous stumbling block to all fighters' ambition to reach the inner circle of championship contenders — Johnny Risko of Cleveland.

Dick Daniels of Minneapolis knocked the Cleveland baker down for the count of nine in the second round of a 10-round match here last night, then withstood Johnny's terrific comeback and finally won on a foul in the seventh.

Braves Sell Rollings.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The Boston National League club yesterday announced that Russell Rollings, infielder, had been sold outright to the Rochester club of the International League. He was drafted from the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League by the Braves.

COUNTERFEIT TICKETS OUT FOR PITT-IRISH GAME, POLICE THINK

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 24.—The belief that $10,000 worth of counterfeit tickets for the University of Pittsburgh-Notre Dame football game tomorrow had been printed was expressed today by Police Inspector James N. Hoey after the arrest of three men charged with selling them.

The last tickets for seats and standing room at Pitt Stadium were sold several days ago. Approximately 65,000 persons will witness the game.

WIFE HAS WOMAN SHE FINDS IN HUSBAND'S AUTO ARRESTED

Miss Helen Scott, 19 years old, of 410 North Euclid avenue, was arrested last night on a charge of disturbance of the peace made by Mrs. Mamie Fisher, 4604 Delor street, who found Miss Scott sitting in an automobile owned by John Fisher, her husband, outside the theater where he works as a film operator.

When police arrived, Mrs. Fisher bore cuts on her right hand, suffered, according to Miss Scott, in breaking the glass in a door of the automobile with her fist.

Miss Scott told reporters today that she had known Fisher since last June, when he took her home from the theater, at 4315 Manchester avenue, on a rainy night. She said that she had frequently used his machine to conduct business for him, and had been to another theater in South St. Louis last night to collect an account for him. Returning the automobile to the theater, she said, she was met by Mrs. Fisher and a group of friends, who threatened to attack her.

A Father at 73.

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 24.—Davis Erbe is 73 years old. His wife 40, presented to him a daughter yesterday. When he was congratulated, Davis replied: "I'm sorry it wasn't a son, who might support his mother in her old age."

AMERICAN TEXT BOOK RAKED IN AUSTRALIA

Two Paragraphs on World War Criticised as Untrue and Insulting.

By the Associated Press.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 24—An American text book—Hayes and Moon's Modern History—adopted as a standard school book in the State of Victoria, has become the center of a controversy.

The Australian Natives' Association, a national organization of Australian-born citizens, has protested against the book, describing it as biased, untrue, and insulting. Mr. Lemmon, the State Minister for Education, is threatened with opposition at the next elections if he does not withdraw the book.

In particular, the association says the following two statements are false and an insult to British and Australian troops:

"The British collected a motley army, composed chiefly of Colonial troops, and landed it on the tip of Gallipoli peninsular, close to the Dardanelles."

"The United States was the only great power that fought in the war without demanding or even desiring territorial gains for herself. She should be credited with a loftiness of purpose and unselfishness that could hardly be matched in all history."

Book Withdrawn From New York Public Schools.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Attacks from two widely separated sections of the world have been directed against the text book "Modern History" by Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes and Assistant Prof. Parker Thomas Moon, of Columbia University.

News of the controversy it aroused in Australia recalls a complaint that caused withdrawal of the book from New York schools last May after it had been in use for seven years.

The Board of School Superintendents acted on a charge by the Rev. Dr. Fred M. A. Haughwout of Staten Island that the text book "is objectionable on civic and religious grounds."

Dr. Haughwout said the history "is written evidently in the interests of some visionary scheme of internationalism" and its religious attitude "amounts to out and out propaganda." He alleged, "the Roman Catholic church is everywhere defended" in the book, "and both the Church of England and all the branches of Protestantism are persistently criticised."

Prof. Hayes' comment was: "Preposterous." He is a member of several historical organizations, including the American Historical Association and the Academy of Political Science.

NEW AND ATTRACTIVE PINEAPPLE RECIPES

Uncooked desserts, easily and quickly made, are one of the demands of the modern housewife. These recipes are for attractive sweets made with canned pineapple.

Pineapple Pinwheels.

Cut into eight sections each slice of canned pineapple. Arrange four of these on each individual plate, leaving spaces between sections. Fill spaces with jam. Garnish with whipped cream around the edge and center, and with green grapeettes on pineapple sections. Chill and serve.

Pineapple Compote.

Chill pineapple slices and oranges. Peel oranges with a sharp knife, cutting through the white inner skin. Remove sections, keeping in as large pieces as possible. When ready to serve, lay slices of pineapple on individual glass plates, put a small mound of powdered sugar in the center and arrange orange sections around pineapple slices. Serve very cold.

Pineapple a La Sutton.

In each dessert glass put a layer of crushed pineapple; then two marshmallows cut in pieces with scissors dipped in cold water. Next a layer of jam, another layer of crushed pineapple. Top with whipped cream sweetened and flavored. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Pineapple Sweet Sandwich.

Cut marshmallows in small pieces and add to crushed pineapple. Let mixture stand one hour to thicken slightly. Spread between thin slices of white bread, lightly buttered, which have been cut in fancy shapes. It is necessary to cut the bread into desired shapes before putting in the filling, as it is difficult to cut through the marshmallows.

For variety, split finger rolls, scoop out a little of the center and fill with this mixture.

SALMON SUPPER PLATE

Try This Dish for Next Sunday Night's Supper.

Chill one pound can of salmon. Open, and remove skin. Press into a mound, on a large platter. Sprinkle with lemond juice and cover the mound with mayonnaise dressing, spread thinly.

Around the mound place crisp lettuce leaves. Slice chilled tomatoes, cucumbers and beets, and arrange on the lettuce and around the base of the mound.

Chilled and drained peas may be added, nesting two tablespoonfuls of these here and there in the lettuce.

COMBINATION MEAT DISH

This Delicacy Is Sometimes Called City Chicken.

Two pounds veal steak, two pounds of pork tenderloin, three-quarter inch thick.

Cut in squares one and one-half inches square. Put on a wooden skewer, first a piece of pork, then a piece of veal, until you have used four pieces.

Roll in cracker crumbs and egg. Brown well on all sides.

Put in roaster; add one and one-half cups of water and bake about one and one-half hours.

Add a cup of milk to make the gravy. This makes from 18 to 20 services.

HALIBUT WITH GRAPE SAUCE

Savory Baked Fish Appeals to the Masculine Palate.

Use a slice of halibut cut about three-fourths inch thick and weighing about one and one-half pounds. Sometimes two slices will be needed to make this weight, if the fish is small.

Place the fish in a buttered baking dish and pour over it one-third cup white grape juice. Melt two tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour and then stir in one-half cup milk mixed with one-half cup undiluted evaporated milk. Cook until thickened and smooth and pour over the fish.

Cover with a piece of heavy brown paper and bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Then add one cup Tokay grapes, cut in half, and cook five to eight minutes longer. Remove the fish carefully to a hot platter, pour the sauce over it and serve very hot.

BROILED OYSTERS AND BACON

An Enticing Dish for an Informal Luncheon or Supper.

Wash and dry three dozen large oysters. Roll each in the bacon fat, and broil, placing near flame, turning as soon as they show the least bit of brown.

Serve on toast. Add a dash of lemon juice and cayenne to the gravy on the broiling pan and pour it over the oysters.

TERSE PARAGRAPHS FOR FAMILY COOKS

Assembed for Housewives Who Have Little Time to Study Cook Books.

Care should be taken in preparing vegetables so that they are not overcooked. This causes them to lose their sweetness and delicacy of flavor as well as color, and some vegetables are also toughened with long cooking.

A cake baked in too slow an oven rises over the sides of the pan and has a coarse open texture; while a cake baked in too hot an oven bakes too soft and acquires a hard crust.

All measurements should be accurate. A set of standard measuring spoons and a standard measuring cup are indispensable.

Cooking fruits in sugar syrup helps to preserve their shape, because the cellulose of the fruit is toughened by the sugar.

When preparing fruit salad, sprinkle bananas, peaches, pears or apples with lemon juice or marinate with French dressing as soon as they are cut. This will prevent discoloration.

By planning each day's menu as a whole, and by seeing to it that the necessary food ingredients are included every day it is possible to feed a family correctly with a minimum of work.

Extremely active children need a large amount of the energy foods—cereals, potatoes, bread—and also need good amounts of protein for repair purposes.

When the cake is baked remove from the oven and let stand a few minutes, cut from the sides of the pan and turn upside down upon a large serving plate.

When using raisins in a cake, cover them with warm water and let them stand five or 10 minutes. Drain them just before stirring into the batter. They will be moist and tender when the cake is baked.

Less sugar will be required and a better flavor will result if sugar is added to fruit sauces after cooking.

For the children or very active adults in the family, it is necessary to include relatively large amounts of bread and cereal. About a quart of milk a day for each child, and approximately a pint for each grown-up, is another requirement.

A little sugar sprinkled into the water in which potatoes are boiled will made them white and floury.

Preserves of all kinds, more especially if they are in glass bottles, should be stored in a dark place.

Place meals at this time of the year are extremely popular, as they have proven a convenient and handy way of serving.

Gelatin should be soaked for at least five minutes in cold liquid before the hot liquid is added and then make sure all the gelatin is dissolved in the hot liquid before adding the other ingredients.

Modern Kitchen Equipment.

No workman can do good work with poor tools, and many a housewife struggles needlessly with a balky egg-beater, dull or broken knives, or inadequate cooking utensils. A housekeeper of 10 years' standing was seen trying to turn fried eggs with a paring knife. When asked why she didn't use a pancake turner, said she'd never owned one. Check over the kitchen equipment and see if some of the dissatisfaction with "kitchen drudgery" may not be remedied by adding a few time and labor saving devices, or by replacing wornout pieces.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Veal Curry, Dutch Apple Pie and Japanese Salad Included in the List.

Poached eggs are a general breakfast favorite, but in order to add variety to their flavor, try poaching them in milk sometimes or in tomato sauce. Put milk in a deep frying pan or in a shallow saucepan, add salt to season and heat to the scalding point. It is a little better to butter the pan before adding the milk in order to prevent it sticking. Drop in the eggs, cover the pan and cook just below the boiling point for three to five minutes, depending on how hard you like them. Remove to slices of toast, and pour the milk over the toast.

Veal Broth.

When buying a piece of veal for roasting, have it boned, and have the bones well cracked, as they may be used to form the basis for a delicious veal broth. Put them in a saucepan with a tablespoon of salt, or less, if the bone is small, an onion, two whole cloves, a small piece of bayleaf, a handful of celery leaves and cold water to cover. Heat very slowly to the boiling point and simmer for one and one-half hours. Strain, add a little rice, or macaroni alphabets, noodles or spaghetti and cook until tender.

Veal Curry.

Cut one and one-quarter pounds veal cutlet in pieces about two inches square and roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Melt one-quarter cup fat in a saucepan, add one large sliced onion and cook slowly for five minutes, then add the meat and stir until brown.

Next add one tablespoon curry powder, one-half green pepper cut in shreds, one-half cup fresh or canned cocoanut milk, one-quarter cup grated cocoanut and two cups water. Cover and cook slowly for one hour or until the meat is tender. Stir in two teaspoons lemon juice and thicken the gravy a little with one tablespoon flour mixed with a little cold water. Serve with plenty of boiled rice and pass chutney, grated cocoanut, finely chopped almonds or peanuts.

Dutch Apple Pie.

This is made like a deep dish apple pie. When the pie is done, lift the crust carefully and pour in two cups cooked custard. Put the crust back in place and chill the pie before serving. For the custard, mix one-quarter cup sugar with one tablespoon cornstarch, then add two eggs and beat until well blended. Scald two cups milk and pour gradually over the egg mixture, stirring all the time. Return to the saucepan and stir over a slow fire until thickened. Remove from the fire, add one-quarter teaspoon salt and one teaspoon vanilla extract.

Cauliflower Cream Soup.

Save the firm, outside stalks of a head of cauliflower to boil and use for cream of cauliflower soup, or to add flavor to other soup stock. Cut them fine, add a small onion and a stalk of celery, cover with cold water, heat slowly to the boiling point and boil gently until tender. Rub through a coarse strainer, add an equal amount of milk and thicken with flour and butter.

Japanese Salad.

Rinse one cup canned shrimp with cold water. Remove the little black vein that runs down the back, break each shrimp in half and chill thoroughly.

Then mix with one and one-half cups flaky, cold, cooked rice, one-half cup diced celery, six olives cut in slices, three tablespoons olive oil and one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice. Mix with a fork to avoid mashing the shrimp. Arrange on lettuce, garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg and a spoonful of mayonnaise.

CHOCOLATE BAVARIAN CREAM IS AN ENTICING SWEET

Particularly Recommended for the Informal Home Bridge Luncheon.

It is hard to find anyone who does not like chocolate, and this recipe is particularly good.

Cut four squares of unsweetened chocolate in small pieces, add to one cup of milk and heat in a double boiler, until the chocolate is melted. Stir frequently and when melted beat with an egg beater until well blended and smooth. If this is not done the chocolate is likely to remain in little lumps through the pudding.

Soak one tablespoon gelatine in one-fourth cup cold water for five minutes, then stir into the hot chocolate with one-third cup powdered sugar. Cool until beginning to thicken—place in the icebox or in a pan of ice water for this—and then add one and one-half cups cream, whipped stiff, one teaspoon vanilla(one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Fold over and over until blended, then pour into a fancy mold, or individual molds and set aside to chill. Turn out for serving.

Whip one-half cup cream, sweeten with two tablespoons sugar and garnish the Bavarian cream with it. Powdered macaroons may be sprinkled over the cream and a Maraschino cherry or a candied violet or mint leaf added for a final touch.

Garnishes for Foods.

All sorts of delectable and easily prepared garnishes can be used to make foods more attractive.

Sliced tomatoes, cool slices of cucumber, olives, hearts of celery, rings of green pepper, diced apples and celery, mixed shredded cabbage, shredded raw carrots, pickles, chutney, or cool watercress, are suggestions.

Flavor and Quality go hand-in-hand

"The Hot Toast Test proves Nucoa Best"

These days there is a temptation to make food products cheaper and cheaper in order to attract the housewife with price bait.

Sooner or later this policy works against the woman buyer. The time comes when she cannot trust the quality. Her taste and that of the family decide that there is a limit to cheapness.

The makers of Nucoa believe that quality margarine should be a food delicacy and not a cheap commercial article.

They not only maintain the highest standard of quality in America but they have created this standard.

Therefore Nucoa comes to the housewife with a uniform, rich, sweet flavor quite unlike that of ordinary margarine.

And this flavor can be proven by comparison in any home by the hot-toast test.

No matter where you live you buy Nucoa with the knowledge that it is strictly fresh. The Best Foods Central Laboratory h a checking sample of th Nucoa your grocer sells yo Every day it is tested for qua ity and freshness.

"It's worth Dating...

I know...I have been drinking this coffee for 25 Years"....

"I HAD it first down in Maine," says Mr. Flagg, "and have used it ever since, even when I had to send away for it. That's how much it meant to me."

And now that this marvelous coffee is dated it means even more to him . . . to YOU . . . to all coffee-lovers!

That date on every can of Chase & Sanborn's means freshly-roasted coffee. Twice each week it's rushed to your grocer fresh from our roasting ovens, every can plainly marked with the date the grocer receives it. If any remains unsold after ten days we replace it with fresh. There's no possibility of your getting a stale can of this coffee!

That means no more chance of rancid, bitter-tasting coffee. Scientists now say that when coffee is stored too long after roasting the precious oils which give it flavor turn rancid, just as the oil in butter gets rancid. And since even the most expensive coffees sometimes linger in warehouses and on grocers' shelves for months and months, you never know how stale it is.

Only with Chase & Sanborn's can you be sure of freshness . . . your guarantee is the date on the can. Look for it!

PICKLED WHITE ONIONS

Pickled onions are among the prized condiments. This is a very excellent way of pickling them.

Pickled Onions.

Use small white onions. Peel and cover with brine (1½ cupfuls salt to two quarts of water) for two days. Drain and cover with another brine (of same proportions) and let stand another two days. Heat to boiling and boil two minutes. Drain, rinse and place in pint jars. In each pint jar place: one slice lemon, two strips red pepper, one tablespoon black mustard seed, the same amount white mustard seed, one peppercorn small piece mace, tiny piece of bay leaf, one-half teaspoon celery seed.

When these ingredients have been added to the prepared onions in the pint jars, fill each jar with boiling vinegar and seal.

A WELL-MADE MEAT LOAF IS AN APPETIZING DISH

The Family Will Appreciate One Made After This Old-Fashioned Recipe.

One cup ham, one and one-half pounds of beef, and one-half pound of ground pork, one-fourth cup of pimentoes, two small sweet pickles, two teaspoons of chopped onion, two eggs, one-half cup of milk, two cups of bread and cracker crumbs, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper.

The loaf is better if the meat is ground at least twice. Bread crumbs will give more volume in a loaf than cracker crumbs.

Chop the pimento in a separate pan and then add the meat, which is already well worked together. Use the following method for the general rule.

Grind and mix the meat well, add the beaten eggs and milk, then the pepper and onion juice. Mix these well and add the chopped pimento and chopped pickle. This will fleck the loaf with the bright red and the dull green.

Any meat loaf should first be seared in a hot oven and then baked in a moderate temperature 30 minutes to the pound.

A REAL BREAKFAST TREAT

Bacon Muffins Are Both Appetizing and Wholesome.

Muffins are an addition to the family breakfast. Bacon muffins are especially suited for the home morning meal.

A couple of slices of bacon are often left from a meal, and this gives a splendid way to use the bacon. The bacon should not be fried until it has lost all of the fat, as the fat helps to make the muffins rich.

Bacon Muffins.

Beat one egg and add one cup of sweet milk. Combine two cups of flour, one teaspoon of sugar, one-half teaspoon of salt and two teaspoons of baking powder. Beat together until they are light, then add two tablespoons of finely chopped cooked bacon. Add one tablespoon of melted butter or cooking fat. Pour into buttered gem tins and bake in a quick oven for 15 minutes.

Learn to Balance Meals.

It will be necessary to learn to group foods so as to place them in their proper class, as an example foods that are high in protein, ones high in starch, mineral matters and fats and then plan your daily meals so as to include sufficient amount of the various food elements. It may take a little time to learn these points, but it will be worth while.

PLANNING MEALS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

Housewives Charged With the Responsibility of Serving Wholesome Food.

Day in and day out, whether housewives like to do it or not, meals must be planned and usually prepared before they can be eaten. Those who "eat out" have to select the food they eat, even if they do not have to shop for it and cook it.

Women are the largest buyers of food, and it is on the wiseness of their selection that the health and comfort of their families depend. National advertisers of foods and household products, as well as the local grocer and butcher realize this.

Many food manufacturers and retailers are doing good work in making available information concerning their products, the different grades and the ways in which they can be used.

Wise housewives study the food advertisements and the grocer's stocks; read the labels on canned and packaged goods and learn to know what they are buying and what value they are receiving for the money they spend. They compare weights and measures with prices in various brands, and decide which are best suited to their needs. This not only makes marketing more interesting, but will probably enable them to save money because they will have a better appreciation of values.

Start with the planning of this week's meals. When shopping for Sunday's veal, select a piece of the rump, loin or shoulder, and ask the butcher to remove the bone so that the roast can be stuffed. Have the bones cracked and take them home to use for the broth that is planned for Monday.

Good veal should be pink or flesh colored, and the meat firm with firm white fat. Veal comes from the young beef animal, and the calf should be at least 2 months old for good flavored meat. Veal is cut in the same way as beef. Chops and cutlets come from the hindquarter—cutlets being the slices cut from the thick part of the leg, and chops coming from the loin or ribs.

Canned shrimp are preferred by many to fresh, as they are ready to use without further cooking. Canned shrimp are packed wet and dry. The wet pack meaning that the fish are canned in a weak brine; in the dry pack no liquid is used. Shrimp are also packed in a slightly salted liquid that jellies a bit when chilled. Fresh shrimp are bought by the pound and must be boiled, then shelled. They require only about 20 minutes' cooking in salted water seasoned with a good dash of cayenne.

Cauliflower should have a firm white head and fresh green leaves. The flowerets making up the head should be close and free from black spots or specks. Save the green stalks for the cream soup for next day.

Lettuce is more economical if a large, firm head is selected that will do for several days. Wash it, cut out about one-half inch of the stem and place the lettuce in a pan, jar or bowl that can be covered. Add just enough water to cover the bottom of the bowl. Lettuce will keep for several days in a cool place, if treated in this manner, and will always be crisp and ready to use.

In buying canned vegetables select them for the purpose that is, if strained tomatoes are called for, use the canned juice instead of the choice variety of whole tomatoes that you pay more for, and will have to be strained. If you have a small family, buy a can of sliced pineapple that contains four slices to saute for Monday dinner; the juice may be saved to add to the mixture used in the making of the lemon meringue pie the next day, or it may be poured over the sliced oranges served for next day's breakfast.

BROWNED TOAST RINGS

Offer an Attractive Service for Creamed Foods.

Toast rings, besides using up stale bread, offer an attractive way of serving creamed fowl, fish and vegetables. The filling for the rings may be prepared separately and the bread rings toasted just before serving.

Cut as many circles from thick slices of bread as there are persons to be served.

Using a cutter about an inch smaller or a large grapefruit corer, cut out the centers.

SAUSAGE BAKED WITH BEANS

A Palatable Dish for a Chilly November Day.

Soak one-half pound lima beans twenty-four hours in cold water. Wash, drain and cook in boiling water till tender, changing the water twice.

Cover with boiling water, adding more salt if needed, and bake six or eight hours. Serve with chili sauce.

FAMILY COOKS STUDY APPETITE APPEAL

Dull Appetites May Be the Result of Dull Food or Too Much Food Talk.

There are a few lucky persons in this world who do not have to worry about tempting the appetites of their families, but certain it is that most family cooks are, now and then, distressed about the eating habits of those for whom they feel a responsibility. These cooks spend much time and thought and labor in the planning and cooking and serving of meals, only to have them picked at or refused when put on the table. It may be due to faulty habits of training, it may be due to the fact that they have fallen into a deep rut in cooking, and eating has thus become such a routine matter that the family "goes stale" on it now and then.

Or the family may even belong to the fussy group that talks so much about food and its health values that human nature, having a contrary streak in it, just plain rebels.

Of course, in hot weather most appetites lag a bit, and the wise home-maker sees that the surprise element is present at meal times and that attention is paid to preparing those foods that have a decided "appetite appeal."

Monotony is deadening either in daily living or in the matter of appetite. If the same things are served over and over again in the same way and on the same dishes, interest wanes in meals and meal time becomes a more or less perfunctory period to be got through with as rapidly as possible. After a time digestion suffers because of lack of interest and lack of response to food. The system is likely to become seriously overloaded in some food elements and lacking in others.

Almost everybody likes surprises, and if this element can be introduced into the question of food, and the family kept a little in suspense as to what is in store for them, appetites will be keener, digestions will be better and dispositions happier.

Plan Changes.

If a family has gotten into a deep rut, it may be necessary to go a little slowly in the beginning in the matter of change.

However, such minor innovations as the introduction of a good polish on the silver, a few new bright-colored pieces of china or perhaps one of the rather new colored tablecloths will arouse interest and be sure to stir up comment.

Once a beginning is made, follow up the advantage by trying one or two new dishes. Vary the flavorings used, change the types of soup, of dessert, of salad dressings. Occasionally arrange for the whole family to eat its dinner out. Let each member choose, so far as possible, the foods he wants and make some mental notes. Most likely they will be entirely different from the food eaten at home, though the family is one that sticks stubbornly to the foods it has become accustomed to.

Appetite appeal is a peculiar thing in a way, though like all appeals in that it seldom means the same thing to any given number of people. Yet daintiness, attractiveness in arrangement and combination of foods, careful seasoning, and cooking with special attention to the development of flavor, a plentiful variation in the foods served and an atmosphere of congeniality are sure to make an appeal to the majority of appetites, and a favorable appeal at that.

CHILDREN'S DIETARY NEEDS

Boys and Girls Should Be Well and Efficiently Fed.

Children who eat what they want, and grow by accident, cannot develop to the fullest extent of their original endowment.

If left to their own devices, children eat too heartily of carbohydrates, at the expense of bone building mineral salts and muscle-producing proteins. Although this unbalanced diet will produce growth, it undermines fundamental vitality.

Any imperfectly balanced diet severely strains the physical system of a growing boy or girl. The young body feels a crying need for the lacking food elements. An astounding proportion of children who are apparently untractable, quarrelsome, secretive, or slow mentally are merely reacting to the effects of deficient feeding.

Fortunately, this retarding process shows up in slackened growth months before permanently harmful effects develop. By keeping close track of each child's gains in height and weight, parents can insure their children's future.

TEMPTING QUINCE TARTS

This Fruit Has a Particularly Pungent Flavor.

Fill twelve well buttered muffin pans half full with thick quince sauce.

Make a batter with two cups of flour, one teaspoon of salt, and two tablespoons of butter rubbed thoroughly into the dry ingredients.

Add enough milk to make a soft dough and drop two large tablespoonfuls on top of each pan of quince sauce.

A Versatile Food.

Cream cheese is one of the foods which can be used at any season to save labor, and it will add zest to the meal because it is possible to use it in so many different ways.

PUMPKIN PRESERVES

This Edible Gourd Makes a Most Delicious Sweetmeat.

Pare and seed pumpkin and slice one-half inch thick in neat sections. To each two pounds of slices allow two pounds sugar and one-half cup strained lemon juice, saving the rinds. Place in enamel kettle, and stand covered 24 hours.

Shred or grate the lemon rinds, and add, together with one-ounce of ginger root for each two pounds pulp.

Add one cup water for each two-pound proportion, and simmer until pulp is tender and translucent.

Set kettle aside for a couple of days.

SOME FOODS CONTAIN MUCH FOOD IRON

It Is Important to Include Some of Them in the Daily Dietary.

Spinach is, by no means, the only food that will supply iron. Whole wheat and rye flours, molasses, raisins, oatmeal, prunes, dried beans, string beans, onions, parsley, egg yolks, liver, lean beef, cabbage, raw carrots, and all salad greens are pretty good sources of the food iron that keeps blood red and in good conditions, gives color to pale cheeks and prevents that tired feeling and listlessness that is so often a symptom of anemia.

It is surprising how small an amount of iron the body needs to supply its needs, yet it is even more surprising to discover the great number of humans who are constantly depriving their blood of even this little. Usually this is wholly unintentional and the result of a lack of knowledge as to how to get it into the diet.

A knowledge of those foods that will insure a plentiful supply of this valuable mineral will help in maintaining general good health.

Not all foods contain iron, but there are enough of those that do to give plenty of attractive and appetizing combinations to a diet that must make use of them.

Liver, of course, is the most useful meat, as experiments have proved its worth in the treatment of various types of anemia. A great many recipes have been published telling how to use it—almost any way is good. Beef, calf, chicken, lamb or pork liver can be made into a number of appetizing dishes, and it is a good plan to make use of one of them once a week. Kidneys may be used instead of liver with good results. Red meat, that is beef, especially lean beef, is richer in iron than the lighter colored meats.

Years ago, during the winter months, any great variety in food was impossible; there were no green vegetables to be had, and very little fruit with the exception of apples. Yet certain combinations of foods were in common use that provided most of the necessary elements—for instance, dried beans were used in many ways, but especially baked with molasses; cornmeal, rye and wholewheat flour mixed with molasses and sour milk made steamed brown bread. Baked beans and brown bread made a meal that was rich in iron and high in food value.

Raisins are known as one of the most palatable forms of iron—added to gingerbread or to brown bread they supply just that much more iron. Raisin pie, oatmeal cookies, plain or with raisins, steamed puddings made with whole wheat flour and containing raisins, or dates, or figs, bran and whole-wheat muffins or bread with any of these fruits—all these are excellent ways of increasing the amount of iron than is obtained from food. Use them, one or another of them several times a week.

Shredded cabbage made into a salad with raw carrots, with apples, with chopped peanuts or almonds; dried lima beans, or plain white beans baked with tomatoes, with molassses, or made into chowder, soup, stems, etc.; spinach or any similar green; plenty of minced parsley in sauces, soups, sprinkled over salads; green lettuce and other salad greens (the bleached heads do not contain as much iron as green); buttermilk; oatmeal for breakfast porridge, whole-wheat cereals and cornmeal mush—these will all yield a plentiful amount of iron, and are foods that should have a place in the family dietary, either to overcome a tendency to anemia, or, better yet, as a preventive of it.

VARIOUS WAYS OF TESTING THE HEAT OF THE OVEN

Many Home Cooks, Also, Have Adopted Successful Tests of Their Own.

Most recipes that are published nowadays give oven temperatures as a guide to cooking, rather than leaving it to the cook's idea of what constitutes a slow, a moderate, or a hot oven.

Many stoves are equipped with oven regulators, or with thermometers, and where these are not a part of the equipment, portable oven thermometers may be bought for very little.

However, there are still many homes where other methods are used. For these it is well to know that the following tests will give a fairly accurate account of the oven heat.

A slow oven is one in which a little flour sprinkled on a tin plate will brown in five minutes.

A medium or moderate oven will require three minutes for flour to brown; while a hot oven requires only one minute.

CITRON EASILY CANDIED

This Product Is Convenient to Have on Hand.

Wash and wipe dry fresh ripe citron. Cut the fruit into halves or quarters and remove the center. Put the rind in cold water and soak for five days. Change the water twice during this soaking period. The citron should be kept in a cool place, but not be chilled during the soaking. Boil for one hour. Then remove this water and add fresh boiling water and boil for 45 to 60 minutes, or until the citron is tender.

Make a syrup of one pound of sugar and one-half cup of water for each pound of citron. Cook the citron in this syrup for a half hour over a low flame. Allow to stand in the syrup over night. Lift the citron carefully from the syrup and boil the syrup until it is quite thick, but do not allow it to boil so low that it caramelizes. Again allow the citron to stand in the syrup over night. Lift the citron from the syrup and place it in the sun, covered with gauze, until it crystalizes. Dredge it with granulated sugar and store in a dry place.

Grape Juice Ice Cream.

Two cups of grape juice, two cups of heavy cream, juice of two lemons, two cups of sugar, one cup of cold water and one tablespoonful of gelatine. Whip cream, dissolve gelatine in cold water, stir in lemon juice und sugar; heat grape juice to a boil and pour in the gelatine. Stir until dissolved and put into freezer. As soon as it shows signs of freezing, mix with it the whipped cream.

Salmon Omelet.

Season one cup flaked salmon with salt, pepper and one teaspoon lemon juice. Beat four eggs until light and add the salmon and one-half cup of milk. Turn into an omelet pan which has been well buttered and cook until firm. Remove to a hot platter, surround with a border of hot buttered green peas and serve garnished with parsley.

WHEN CALAMITIES SURROUND THE COOK

First Aid Suggestions for the Home Cook Beset With Kitchen Tribulations.

There are tricks in all trades, bits of information culled through experience and by necessity, or handed on from one person to another, even as are these suggestions.

Cook books, presupposing considerable knowledge on the part of their readers, seldom include them, and very often, all too often in fact, the new housekeeper is left at a critical moment floundering around in despair because the cream won't whip, the custard has curdled, the fruit gelatine has refused to harden and the cream of tomato soup looks like no soup should look. Such moments require first aid treatments just as truly as do burns, cuts or bruises.

The best way to begin is to perhaps take the calamities just mentioned. There are lots of others, every housekeeper has a few that seem peculiar to her alone, in addition to those that might almost be called common properties.

If Cream Will Not Whip.

When purchasing cream for whipping, be sure to specify that point. In some localities it is called "whipping cream," in others "double cream," to differentiate it from the thinner cream that is used for coffee or cereals. This thin cream will not whip stiff, so if you have made that mistake, don't waste time and effort in further beating. Such a mistake may be partly remedied by adding an unbeaten egg white to each one-half cup cream, putting the bowl in a pan of ice to chill it quickly and the beating it to a stiff froth—which is the best that can be accomplished. Or a small amount of gelatine may be used. Soak one teaspoon gelatine in a tablespoonful of cold water for five minutes and then dissolve it over hot water and stir into the chilled cream. Let stand for five minutes, then whip. The gelatine will stiffen the cream a little more than the egg white, but the process is a little longer. Even double cream should be well chilled to whip successfully.

When Custard Curdles.

Boiled custards that curdle are a trial and tribulation. Custards are made from mixtures of egg and milk, and if they are cooked too fast or too long, the egg is likely to cook in little hard lumps, separating itself from the milk and giving the mixture a curdled appearance. Sometimes it is very difficult to tell when custard is done; if it begins to separate or curdle, remove it at once from the fire, place it in a pan of very cold wate, so that the cooking will cease at once, and then beat with an egg beater until nearly cold and smooth again. When taken in time this is an effective method of treatment; if delayed too long, nothing can restore the custard to smoothness.

Mayonnaise is another product that often separates in the making. When the separation first begins a few drops of boiling water will often bring the mixture together again. Sometimes it will be necessary to beat this combination into another egg yolk, and then proceed as you first began—adding the oil very slowly and beating constantly.

About Gelatine Products.

Gelatine mixtures can always be hardened quickly by placing them in a pan of cracked ice and water. If it is a very hot day it is a good plan to add a little salt to the ice and water. In making fruit gelatine beware of using fresh pineapple, for it contains a substance that dissolves the gelatine and it will never harden. Cooking the pineapple destroys this substance, so the canned product may be used with safety. Another way of hurrying the cooling of gelatine mixtures is to use boiling water or fruit juice, as the case may be, to dissolve the gelatine, and then where water is used substitute crushed ice. For instance, where two cups of liquid are used, one cup water and one cup fruit juice or two cups water, have one cup of water or fruit juice boiling, and when the gelatine is dissolved stir in a cupful and a quarter of crushed ice.

Cream of tomato soup may be kept smooth by always seeing to it that the hot tomato pulp is stirred gradually into the hot milk. The tomato is acid, and if added too rapidly will curdle the milk.

When you use the gas oven to make toast, light the gas a few minutes before putting in the bread, so that the oven will be hot. If the oven is not heated first, the bread will dry out and be hard as chips before it browns. This is a simple thing, but many people never think of it.

Afternoon Tea Sandwich.

Cut nut bread in one-fourth inch slices. Spread lightly with butter. Mash cream cheese with a fork; season with salt and paprika and thin out slightly with pineapple juice. Spread one slice of bread with cheese and then with a generous layer of crushed pineapple, well drained. Cover with second slice and press lightly together. Cut diagonally. These sandwiches are popular for afternoon tea.

UNEXPECTED GUESTS ARRIVE FOR DINNER

How One Home Cook Evolved a Company Meal in Such an Emergency.

Into the kitchen at the first opportunity, and to the icebox. There was a piece of ham about three inches square left from last night's dinner; a spoonful of mashed potatoes, another of boiled carrots; about half a head of lettuce, several tomatoes, piece of a green pepper, a bit of dried cheese and a few odds and ends of fruit—several peaches, a very ripe banana, oranges for breakfast.

Hastily rearranging these in her mind, she decided to grind up the mite of ham, mix it with the potato and use it as a stuffing for baked tomatoes. The cheese would go into a dish of baked macaroni and cheese. She planned to manufacture a salad with the lettuce, green pepper, a hardboiled egg and the stalk of celery she was saving for soup, and the fruit could be cut up and mixed together for dessert. Suddenly she remembered some canned string beans she had bought for the next night; half of them would do to mix with the spoonful of carrots. By that time she was feeling quite in an inventive mood, and was beginning to feel that the company might have a fairly decent dinner after all.

Mode of Procedure.

Half a package of macaroni was put on to boil first of all; also one egg for the salad. While that was cooking the ham was ground up and mixed with the cold mashed potato and a small onion. Next she cut the tops off three good-sized tomatoes, scooped out the pulp, and filled them with the mixture. These were put in a buttered baking dish, the bottom just covered with water, and into the oven they went to bake for 25 minutes.

By that time the macaroni was done. It was drained and then one cup of milk, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour and a little pepper added to it and the whole stirred over a slow fire until thickened. About one-fourth cup grated cheese went into it next—more would have been better, but it wasn't available. Into a buttered, shallow baking dish, the rest of the cheese spread over the top, and into the oven went the macaroni along with the tomatoes.

Last Minute Touches.

Sliced the fruit, sugar slightly and put into serving dishes.

Put on the coffee, and get the relatives to set the table.

Heated the carrots and mixed half a can of stringless beans with them, and presto—a green vegetable ample for three people.

By the time dinner was ready to serve she knew that she could retain her reputation for "making something out of nothing," but she had some anxious moments.

But with a little ingenuity something can usually be evolved if staples are kept on hand.

Made the Salad.

Now the way was clear. Diced celery, hard boiled egg and shredded green pepper on lettuce with a French dressing made a good salad, and one that was prepared with dispatch. Into the icebox it went to keep cold.

Greens With Salt Pork.

Turnip greens are the ones most often used, but any greens may be served. These are cooked as usual, but with a piece of salt pork in the pot.

For Hallowe'en a WASHINGTON Jonathan spells Good Fortune

GOOD luck, truly, for those who like good apples! For Washington Jonathans, the first real apples of fall, are festive. Tender, crisp, almost bursting with fragrant juice, they're as necessary as Jack O'Lanterns to a Hallowe'en party.

Their scarlet globes bob tantalizingly in tubs of water, or dangle from string—a touch of gay carmine among cornstalks and elves. And the zestful flavor of them sends holiday spirits soaring.

Washington boxed Jonathans are from the famous orchards of Washington State—the selected best, grown, picked, washed, packed and handled with the utmost care—they lend a touch of color to any occasion.

BRAISED ROUND STEAK IS A SAVORY ONE-DISH MEAL

A two-pound round steak in one piece will be needed for this.

Place the meat on a flat surface, such as a table top, and pound three tablespoons flour into each side of it. Do this with a wooden spoon or with a rolling pin. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Melt one-quarter cup fat in a heavy frying pan and when hot brown the steak in it. Reduce the heat as soon as the meat is brown, and add one-half cup sliced onions, one cup diced carrots, one-half cup diced white turnips, and one cup strained tomato juice. Cover the pan and bake in a slow oven for one and a half hours, or until the meat is very tender.

Three-quarters of an hour before removing from the oven, add two cups potato balls or four potatoes cut in quarters, and sprinkle one teaspoon salt over the vegetables.

Place the meat and vegetables on a hot platter for serving, thicken the gravy slightly and pour over the meat.

When Making Sandwiches.

When planning an afternoon tea with fancy sandwiches or for any occasion, you will find that if the crust is cut from the whole loaf and the loaf then wrapped in a damp napkin or tea towel, and let stand for an hour or longer, that the bread will be moist and pliable and will slice more evenly. Use a very sharp knife in cutting thin slices.

DAINTY SWEETS FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS

Every good cook likes to have a group of specially good desserts that she reserves for holidays or for those company occasions when particular dishes are in order.

Generally such desserts must be the kind that can be prepared ahead of time, because for some reason cold, or frozen desserts, usually seem to admit of more elaboration than hot ones. Strawberry shortcake, souffles and a few other exceptions prove this rule. Be that as it may, most housewives in these days like a dessert that can be made and put away early in the day.

Ambrosia—1930 Style.

Peel three large oranges, removing all the white rind. Cut across in thin slices and place a slice on each serving dish—the colored glass ones are attractive for this. Sprinkle shredded cocoanut in a thick layer over the orange, then add a layer of canned, crushed pineapple over the cocoanut. Next, a second slice of orange, more cocoanut and pineapple and then a third slice of orange and just a little cocoanut. Garnish with a mint cherry and surround with halved Tokay grapes that have been soaked in a little orange or pineapple juice. Chill thoroughly before serving.

Lemon Cream Torte.

This has a very professional appearance, though it is simple to make. Beat four egg yolks until very light, add four tablespoons fine granulated sugar and beat to a thick, smooth cream. Sift four tablespoons flour with one-half teaspoon baking powder and a few grains salt and stir into the egg mixture. Beat four egg whites until stiff and fold into the batter. Pour into a medium sized ring mold and make in a moderate oven for 30 to 40 minutes, or until firm and delicately browned. The time depends on the depth of the pan.

While the cake is baking, mix one cut sugar in a saucepan with one tablespoon cornstarch, the grated rind of a lemon and one tablespoon butter. Stir in one cup boiling water and cook until clear and boiling. Remove from the fire and stir in three tablespoons lemon juice.

When the cake is done, invert the pan and gently loosen the cake. Cool and place on a large serving dish. With a sharp knife cut slits about two inches apart in the cake and pour the lemon sauce by spoonfuls over the cake, letting it soak in well. Chill, fill the center with cream whipped stiff and sweetened. Garnish with Maraschino cherries cut in pieces and sprinkled over the torte.

Chestnut Souffle.

This is a hot dessert that must be served as soon as it is cooked. Plan the dinner accordingly—generally the souffle can be put in to to bake when dinner is served and will be ready in time.

Boil one pound large chestnuts for 15 minutes, cool shell and chop very fine. There should be three-fourths cupful chopped nuts. Melt four tablespoons butter, stir in six tablespoons flour and when well blended stir in one and one-fourth cups milk.

Stir constantly over a slow fire until very thick and perfectly smooth. Remove from the fire and stir gradually into the beaten yolks of three eggs. Next add one tablespoon lemon juice, one teaspoon vanilla extract and the chestnuts. Mix well, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into six buttered individual baking dishes or into one large shallow one. Bake in a moderate oven for 25 to 30 minutes, or until well puffed, delicately browned and firm to the touch.

If the souffle has to stand before serving turn out the oven heat, but do not open the door, leave the souffle in the oven until it can be served. Serve plain or with a creamy sauce.

SAILBOAT BANANA SALAD

Attractive Way of Utilizing This Popular Fruit.

Select ripe, perfect bananas. Wash and dry. Cut a little "trench" in the unpeeled banana from one end to the other, scooping out the banana in this "trench."

Dice the portion scooped out, add it to one cup of diced oranges, one cup diced apples, one-half cup maraschino cherries and one-half cup diced pears.

Add mayonnaise made of fruit juices, egg yolk and sugar, mustard and olive oil.

Fill the cut portion of the banana, top with more mayonnaise and garnish with red and green cherries.

Arrange on the lettuce to resemble a sail boat on water, cut a sail from white letter paper, using a colored opera stick candy for the mast. Place in position in the sail boat and serve.

Bacon and Liver.

Cleanse and parboil sliced liver. Cut in strips the size of slices of bacon. Lay a slice of liver on a slice of bacon and roll them together, pinning the roll in place with a wooden toothpick. Have ready some bacon fat, hot, in a fry pan. Set the rolls on edge and brown quickly all over. Cover and put in the oven till well done. Serve with hashed, browned potatoes.

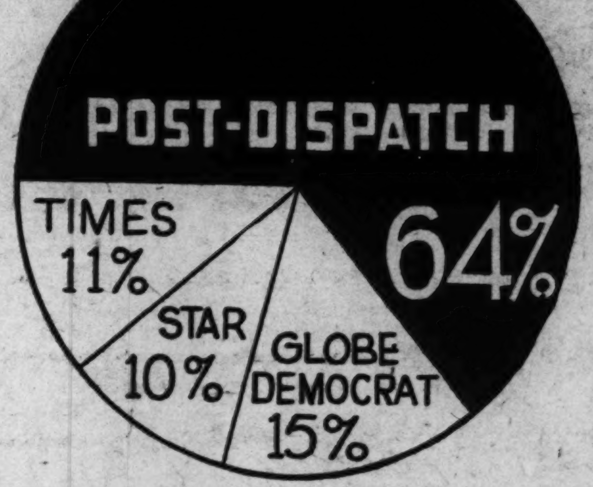
They Concentrated Their Advertising in the Post-Dispatch ...To Rent Rooms



As is shown by the chart, 64% of all the Classified Room and Board advertisements printed in the St. Louis newspapers during the first eighth months of 1930, appeared in the Post Dispatch—the Post-Dispatch total being 64,089, which was 27,705 more than appeared in all the other St. Louis newspapers combined.

Persons having rooms to rent indicate most positively which St. Louis newspaper brings them profitable returns by the way they place their room for rent advertising.

What St. Louis room renters are doing, week after week, month after month and year after year is evidence which should require no further comment to convince those who may not be experienced in renting rooms.

The Post-Dispatch has been the classified room renting medium in St. Louis for more than a quarter of a century, and year after year has printed a larger number of "want ads" than all of the other St. Louis newspapers combined!

Concentration of advertising in the Post-Dispatch is profitable to all classified advertisers and experienced room renters follow this concentration policy.

POLICE TO SEEK DRY LAW WARRANTS

Report Open Violation of Law Following Raids on 15 Places.

In 18 raids last night police liquor squads arrested 45 men who were booked for suspected violations of the State bone-dry law. Police said they would apply for warrants against the men who were in charge of 15 of the places raided, where they reported open violations of the law.

Gambling squads made three raids, arresting 31 Negroes in two places where policy games were said to be in progress, and the proprietor of a shoe shining stand at 805 North Grand avenue, who is charged with accepting a bet on a horse race made by a probationary policeman. He was booked as Harry Cash, 3514 Bell avenue.

The policeman said he bet $1 on Modern Maiden, giving his money to William Perkins, Negro bootblack, and receiving $4.65 when the horse won. He played $2 back on Chicago, he said, and received a memorandum of the bet from Cash, who was then arrested. A warrant, charging him with acting as custodian of a bet, will be sought.

Clarence Bach, in his apartment at 5883 Enright avenue; John Scanlon, fruit store, 1001 Wash street; William Pendergast, saloon, 4057 Olive street; David Keane, confectionery, 1414 South Compton avenue; William Frein, saloon, 1210 Tamm avenue; Jasper Altadonna, confectionery, 2117 North Broadway; Edward Gunn, Negro, and 17 others, saloon, 616 North Cardinal avenue; William Lamar, Negro, and nine others, in a second raid on the same place; Norman Barry, restaurant, 3313 Watson road; Henry Parker and Cleo Smith, Negroes, 4266 (rear) Enright avenue; Junius Poston, Negro, tobacco shop, 2905B Laclede avenue; Robert White, Negro, saloon, 218 North Cardinal avenue; John Gay, saloon, 2900 Washington boulevard; Peter Buiando, confectionery, 1610 Biddle street; Ben Crockett, saloon, 445 North Sarah street; William B. Ferrell, 4309 Maryland avenue, and Sam Moore, Negro, 1406 Papin street. Warrants will be sought in all except the last three cases, police said.

Altadonna's 16-year-old son, Anthony, was arrested, when police reported finding him carrying three half pints of whisky to a rear room of the saloon. He later was released.

A man who said he was John Rutledge, 3050 Cass avenue, arrested for driving without a city automobile license, was held for Federal authorities when police reported finding a five-gallon jug of whisky in his automobile.

I. C. C. DELAYS UNIFICATION PLAN OF MISSOURI PACIFIC

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A temporary stay of proceedings by which the Missouri Pacific Railroad proposes to unify a number of its subsidiary corporations was allowed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission in view of protests by competing railroads and some Texas communities.

The Missouri Pacific has authority from the commission to proceed with the consolidation of its score or more of subsidiaries, but the Kansas City Southern and the Burlington Railroads asked for a reconsideration, in order to safeguard themselves against loss of traffic routes, while the city of Palestine, Tex., made a similar request, fearing the closing of shops would result.

The commission did not fully grant the demands of the petitioners, but allowed the unification proposal to be opened only for oral argument, and not for the taking of new evidence.

In an unrelated petition filed today with the commission the Missouri Pacific asked for permission to purchase the Doniphan, Kensett & Searcy Railway, operating a short line in Arkansas.

TRUCK WRECKED ON JOY RIDE

Youth Arrested After Vehicle Crashes Into Side of House.

A joy ride in a three-ton truck ended quickly and spectacularly for a young man who drove it away from in front of the Northwestern Waste Paper Co., 1534 North Eighth street, at 9 o'clock last night.

Less than 10 minutes later the truck went out of control, jumped a curb an crashed into a house at 1207 South Sixth street, damaging both house and truck. The driver fled.

Later the police arrested a man who identified himself as Earl Roberts, 22, of 1630A Carr street. He is quoted by police as admitting he took the truck and fled when it was wrecked.

MRS. MILLER OFF TO WICHITA

Aviatrix Leaves Albuquerque After Two-Day Delay.

By the Associated Press.

She had been delayed for two days by adverse weather and repairs to the propeller of her plane, which was damaged in a landing Sunday at Winslow, Ariz.

ELECTRIC RATE HEARING CONTINUED TO NOV. 17

Adjournment to Permit St. Louis and Company Time to Study Audit.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—The Missouri Public Service Commission's investigation to determine whether electric rates of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis should be reduced, was adjourned yesterday afternoon until Nov. 17, to enable the City of St. Louis and the company to make a further study of the commission's audit and to assemble evidence to be offered in later hearings.

The adjournment, at the close of the second day of the hearing, was agreed upon after Harold W. Ross, chief accountant of the commission, virtually had completed his direct testimony concerning the methods and details of the commission's audit of the company. He will complete his direct testimony at the next hearing. Cross-examination of Ross has been reserved by counsel for the city and company until that time.

So far the introduction of evidence has been limited to Ross' explanation of the accounting methods and details of the report, which was made public Sept. 12 last, after nearly two years of work by the commission's accounting staff. It covered property accounts of the company for the 13½ years from Dec. 31, 1915, to June 30, 1929; earnings for one year ending June 30, 1929; accumulations in the company's depreciation reserve, and other operating information.

The company has filed a lengthy supplemental answer, as has been told, urging dismissal of the case, denying a rate reduction was justified, questioning some of the findings of the commission accountants and outlining the company's estimates of its valuation, varying from $83,529,000 on an original cost basis, to not less than $90,000,000 on the basis of reproduction new, less depreciation. Evidence on these points will be offered by the company in later hearings. The commission overruled the motion to dismiss the case.

The commission accountants, as has been told, reported the value of the property to be $57,111,696 on the investment cost basis, including all valuation allowances customarily made, except going value.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN DEATH OF BABY FROM GAS POISONING

Chemical Report Indicates He Succumbed as Result of Fumigation of Flat.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death Saturday of Joseph, 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Babillon, 3832 Blair avenue, the day after their flat had been fumigated.

A report of a chemical analysis of his viscera, received yesterday at the Coroner's office, indicated death was dueto sulphur dioxide poisoning from fumigating gas. Leo Fleming, an agent for the St. Louis Exterminating Co., testified today that the flat was fumigated in the absence of the family, which did not enter it until five hours after the fumigation had been completed. As soon as the fumigation process was over, he said, the windows were opened.

The child, who was taken to the flat at 9 p. m., became ill about three hours later. His parents did not suffer any ill effects.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Jewelry valued at $5000 which his wife had placed in one of his shoes for safekeeping, was returned yesterday to Michael A. Cunen by Isidor Waltzer, proprietor of a shoe repairing company on Park Row. Cunen rewarded the finder, Thomas Carroll, manager of Waltzer's shop, with $20.

Cunen brought the shoes to the shop yesterday morning. Later Carroll found a chamois packet on the floor. Besides $11 in cash it contained a wrist watch with diamond setting, a four-carat solitaire ring, a dinner ring, a bracelet with stone setting, and a gold wedding band.

$50,000 FOR MISSOURI U.

Amount Released by Gov. Caulfield for Improvements.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 24.—Gov. Caulfield today announced the release of $50,000 of the appropriations made by the 1926 Legislature for the University of Missouri. The release is the last of the funds held up by the Governor for the university.

The 1929 Legislature appropriated $2,980,890 for the university, of which $459,000 was held up by the Governor when he signed the measure. The releases today included $40,000 for the new home economics building and $10,000 for completion of the fourth floor of Jesse Hall, the university administration building.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE LOWER ON LOCAL BOARD

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 24.—Wheat futures closed ⅞ to 1¼c lower today after an irregular course during which wheat prices were fractionally net higher at one time. Corn closed 1 to ¼c off.

Liverpool was lower, one cable coming ⅞ to 1¼d off. Winnipeg was down early. Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅝d net lower.

December wheat opened at 80½, May wheat 85, December corn 80 and May corn 84¼.

Local wheat receipts, which were 67,200 bushels compared with 40,600 bushels a week ago and 78,400 a year ago, included 28 cars local and 20 through. Corn receipts, which were 49,000 bushels compared with 74,200 a week ago and 98,000 a year ago, included 22 cars local and 13 through. Oats receipts, which were 11,000 bushels, compared with 15,400 a week ago and 22,000 a year ago, included 4 cars local and 1 through. Hay receipts were 10 cars local and 33 through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Wheat—No. 2 red winter wheat, 90½c; No. 2 red garlicky wheat, 89c; No. 1 hard wheat, 81½c to 83c; No. 2 hard wheat, 82c; No. 4 hard wheat, 78½c; sample grade hard wheat, 75½c; No. 1 mixed wheat, 82½c to 87c.

Corn—No. 3 mixed corn, 77c to 80½c; No. 2 yellow corn, new, 83c to 85c; No. 3 yellow corn, new, 78c to 80½c; No. 4 yellow corn, new, 76c to 76½c; No. 5 yellow corn, new, 74c; old, 82c.

WHEAT PRICE IRREGULAR ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Good progress reported as being made by domestic winter wheat crops, especially in Kansas, tended to ease down the wehat market today toward the last. Advice regarding Nebraska and some other states told of decreased acreage of winter wheat, but crop authorities here said it was still too early to determine the total area seeded. Under such circumstances, price gains which at times were scored in the wheat market were more than wiped out.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅜c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅜@1¼c down, oats ⅛@¼c off and provisions ranging from 2 cents setback to an equal gain.

Upturns in security quotations, however tended to check grain market declines, and so likewise did prediction of increased European demand for wheat as the season advances. Opening ⅛@⅝c off, Chicago wheat future deliveries held near afterward to the initial range. Corn also started ⅛@⅜c lower, and paralleled the action of wheat.

Rallies in wheat prices at times today lifted the Chicago market to above yesterday's finish, influenced somewhat by Canadian comment that quantities of wheat in Alberta and Saskatchewan Provinces remained unthreshed. Meanwhile, too, wheat prices continued to show increasing responsiveness to stock market upturns, and to assertion that commodities, including grain, were on a bargain counter basis. Besides, talk was current that estimates of European wheat import needs appeared likely to be increased.

On the other hand, overnight export demand for wheat from North America was described as very limited. Moreover, Argentine official wheat acreage figures showed that the planted area in Argentina was 21,307,000 acres, compared with a previous estimate of 20,130,000 acres. An opposite factor, though, was the primary receipts of wheat today in the United States amounted to but 670,000 bu, against 1,278,000 bu a year ago. Corn and oats followed wheat.

Wall Street News and Comment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Engineering construction proposals announced in the United States during the past week showed gains for schools, hospitals and unclassified projects, but total volume declined from the previous week's level and the same week last year, construction daily reports. All classes except highways aggregated $46,184,000, compared with $60,035,000 in the previous week and $68,751,000 in the corresponding week last year.

D. P. Carey, executive vice president and a director of the Belding Hemingway Co., has been elected president, succeeding H. Morton Merriam, who will continue as chairman of the board.

MONTGOMERY WARD OMITS DIVIDEND

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Directors of Montgomery Ward & Co. today omitted the quarterly dividend of 75 cents due on the common stock at this time.

A statement by the company said the directors decided that it was in the best interest to stockholders to discontinue payment of the dividend on the common stock, and that while the company "is in a strong financial position, with a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of 12 to 1," directors considered it prudent to conserve the company's resources so that ample funds will be available for the future development of the business.

George B. Everett, president, said that while heretofore it has been the policy to issue only annual statements, the directors have decided to issue quarterly statements of earnings in the future.

Loss on operations for the first nine months this year was $2,848,000. Mr. Everett said that, as with most merchandising business, the fourth quarter always has been the company's best, and "it appears that profits for the remainder of the year will be more than sufficient to wipe out the loss to Sept. 30." He added that during the past few days seasonal weather has improved sales and October will make a more favorable showing than August and September.

The directors authorized the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the Class "A" stock, payable Jan. 1 to stock of record Dec. 20.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Total sales amounted to $10,983,000, compared with $10,474,000 yesterday; $11,149,000 a week ago, and $16,811,444 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,289,265,000, compared with $2,443,444,000 last year and $2,490,642,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted:

ALL BUT ONE PRODUCER OFFER COPPER AT 9 1-2C

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—All but one producer and all of the custom smelters today were offering copper in the domestic market at nine and one-half cents a pound, delivered, to the end of February.

The new domestic level marked a reduction of one-half a cent a pound for the producers and brought them to the level at which some custom smelters have been offering the metal for the past few days. The price is the lowest for the metal in more than 30 years, and compared with an 18-cent price a year ago.

The National Electric Products Corporation has reduced the price on copper wire products one-half a cent a pound and weatherproof wire products three-eighths of a cent a pound.

Conversations looking toward the curtailment of production in Africa to coincide with the action taken by domestic producers was reported in the industry to be in prospect. M. Pisart, managing director of the Societe Generale des Minerales, which markets much of the copper produced in the Belgian Congo in Europe, is expected to make an early visit to the United States.

It was reported that the subject would be discussed with him and representatives of British companies with a view to obtaining their co-operation in reducing the world copper stocks.

BUSINESS NOTES

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A slight increase in residential construction and some improvement in the volume of department store sales are the favorable signs that developed in September, says the conference of statisticians in industry under the auspices of the National Industrial Conference Board. The board said that there were no positive indications of a general upturn in business; that the first half of October gives little evidence that the convalescent stage in the business cycle is at hand.

LATIN AMERICAN BONDS SHOW PRICE RECOVERY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The upsurge of Latin American bonds under the leadership of Brazilian issues, and the rebound of Van Sweringen rail obligations stood out in the irregular movement of bonds today.

Advices from Rio de Janeiro that the revolution had resulted in the fall of the Government brought an advance of 1 to 4 points in Brazilian Government, state and municipal issues. The sharp rise influenced advances in many other bonds, in the Latin American group.

While the preponderance of changes in the domestic section remained on the downside, the principal feature was the strong reversal of trend of the bonds of Alleghany Corporation, Chesapeake Corporation and Missouri Pacific railroads which are associated with the Van Sweringen interests of Cleveland. Gains in the convertible issues of the holding companies were almost as sharp as the declines in yesterday's session. Alleghany 5s of 1950 advanced 8 points and Chesapeake Corporation 5s rose 2; Missouri Pacific 5s, registered a similar gain. Some other mortgage bonds of the group failed to share in the improvement and were heavy, notably Erie and Nickel Plate.

COFFEE FUTURES BREAK IN BRAZIL'S HEAD RESIGNATION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Coffee futures broke about a cent a pound on the New York market today on receipt of news of the resignation of President Washington Luis of Brazil and the apparent success of the revolutionary movement.

There was quite heavy liquidation, which apparently was based on fears that the change in the political situation might bring about an alteration in the policy of the Government relative to the control of coffee.

In the No. 7 contract, the December position sold down to 6.80 cents a pound, compared with the previous close of 7.89c, while for Santos coffees, December sold at 10.80 cents, compared with 12.02 cents at the close yesterday.

CLOSE IS STRONG ON CURB MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The curb closed strong today, with net gains of 1 to 4 points in a long list of stocks, particularly oils and utilities. A steady upturn from the opening quickened into a broader buying movement in the late trading when considerable and hasty short covering accelerated the rise.

Electric Bond & Share was up 2⅛, American Gas and Electric 4⅜, United Light "A" 2¼, Brazilian Traction 2, American and Foreign Power Warrants 2¾, Vacuum Oil 3⅜, and Lone Star Gas 3. Several industrial specialties rose as much as 4 points.

Stocks gaining a point or more included Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, General Theater Equipment, Dresser Manufacturing "B," American Cynamid "B," Deere, Northern States Power "A," and Hydro-Electric Securities. Royal Typewriter, A. O. Smith and Aluminum Company of America improved in the neighborhood of 4 points.

On Oct. 24, 1929, stocks, which had been weakening for several days, tumbled precipitately and the day's turnover totaled 6,337,415 shares, a new high record.

Today, with prices generally lower than at theb ottom of last fall's decline, small progress was made throughout the list, which has been battered by almost constant liquidation since before the middle of September.

ACQUIRES VOTING CONTROL OF UNITED LIGHT & POWER

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24—Officials of Continental Shares, Inc., today announced acquisition of additional stock in the $560,000,000 United Light & Power Co., to give Continental about 40 per cent of the stock and voting control of the power company.

Continental Shares is one of the Cyrus S. Eaton holding companies. It recently applied to the New York Stock Exchange for permission to list 990,000 additional shares of its common stock. Continental Shares also has large steel, rubber and paint interests.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—An opening advance which carried the price of new December cotton up to 11.01c in the market here today on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement, was followed by rather irregular fluctuations.

There seemed to be a little more southern selling at the higher prices which also attracted some week-end realizing and probably local selling for a reaction. Trade buying continued in sufficient volume to give the market a generally steady tone, however, and the market was about steady during the middle of the afternoon with the active months ruling some 7 to 9 points net higher.

Futures closed steady, 9 to 10 points higher; Dec., 10.95@98c; Jan., 11.07c. New contracts: Dec., 10.94@96c; Jan., 11.07@09c; March, 11.29c; May, 11.51@52c; July, 11.70@71c. Spot steady; middling, 11c.

Cotton opened firm today, at an advance of 11 to 19 points, in response to relatively steady cables and reports of further cold rains in the South.

There was further trade buying, as well as covering and a scattering commission-house demand, but the advance seemed to be meeting rather increased offerings around the 11c level for Decembr and 11.59c for May contracts. This supplied the early buyers and caused reactions of several points, with new December ruling around 10.92c and May 10.48c, before the session had advanced far, or about 6 to 12 points net higher on the active months.

Liverpool cable said the market there had advanced on continental and Bombay buying, covering and trade calling, and reported a fair business in cotton cloths and yarns pending.

The Southern selling and realizing attracted by the opening advance was absorbed on reactions of 8 or 10 points and the market steadied up again later in the morning on continued covering or trade buying. This may have been promoted by the reports of cold rains in the South with killing frosts in Arkansas and prospects for frost again tonight in the northern part of the central belt.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The unsettled state of the futures market checked business in the raw sugar market early today and as no sales were reported prices were nominally unchanged at 3.45c for spots duty paid.

Raw futures opened unchanged to two points lower and later showed net losses of five to seven points under liquidation and active selling by a certain interest. This selling was inspired by conflicting reports from Cuba relative to the action of the Cuban House of Representatives in passing the necessary laws for the legalizing of the plans of the Chadbourne Committee. One report said that at yesterday's meeting it was impossible to obtain a quorum and that it was not expected a quorum would be available before the middle of next month. Other reports said that there was some opposition to the plan. With such uncertainty in view the market was rather nervous during the forenoon session and after the early declines there was a rally of several points on covering and trade buying with midday prices four to five points net lower.

The buying, however, was generally attributed to a continuation of the demand noted earlier in the week. At midday December was selling around 11c and May 11.55c, or about 10 to 13 points net higher.

In refined it was announced by most of the refiners that their price would be advanced to 4.75c at the close today, against the prevailing level of 4.65c. The announcement led to a little more new buying and it was believed that the trade had taken on enough sugar to take care of their requirements for the next 30 days.

Sugar futures closed barely steady; approximated sales 84,500 bags. Dec. 1.42c, Jan. 1.45c, March 1.53c, May 1.59c, July 1.66c, Sept. 1.72c.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Third quarter and nine months earnings statements continue to provide the major portion of current corporation news. Aggregate net income of the first 74 industrial companies which have reported results for the first nine months of 1930 shows a decline of 25 per cent compared with the 1929 period. However, as early reports are generally issued by those concerns showing relatively the most favorable results, it is expected this decline will be amplified somewhat with the addition of later statements. For the 210 industrial corporations for which final comparable dates are available for the first half of 1930, the decline in aggregate profits was 31 per cent.

Further announcements of price reductions in the copper and oil industry were made today. Copper producers, excepting one, following the lead of the smelters, have cut their price to 9.50 cents a pound. This latest decline is believed to be due to the failure of producers to bring output more in line with present consumption. Foreign price has not yet been cut but it is expected it will be shortly, to 9.80 cents c. i. f. base ports. The principal factor in the weakening of the crude oil price structure has been the pronounced softness of prices for refined products. Gasoline quotations in some sections of the country are now at their lowest level in many years, while crude prices have remained practically unchanged since April. This preservation of crude prices has placed a burden on the refiners and it is believed by many that price cutting was inevitable.

The Industries.

Agriculture—Department of Agriculture estimate 1930 fruit production will be about one-fifth greater in volume than the short crop of 1929. Abundance of citrus fruits, prunes, plums and apricots accounts for part of increase.

Glass—Output for third quarter was 21,828,704 square feet and for nine months 85,196,079 square feet, according to plate glass manufacturers.

Oil — American Refining has again cut price for crude oil in Southern Oklahoma and Northern Texas; new schedule for Oklahoma ranges from 50 cents to 89 cents a barrel. Artesia and Jackson crudes in Eddy County, N. M., were cut 30 cents a barrel to 75 cents flat.

Sugar—Principal refiners advance price refined sugar to 4.75 cents a pound.

THE WAY OF A WOMAN

By Marguerite M. Marshall

BUSINESS WOMAN SELLS THE WORLD.

ALL women, especially those in business or the professions, have had a new reason to be proud since the election in Geneva of one of their number, Lena Madesin Phillips, as the first president of the new International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Miss Phillips is well known as an attorney in the East, and as the organizer and honorary president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the membership of which includes some 50,000 of the most successful women in the country. Incidentally, two more American business women have been made officers of the new International Federation. Miss Dorothy Heneker of Montreal is its secretary and Miss Henrietta Harris of Springfield, Mass., is treasurer.

The first practical move of the federation will be the establishment of clearing houses of information and introduction in each member country. Thus business women from almost any part of the world can find out about business conditions and opportunities in other lands, or, visiting them, can obtain helpful business and social introductions. Other forms of international co-operation between the women will be worked out later.

But what interests us most about this practical and inspiring demonstration of internationalism is that it seems to be a case of the American business woman selling the world. As Helen Havener, the brilliant young editor of the Independent Woman, magazine of business and professional women, put it to us:

"The American business woman has captured a new feather to add to her already fairly abundant plumage."

HERE'S how it all happened, according to Miss Havener, who herself attended the Geneva conference, where the new International Federation of Women was born with a smoothness and swiftness of accouchement astonishing to those familiar with the rather cumbersome, long-drawn out methods by which both men's and women's international organizations have come into being in the past.

"A scant two years ago," Miss Havener recalled, "the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in our own country first began to make overtures of friendship to European women during summer tours of good will abroad. Now here is the new International Federation, an existent fact. Why is it that American business women have brought about so quickly what many groups struggle for years to attain?

"The answer seems to be that the methods of our women have mastered in the business world they put into practice in their organization life. In their relationship with other women, courtesy replaces elaborate formality. Friendly democracy is substituted for red tape and ritual.

"A group of one hundred and six American women went to Geneva to meet foreign women of many countries, without a specifically formulated program. In fact, such program as there was had to be shaped up at a meeting attended by representatives of each country on the eve of the conference, and everybody had a share in its making. Although the Americans outnumbered the individual delegations from other countries by four or five to one, they contented themselves with the same number of votes. When debate was in progress they carefully refrained from monopolizing the floor. And so they inspired a spirit of real confidence in European women.

"CONVENTIONS where there is animation without acrimony are the exception, but the Geneva conference was like that. And when the three days' session closed there existed a bona fide international organization of business and professional women, in which many nations were enrolled, and to which no less than 20 nations have pledged their interested support. Best of all, there was at the head of it an American woman—Lena Madesin Phillips of New York—whose impartiality in presiding, whose spirit of fair play had so won the respect of the foreign women that they elected her by acclamation without a dissenting vote.

"As a successful experiment in democracy the Geneva conference is unique. As a demonstration to the world of how differing national viewpoints may be reconciled, and seemingly opposing factions welded into a unit, it is again almost without parallel. And so I say again that it is a real feather in the cap of the American business woman."

Freckles

TO tan but not to freckle is the ambition and the perplexing problem of many. Unfortunately, however, it is exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to separate the one from the other.

Freckles are small spots of pigment in the upper layers of the skin. Freckles "run" in families. Those with light skin and red hair appear more susceptible than those of darker shades, but there are exceptions.

In those who are susceptible, freckles will develop on even slight exposure to the sun. And yet these same persons cannot tan except on exposure to natural or artificial sun rays.

While the sun will quickly bring out freckles, there appear to be other forces that can cause spotted pigmentation of the skin. This is to be seen in freckles on parts of the body that are ordinarily but little exposed to sunlight.

Those embarrassed by freckles can avoid them, to a degree at least, by protecting themselves against the ultra-violet rays of the sun. A coat of simple, unmedicated cold cream may serve this end.

The applications sold for the removal of freckles usually accomplish their purpose (when they do) by destroying upper layers of the skin, down to the pigment level.

Repairing the Linoleum

A HOUSEWIFE dropped a stove-lid on the floor and when she lifted it she discovered to her dismay that the imprint of the entire lid was scorched into the linoleum.

The man of the house came to her rescue. He neatly cut out a square around the scorched portion, then matched this accurately with a piece of the linoleum under the kitchen cabinet and cut this out carefully. Of course it matched perfectly in design when fitted into the cut-out space. So the damage was effectually repaired and the scorched piece did not show under the cabinet.

The same method might be employed with worn-out sections of linoleum. There may be no cabinet but, perhaps, there is a place covered by a rug where a substitute piece may be secured and the rug will conceal the set-in piece that is worn.

"Sitting Pretty"

She was a full-faced, jovial mother who had come with her two daughters. As she sat down in one of those big over-stuffed chairs, the younger girl delightedly exclaimed, "Oh mother, you are sitting pretty." She was. She ordered the suite—and she saved a twenty-dollar bill, as many others do who buy their living-room suites here.

SUITS STEP OUT IN STIFF SATINS

By ANN ROBERTS

VELVET suits this season are going to be so tempting. I seem to have a feeling that they will be worn on all the wrong occasions. This won't hurt the velvet suits though it may make monkeys out of some of the world's would-be best dressers.

The velvet suit is something entirely new in fashion, and when you see how really gorgeous they are you will realize that a new dress thrill has opened itself before you.

In the first place they are made from Lyons velvet—a stiffer form of the fabric than these chiffon and transparent velvets that we have been used to wearing for so long.

In the second place they are toilored as classically as any suit of man's material. That is, they have revers and finishes and buttons and belts in this same quite tailored manner.

Now the combination of the recognized dressy material and the accepted daywear style of making creates a costume which no other word but ravishing will describe. The softness and grace which the velvet just naturally contributes to the occasion is most alluring when done in this tailored manner.

You can see at once that the places to wear them are afternoon teas, bridge parties, formal lunches and the like—never about the performance of the daily tasks. In a velvet suit you are dressed and no one is going to miss the fact—not like those old days when a sweater and sport suit could grace a tea with all the sanction of fashion in its favor.

* * *

CHANEL has offered two of these velvet suits. One has the Napoleon cape. Another is one of the simplest of tailored models. It buttons in a casual fashion, is pinched in at the waist and has that blousy look necessary for smartness this season.

A white lingerie blouse is worn with it and this shows just a trifle of its crispnes in front, while a real Napoleon tricorne is designed to go with the suit, and this, be it noticed, is not pushed back on the head as are the majority of the hats this season, but it retains its period character and helps to keep the ensemble purely of Napoleonic character.

An extremely youthful type of velvet suit by this same designer has a broad collar that extends out over the shoulders. This is stitched in scalloped pattern or what might be termed a shell design. Then it has high cuffs finished in this same manner and it, too, has a white blouse of silk pique with its edge showing in front stitched also in that same shell design.

With this a velvet beret back on the head has a marcasite clip on the side, and for any of these velvet suits the simplest of suede pumps are the only right shoes to wear, and white gloves of suede rolling over the wrists give that certain smartness of finish.

* * *

MOST of these velvet suits are black—that fact would be presupposed. But they are also done in other deep colorings and there is one model in vivid dark blue that is particularly fascinating. Its still tailor-made revers are covered with ermine and this fur runs down the front of the jacket showing a little bit of a furry edge all down the front along the line of closing.

There is an eyelet embroidered blouse of batiste. A turn back hat to wear with it made of blue velvet with little ermine tails for trimming.

Another fur trimmed velvet suit has astrakhan on collar and cuffs. It is cut interestingly so that it slips over the head and then it has a little belt that holds tightly about the waist and the short peplum flares out a bit over the hips.

Of course an off-the-face hat is worn with this suit because it is the really popular one and certainly it is the most youthful looking to correspond with the very young lines of this charming little velvet suit.

Desert Maidens Still Are Thrilled By 'Love Courts'

COURTS of Love, such as the troubadours celebrated in the middle ages, still are held in the mysterious Hoggar, high plateau in the heart of the Sahara desert.

Strangely, this relic of long-ago customs, is practiced by the Touaregs, a people who accord their women more rights, perhaps, than in any spot in the world.

Woman dominates. She marries whom she pleases. She controls her property. She may live apart from her husband without being called upon for a reason. Her children take her name, not that of the father.

The woman, moreover, although Mussulman, goes unveiled while the tall fierce looking warlike Touareg men keep their faces covered, from the eyes down, awake and asleep, even while they eat. They are called the "veiled men of the desert."

So, the "Court of Love" also is woman's affair. They are held at all seasons, everywhere. Young women, married and unmarried, assemble in a tent, the usual home of the Touaregs. Young men often come from a great distance to pay court to some girl of great beauty, wealth or rank.

The highest reward that can be given a man is permission to kiss a certain girl.

As the man may not remove his veil, he merely lowers it below his nose. The man and the woman then rub noses as the woman kisses the man through his veil.

The courts open after sundown and often last into the early morning.

AUTUMN COATS COME DISGUISED

By DIANA MERWIN

IT'S a smart woman who knows a coat when she sees one this autumn.

Outer garments have gone clear off the straight and narrow pathways of other seasons and are doing things on their own.

One way of dissembling is the use of tiers which simulate a three-quarter length suit jacket and skirt.

Another way is peplum like pieces set on at the hips, leading the unwary to believe the coat is a suit.

A third way, and a way Paris loves more and more as the season develops, is the combination of fur and cloth in entirely new effects.

Some coats have fur tops simulating short fur jackets on cloth skirts. Cloth and fur form one garment, however, and it is a coat.

Cloth coats with big collars and sleeves made entirely of fur except for a brief cloth cap, are in high favor.

Cloth and fur coats are worked up in black wool velour and broadtail or caracul, in green and black, in all brown, and in green and gray or black and gray.

Little fur berets or off the face turbans are being worn with such coats. And if you want one you can carry a muff with the enthusiastic approval of Paris' all-highest stylemakers.

Soft plaids that are exact duplications of clan tartans will make sport suits for many an American woman of Scotch sympathies this fall, and with the enthusiastic approval of Paris.

Featured plaids are Douglas, Macleod, Macpherson and Ogilvie.

Paris suggests that they be made into trouser-skirts and short coats.

First Lady Wears Brown Crepe Suit

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER wore at a recent luncheon a brown crepe ensemble suit. The waist was trimmed with a lighter shade of lace and the hat was a wide-brimmed one of brown straw.

As hostess at an afternoon garden party at the White House the First Lady appeared in a flowered chiffon of rose color and black. She wore a black transparent picture hat trimmed with velvet.

Oil stains will come out of wash materials if rubbed with lard and allowed to stand over night. Then wash in cold water and soap. Dry in the sun.

Paris Picks Gem Colors for Fall

COLORS inspired by precious gems, and the hues that harmonize best with fine jewels are the ones slated by Paris designers for the big autumn fashion successes. Emerald green, chaudron—a bricky sort of color that goes well with topaz and amber—mauve brown and brownish purples seem to be the favorite hues used in advance showing of fall costumes.

Following the general trend toward the wearing of more real jewelry and less of the "costume" variety, jewelers are introducing to popularity a number of stones that have previously been unknown to fashion. Working hand in hand with the Paris dressmakers, they are evolving jewel fashions that are in step with these new fall colors.

There are, for example, new necklaces of green stones of semi-precious valuation, that are on the emerald cast—chains of green tourmaline, of obsidian, peridot and malachite. These odd names, formerly relegated to mineralogical displays, have already been included in the new fashion vocabulary in preparation for the autumn season.

THE SCARAB MURDER CASE

S. S. VAN DINE

CHAPTER XXIV.

"GOOD GOD!" Salveter muttered.

"And so," Vance continued, "I concluded that you had been dealin' in the well-known forms of these three words, and had mentioned them because, in their other approximate forms, their transliterative meanings are unknown. . . . And the words fitted perfectly with the situation. Indeed, Mr. Salveter, it wouldn't take a great deal of imagination to reconstruct your letter, being given the three verbal salients—to-wit, the living one, happiness or good fortune, and to be ended or finished."

Vance paused briefly, as if to arrange his words.

"You probably composed a communication in which you said that the 'living one' (ankh) was standing in the way of your 'happiness' or 'good fortune' (was), and expressed a desire for the situation 'to be ended' or 'finished' (tem) . . . I'm right, am I not?"

Salveter continued staring at Vance in a kind of admiring astonishment.

"I'm going to be truthful with you," he said at length. "That's exactly what I wrote. You see, Meryt-Amen, who knows the Middle Egyptian hieroglyphic language better than I'll ever know it, suggested long ago that I write to her at least once a week in the language of her ancestors, as a kind of exercise. I've been doing it for years; and she always corrects me and advises me—she's almost as well versed as any of the scribes who decorated the ancient tombs . . . This morning, when I returned to the museum, I realized that the Metropolitan did not open until 10 o'clock, and on some sudden impulse I sat down and began working on this letter."

"Most unfortunate," Vance sighed; "for your phraseology in that letter made it appear that you were contemplating taking drastic measures."

"I know it!" Salveter caught his breath. "That's why I lied to you. But the fact is, Mr. Vance, the letter was innocent enough. . . . I know it was foolish, but I didn't take it very seriously. Honest, sir, it was really a lesson in Egyptian composition—not an actual communication."

* * *

VANCE nodded noncommittally. "And where is this letter now?" he asked.

"In the drawer of the table in the museum. I hadn't finished it when Uncle Ben came in; and I put it away."

"And you had already made use of the three words, ankh and was and tem?"

"Yes! Those three familiar words were in it. And then, when you first asked me about what I'd been doing in the museum I made up the tale about the papyrus"—

"And mentioned three words which were suggested to you by the three words you had actually used—eh, what?"

"Yes, sir! That's the truth."

"We're most grateful for your sudden burst of honesty." Vance's tone was frigid. "Will you be so good as to bring me the uncompleted epistle? I'd dearly love to see it; and perhaps I can decipher it."

Salveter leapt to his feet and fairly ran out of the room. A few minutes later he returned, to all appearances dazed and crestfallen.

"It isn't there!" he announced. "It's gone!"

"Oh, is it, now? . . . Most unfortunate."

Vance lay back pensively for several moments. Then suddenly he sprang to his feet.

"It's not there! . . . It's gone!" he murmured. "I don't like this situation, Markham—I don't at all like it. . . . Why should the letter have disappeared? Why . . . why?"

He swung about to Salveter.

"What kind of paper did you write that indiscreet letter on?" he asked, with suppressed excitement.

"On a yellow scratch-pad—the kind that's generally kept on the table. . . ."

* * *

VANCE raised his hand in an impatient gesture.

"That's enough. . . . Go upstairs—go to your room . . . and stay there." . . . .

"But, Mr. Vance, I—I'm worried about that letter. Where do you think it is?"

"Why should I know where it is?—provided, of course, you ever wrote it. I'm no divining-rod." Vance was deeply troubled, though he sought to hide the fact. "Didn't you know better than to leave such a missive lying loosely about?"

"It never occurred to me"——

"Oh, didn't it? . . . I wonder." Vance looked at Salveter sharply. "This is no time to speculate. . . . Please go to your room. I'll speak to you again. . . . Don't ask any questions—do as I tell you!"

Salveter, without a word, turned and disappeared through the door. We could hear his heavy footsteps ascending the stairs.

Vance stood for a long time in uneasy silence. At length he lifted his eyes to Hennessey.

"I wish you'd run upstairs," he said, "and take a post where you can watch all the rooms. I don't want any communication between Mrs. Bliss and Salveter and Hani."

Hennessey glanced at Heath.

"Those are orders," the Sergeant informed him; and the detective went out with alacrity.

Vance turned to Markham.

"Maybe that priceless young ass actually wrote the silly letter," he commented; and a worried look came over his face. "I say; let's take a peep in the museum."

"See here, Vance"—Markham rose—"why should the possibility of Salveter's having written a foolish letter upset you?"

"I don't know—I'm not sure." Vance went to the door; then pivoted suddenly. "But I'm afraid—I'm deuced afraid! Such a letter would give the murderer a loophole—that is, if what I think is true. If the letter was written, we've got to find it. If we don't find it, there are several plausible explanations for its disappearance—and one of 'em is fiendish. . . . But come. We'll have to search the museum—on the chance that it was written, as Salveter says, and left in the table-drawer."

* * *

HE went swiftly across the hall and threw open the great steel door.

"If Doctor Bliss and Guilfoyle return while we're in the museum," he said to Snitkin, who stood leaning against the front door, "take them in the drawing room and keep them there."

We passed down the steps into the museum, and Vance went at once to the little desk-table beside the obelisk. He looked at the yellow pad and tested the color of the ink. Then he pulled open the drawer and turned out its contents. After a few minutes' inspection of the odds and ends, he restored the drawer to order and closed it. There was a small mahogany wastebasket beneath the table, and Vance emptied it on the floor. Going down on his knees he looked at each piece of crumpled paper. At length he rose and shook his head.

"I don't like this, Markham," he said. "I'd feel infinitely better if I could find that letter."

He strolled about the museum looking for places where a letter might have been thrown. But when he reached the iron spiral stairs at the rear he leaned his back against them and regarded Markham hopelessly.

"I'm becoming more and more frightened," he remarked in a low voice. "If this devilish plot should work! . . ." He turned suddenly and ran up the stairs, beckoning to us as he did so. "There's a chance—just a chance," he called over his shoulder. "I should have thought of it before."

* * *

WE followed him uncomprehendingly into Dr. Bliss' study.

"The letter should be in the study," he said, striving to control his eagerness. "That would be logical . . . and this case is unbelievably logical, Markham—so logical, so mathematical, that we may eventually be able to read it aright. It's too logical, in fact—that's its weakness . . ."

He was already on all fours delving into the spilled contents of Dr. Bliss' waste basket. After a moment's search he picked up two torn pieces of yellow paper. He glanced at them carefully, and we could see tiny markings on them in green ink. He placed them to one side, and continued his search. After several minutes he had amassed a small pile of yellow paper fragments.

"I think that's about all," he said, rising.

He sat down in the swivel chair and laid the torn bits of yellow paper on the blotter.

"This may take a little time, but since I know Egyptian hieroglyphs fairly well I ought to accomplish the task without too much difficulty, don't y' know."

Gish Sisters Buy Twin Paris Frocks

"YOU order it."

The dress which they liked so well that they both had one made like it is a sport model with chemisette front finished with a bow tie of the dress material.

The coat has a matching skirt and a blue cashmere jersey blouse of the same color as the stripe in the material.

Many Big Industrial Men and Political Leaders Have Married Their Stenographers, Young Raskob Being the Latest to Choose a Working Girl.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.

THERE is romance in big business and girls in search of eligible bachelors are turning to careers in the world of commerce as a means of meeting their Prince Charmings. The old rules, the social barriers, have been let down and it is not out of the ordinary these days for the big boss of some great industry to marry his secretary and establish her in the exclusive sets in Newport and Palm Beach. Not so many years ago eyebrows would have gone up and much whispering would have accompanied the courtship of a business leader who chose to woo his stenographer. But those days are gone.

Thomas H. Manville Jr., who inherited millions when his father, the asbestos king, died recently, is one of the outstanding examples of a business man who found happiness with a business girl as his wife. When young Manville was 17 years old he eloped with a chorus girl and was promptly disinherited by his father. It was nine years before he was free from that marriage. Then the elder Manville died and the son became one of the most eligible young men in the city. Mothers pursued him. Debutantes fawned over him. He was invited everywhere. But he was wary of the social butterflies. He had obtained a position in a New York bank and was slowly working his way to the top. He was seeing a new side of life. Cabarets and theaters held no interest for him. Finally he left the social set flat and married for the second time, his bride this time being Louise Arlene McCoin, a stenographer in the bank where he had become an officer.

ANOTHER outstanding example is John J. Raskob Jr., son of the noted financier who is Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Young Raskob was also rated as an excellent "catch" along Park Avenue and in the exclusive homes of his father's friends. But the matrimonially inclined society girls noticed that young John's interest in them was never aroused. He was too busy either going or coming from New Haven. Last month it all came out. Young Raskob was engaged to Miss Minerva Aaronson, a stenographer in a New Haven brokerage house. She met the financier's son when he attended Yale and their friendship ripened into love. Raskob with the pick of the East's society girls, would rather marry a young lady who has been making her own living for a number of years.

He gave her a five-carat diamond ring and they will be married next spring.

O. L. Bodenhamer, a successful financier and past National Commander of the American Legion, was recently married to Miss Irene Richardson of Eldorado, Ark. Miss Richardson met her husband when she became his stenographer four years ago. She worked for him constantly, in his private affairs and in conducting the business of the Legion. Then they eloped suddenly to a little Massachusetts town and were married.

Fiorello H. La Guardia, the fiery New York Congressman, recently married Miss Marie Fisher, who had been his secretary for more than 15 years. Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin also married the girl who had served him as secretary for a number of years.

Yes, there is still romance in big business and although modern high-pressure methods would seem to reduce Dan Cupid's chances, they actually are increasing.

Black and White Sports

MRS. EDWARD CAMPBELL SHIELDS of Washington is wearing a striking sports outfit of black crepe hand embroidered in white.

The shoes are of black and white. She carries a purse of black and white check. She wears a black fur, and a small black Aberdeen terrier named "Pal" accompanies her.

Invisible Darning.

Save all the threads pulled in straightening the edge of the new tablecloth and put them away in your embroidery cotton book. Then when the linen gets to the mending stage these threads can be used for darning with a far better result than when darning linen with a cotton thread.

Soiled Yarn.

Soiled yarn may be washed and used again if it is wound into a skein and tied in several places so the skein is held loosely. After washing, hang in the sun, and when dried it will be soft, clean and like new yarn.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner.

Wonder Six

"WE'RE going to the Sixth Wonder of the World," the Little Black Clock began, "and of course, for these Wonders, I am turning the time very far back."

The scene was changed, and John and Peggy saw a most beautiful looking building with tall pillars. On the top was a pyramid and steps led from it to a chariot of marble.

Inside the chariot were a man and a woman, made of marble, and the chariot was drawn by four horses each looking exactly alike, for, as the Little Black Clock explained the four horses were all made to look like the famous horse, Bucephalus, which had been ridden by Alexander the Great.

"It was built," said the Little Black Clock, as they gazed upon this Sixth Wonder of the world; "by a Queen of long ago whose name was Artemisia.

"The King, her husband, was called Mausolus, and when he died she wanted to put up a splendid and magnificent tomb in his honor.

"I had to turn the time back to let you see it, for it is no longer in existence."

"How queer it seems," said John, "to think that we're able to see things that no longer can be seen by people."

"That's because of my lucky magic, of course," said the Little Black Clock.

"Is the lady in marble supposed to be the Queen?" Peggy asked.

"Yes," the Little Black Clock answered, "and the gentleman in marble is supposed to be the King.

"The Queen wanted their statues to be put on top of the beautiful tomb or building, so that even in a statue she would be standing beside the King whom she loved so very dearly."

As they were turning away from this Wonder the Little Black Clock said, with a smile:

"And tomorrow night I'm going to turn the time ahead!"

Talks to PARENTS

By Alice Judson Beale

Backing The School

IT is seldom that home and school find themselves in perfect accord.

Group regulations necessary in a large school must often seem irksome and unreasonable to the parent of the individual child.

Teachers are not always as wise and skillful as the formulations in the school announcement lead one to expect.

Frequently situations arise when it must be fairly obvious to even a rather undiscerning parent that teacher's disciplinary tactics have little to do with education.

Quite evidently they are a response to her own need to show her authority or to personal irritations which have no place in the class room.

At such times it is hard for us to refrain from outspoken criticisms which make our children fully aware of our feelings.

The fact that school authorities and methods are being criticised at home naturally sends the children to school in a rebellious or superior state of mind which will make for all sorts of new causes of friction.

Such an attitude on the part of a child is sure to reflect itself in poor work and, what is probably much more important, lack of adjustment to what constitutes one of the realities of his world.

When your child's school seems to you to be making a good many mistakes do what you can to straighten things out in so far as they concern him.

Meanwhile let your child feel that whereas his school may not be always in the right it is up to him to do his share to adjust himself to it.

Ginger Drops.

One cup light brown sugar, two-thirds cup butter, one-half cup cold water, one egg, two-thirds cup molasses, one large tablespoon ginger, one large teaspoon soda, flour enough to make a thick batter. Drop by teaspoonsful on well-greased pans. Bake in a moderate oven. Tasty and healthy in the youngster's school lunch.

Can your set meet this tone test?
IS the tone of your set merely pleasant, or gloriously true? Does it enable you to distinguish between instruments of similar tone quality—to hear vocal music reproduced without distortion over the entire tonal range? For example: Do the kettledrums have a distinct pitch, or do they just sound like thuds? Does a man's voice give the impression his head is in a barrel? Can you distinguish the letter "S" in speech? In an orchestra, do you find several or only one violin playing the same part? Does the violin radiate brilliancy, or does it always sound muted?
Investigate the lifelike tone of the new Grebe before you buy. The famous 7-check test enables you to compare directly with any other set. Get a test list from your nearest Grebe dealer.

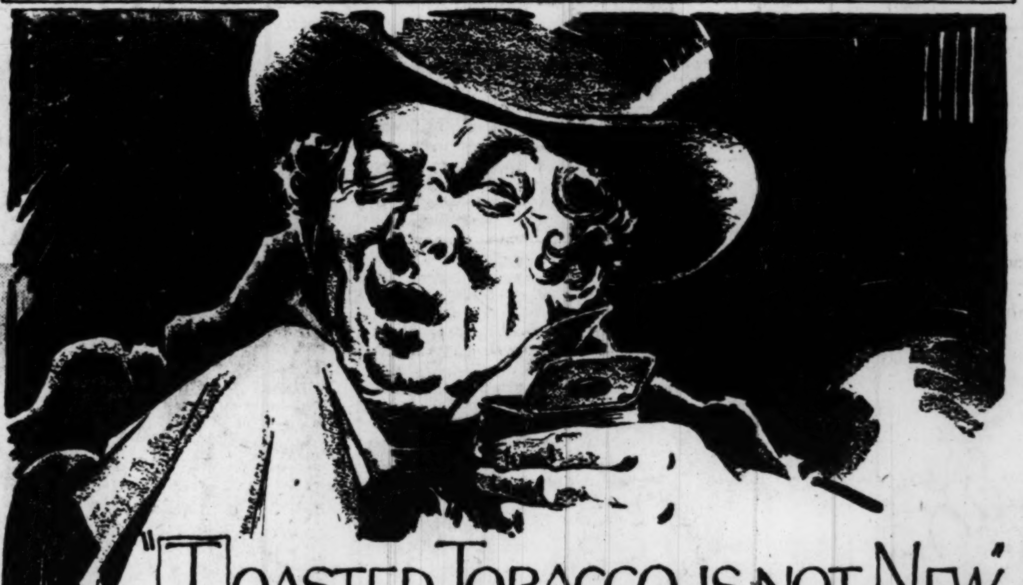
HOW IT BEGAN

By RUSS MURPHY



"TOASTED TOBACCO IS NOT NEW"

© 1930

LUNDY FOOT, THE CELEBRATED SNUFF MANUFACTURER, ORIGINALLY KEPT A SMALL TOBACCO SHOP IN LIMERICK...ONE NIGHT HIS SHOP BURNED TO THE GROUND..AS HE MOURNFULLY CONTEMPLATED THE RUINS SOME POOR NEIGHBORS, GROPING AMONG THE EMBERS, STUMBLED UPON SEVERAL CANISTERS OF UNCONSUMED BUT HALF-BURNED SNUFF...THEY FOUND IT SO PLEASANT THEY LOADED THEIR POCKETS...LUNDY IMITATED THEIR EXAMPLE, AND FOUND THAT THE BAKING PROCESS HAD GIVEN HIS PRODUCT A GREATLY IMPROVED FLAVOR...ACTING UPON THE HINT, HE SET UP A NEW PLACE WITH OVENS TO BAKE SNUFF, AND EVENTUALLY AMASSED A GREAT FORTUNE.—

MINIATURE PORTRAITS—IN THE GOLDEN DAYS OF ROMAN LITERATURE, TO BE A SUCCESSFUL AUTHOR WAS ALMOST AS GREAT AS TO BE A KING...ONE OF THEIR VANITIES WAS TO INSIST THAT THEIR PORTRAITS BE PAINTED IN THEIR PARCHMENT BOOKS...THIS WORK WAS DONE BY ARTISTS CALLED "MINIATORES", HENCE THE WORD MINIATURE, AS APPLIED TO SMALL PORTRAITS.—

"PIANO"... THE FIRST GENUINE PIANO WAS BUILT IN FLORENCE, ITALY IN 1709. BARTOLOMEO CRISTOFORI WAS THE DESIGNER OF THIS INSTRUMENT, AND HE NAMED IT PIANOFORTE, AFTER THE ITLALIAN WORDS FOR "SOFT" AND "LOUD" BECAUSE IT COULD BE PLAYED EITHER WAY...

Where did the expression "robbing Peter to pay Paul" originate? What is the origin of the word "bankrupt"? Answers tomorrow.

How to Launder Fine Laces

IF you are a lover of laces you are bound to want to do some of your own sometimes instead of sending them to the cleaners, just because they are yours and because you love the very "feel" of them, as I heard one woman say of hers.

If the lace is old or even if it is of a particular delicate texture it will not bear washing, so it should be laid on a white cloth, spread out with exceeding care that it is not stretched at any point to spoil its regular outline or disturb its pattern. Then it should be brushed ever so lightly with magnesia and French chalk. A fresh powder puff or a very soft, long-bristled brush may be used, with a second brush to dust off the chalk after it has done its perfect work. As a final move, the lace should be taken from the white cloth and laid carefully on a second one, preferably a white Turkish towel, and brushed again. This process will have sifted from it every particle of dust and grime. Then the lace, still without stretching the slightest bit should be wound over a strip of cotton, if it is yard lace, or otherwise on a piece to cover it.

Lace washed in the ordinary way will lose its filmy appearance, which is its chief beauty, for it is bound to shrink and thicken the instant water touches. For washing such laces as Honiton, duchess and similar ones there is nothing like rice water or water in which a small piece of gum arabic has been boiled. One-half cup of rice to two quarts of water soaked in it for about an hour, then strained, is the procedure. The lace should be allowed to remain in the strained water about half an hour, then dried between two towels.

If fine laces are yellow, as frequently they are, they may be bleached in the sun. Dipping first in soapy water helps and so too results are more satisfactory if they are placed on grass where the direct rays of the sun reach them.

Cotton and linen laces, the edgings, can be gently washed in water with a good white soap and then squeezed and patted and smoothed dry. Some of them can be ironed by placing them right side down on a Turkish towel, a cloth laid over, then pressed lightly.

Blue Crepe Frock

SEVERELY smart is the blue flat crepe afternoon dress worn by Miss Betty Larimer of Washington. It has a very high waistline and is made tight to the hips where it flares into a wide skirt. The tight sleeves are finished at the wrists with small buttons covered with the dress material. The V neck is finished with a large button to match those on the wrists.

I HAVE JOINED A NEW CLUB
WHAT KIND?
AN ANTI SMOKING CLUB
HOW EXCITING!
COME WITH ME IT'S JUST AROUND THE CORNER
THIS IS THE BRIDGE ROOM
ANTI SMOKING CLUB
I SMELL TOBACCO!
YES, IT'S THE SMOKING ROOM
A SMOKING ROOM IN AN ANTI SMOKING CLUB!
IF IT WASN'T FOR THE PROFIT WE MAKE FROM THE SALE OF TOBACCO WE COULDN'T PAY THE RENT

HOORAY, CICERO'S HUDDLE PLAYS PURDUE TOMORROW!
IT WILL BE A CLOSE GAME, I HOPE!
CLOSE? WHY CICERO HAS INVENTED A NEW HUDDLE: THE ELEVEN MEN ALL GET INTO ONE RACCOON COAT AND GIVE THREE LONG HUDDLES FOR GOOD OLD YALEBURGH!
THEY SAY THOSE PURDUE MEN ARE DANGEROUS HUDDLERS!
THEY COULDN'T HUDDLE AROUND FREE LUNCH! I'M TRAINING THE YALEBURGH HUDDLE. I'VE GOT 'EM SO EXPERT THEY CAN'T STAND UP WITHOUT LEANING ON SOMEBODY!
WHO ARE THOSE GUYS STANDING IN THAT WASH TUB?
Z-Z-Z-Z Z-Z-Z
NICKEL SEATS
THAT'S MY YALEBURGH HUDDLE. BUT THEY WON'T BE PERFECT UNTIL I GET 'EM ALL IN A WATER BUCKET!

DOES MIDAS EVER SPEAK ABOUT ME?
OH, YES... LOTS OF TIMES
DOES HE SAY NICE THINGS ABOUT ME?
DO YOU LIKE HORSES?
WHAT'S THAT GOT TO DO WITH IT? SURE, I LIKE HORSES

OH, I FEEL SO HAPPY TODAY.
SHE WOULDN'T FEEL SO HAPPY IF SHE KNEW I HID A HUNDRED DOLLARS IN THAT OLD COAT OF MINE
..I DID A GOOD DEED TODAY
YES?
YOU KNOW THAT OLD COAT OF YOURS?
I GAVE IT TO A POOR MAN
WOW!

St. Louis' Most Important One Day Merchandising Event

The Greatest Values of the Year!

St. Louisans will welcome this news! And prices, now, are at a lower level than you ever dreamed they would be. Those who buy for entire families can supply the Fall and Winter needs of all . . . at prices that would ordinarily only meet the needs of one or two.

We Are Positive It Will Be the Greatest NUGENT DAY in Our History

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of Fall and Winter needs bought on new commodity price level, and in such quantities that the amazingly low prices will make you look wide-eyed in wonder. Shop until 9:00 p. m.
